Jew, Catholic, Protestant.
Self-Reliant Rum.
Hard to Beat Oil.
To Improve Marriage.
—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

CALVIN COOLIDGE, Governor Smith and the distinguished philanthropist, Julius Rosenwald, are selected to dispose of an $8,000,000 charity fund left by Conrad Hubert.

The man who left the money wanted it distributed "by one Jew, one Protestant and one Catholic."

BUT why Jew, Protestant, Catholic?

There is too much emphasizing of "Jew, Protestant, Catholic," too much dividing of political offices among them.

That wasn't the idea of the men that established this country.

GOVERNMENT prohibition enforcement made an interesting discovery capturing a well-organized bootleg fort on the highlands of New Jersey, near the Narrows, where the big rum ships came sailing in.

It was a well-equipped fort, with sawed-off shotguns, machine guns, pistols, searchlights and radios to direct rum vessels.

The government believes that this one bootleg institution did a business of $1,000,000 a week.

THE government seizure did not disturb bootleg leaders, well entrenched and self confident. Their chief said to a reporter: "This is just a little incident. If you want to order a thousand cases of whisky, I'll deliver it to you in twenty-five minutes. We'll be doing business as usual in twenty-four hours, with our men out on bail."

THE strike of the teamsters against the big oil companies of New York is said to be collapsing. Oil companies say they have won the fight. Many men are returning to work.

It is not easy for organized labor in these days to fight organized capital.

THE cost of living is high. It makes no difference to the oil companies whether they take in fifty millions of dollars more or less.

It makes a great difference to a teamster whether he takes in fifty dollars a week or nothing.

GREAT BRITAIN proposes to bar from marriage the "mentally unfit." That might improve the human race, if you could identify the mentally unfit with certainty.

Some unfit will be exempt from matrimonial ostracism because they possess fortunes or important titles, or names.

Others mentally unfit will escape because they are only dull, belonging to the negative class that Dante put into one of hell's disagreeable compartments.

VISCOUNT AQUILAR, physician to King Alfonso of Spain, tells Chicago that the Kings "is in beautiful health because he has never been a man of regular habits."

He means that King Alfonso does not confine himself to any particular diet, which is intelligent. Man was made to cultivate the whole earth, and is healthiest when he uses in moderation the greatest number of earth's products, from the North to the South Pole.

Charles Fourier said that if a man could read his own palate he would find it to be a correct map of the earth properly cultivated.

THE French will go to the naval limitation conference with definite restrictions.

France will not consent to reduction in her cruiser tonnage.

France will not consent to abolition of submarines, or even to the suggestion that they be limited in size to 600 tons. "The defense of France requires 2,000-ton submarines. Therefore, we shall build them."

The Italians have exactly the same idea, but they don't even take the trouble to state it. A few words from Mussolini will make that clear.

A REAL heavyweight is coming, named Primo Carnera. This prize fighter measures 6 feet 10 from head to foot, and the steamship had to prepare a special berth longer and wider than usual.

That size is appaling, but David was little and Goliath was beaten.

SOLON said to Croesus, "Should any one come having better iron than you, he will be master of all your gold."

Similarly, the late Tex Rickard would say to Primo Carnera: "Somebody wearing a hat one size larger than yours may make you realize that mere size below the forehead, is not important."

OBSERVING signs of the unrest that sometimes leads to dangerous riots, the authorities of Joliet prison in Illinois immediately took measures "conciliatory and defensive."

Conciliations will do more than defense, for desperate men cannot be kept quiet, as shown recently in Colorado, even when rebellion means sure death.

THE best sort of "conciliation" would give men in prison work to keep them busy at fair pay to help their dependents, or be given to them when they leave prison.

The difficulty is to find work that will not interfere with men that have done nothing to put them in jail.

Road building, that would not be done unless by prison labor, might be a good solution, except that it exposes convicts to the public eye, and the sight of men working with armed guards over them is depressing to the public.

IT is very interesting to learn that the gentlemen supporting beet sugar industry have spent about $500,000,000 on their lobby in eight years.

DENIES BRIBE OF $100,000 IN OIL CASE

Voice Shakes as He Tells Of 'Loan' to Old Friend And Cites Own 'Patriotism'

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—One "old friend" came to the aid of the other in the criminal branch of District of Columbia Supreme Court today.

Benign in appearance, 74-year-old Edward L. Doheny, multi-millionaire oil operator, took the stand in the Fall bribery trial and explained the $100,000 he gave former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall at the time he acquired a lease on the Elk Hills naval oil reserve as a "mere loan."

Doheny wept as he denied bribing Fall, and his voice shook with emotion as he veered over to his leasing of the Elks Hill naval oil reserve—which, he insisted, had nothing to do with the $100,000.

INSISTS ON "PATRIOTISM"

He took the lease, he said, only after his patriotism had been aroused by Admiral J. K. Robison, who came to him and told him of a "menace" to American safety in the Pacific.

"I don't know whether I should mention the name of that government (which threatened this country) although I did before the Senate," said Doheny.

"Go ahead," prompted Hogan.

"It was the Japanese government," the witness replied.

Admiral Robison had urged him to furnish the naval fuel oil and storage tanks at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, as a defensive measure and "to make the American Navy equal to that of any in the world."

QUAKE 'FORTUNATE'

The navy officer had disclosed that Japan had huge secret supplies of naval fuel oil in storage, Doheny said.

"Fortunately, the earthquake destroyed all these storage facilities that were menacing us," the oil baron declared.

GRID DRINKING RULE ISSUED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Investigation of liquor drinking at college football games this fall will be left to the decision of the local prohibition administrators, under a ruling today by Assistant Secretary Lowman, of the Treasury, in charge of dry law enforcement.

He said as yet no concerted drive by the federal authorities against drinking at the games was contemplated. Local prohibition administrators, however, he added, will have authority to take whatever action they deem advisable.

NORTH SIDE BUS CRASH KILLS ONE

Railways Foreman Fatally Crushed as Service Truck Topples; 2 Drivers Held

One man was killed and another injured when a bus of the Nevin Lines collided with a service truck of the Pittsburgh Railways Company at Fulton and Liverpool streets, North Side, this afternoon.

Louis Stehle, 34, foreman of the truck, died in Presbyterian Hospital soon after the crash. He had bene crushed beneath the truck when it overturned. His address was given as Maytide street, Carrick.

Peter Servian, 28, of 1246 Penn avenue, also on the truck, suffered lacerations.

SIX ESCAPE INJURY

Two others on thetruck escaped injury and none of the four persons on the bus, all employes of the Nevin company, was hurt.

Arthur Learns, of Morningside avenue, escaped by jumping from the truck. Frank Sternitzki, driver, was caught in the truck as it overturned, but was not injured.

Earl Stewart, 20, of Thompson Run road, driver of the bus, explained that he was giving the big coach the usual test run. With him were three employes of the company.

DRIVERS ARRESTED

Both Stewart and Sternitzki were arrested on charges of reckless driving. The police report said the truck was going north on Fulton and the bus east on Liverpool.

The bus hit the side of the truck and toppled it over. Only the lights of the bus were shattered, but the truck was damaged greatly.

Dr. Eckener Thanks U. S. Navy for Maps

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The hydrographic office of the Navy has received from Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, a letter of thanks for the special maps furnished for the world tour of the German airship. On the globe-girdling flight, the pilot house of the Zeppelin contained several cases of aerial navigation maps compiled by the American Navy. Dr. Eckener wrote that these had been used to great advantage.

Citizen Dawes Dodges Home Town Ovation

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, ambassador to Great Britain, smoked his famous underslung pipe here today as plain "Citizen Dawes." He avoided a planned demonstration for him in Evanston and asked that he be treated just as any other person. He was expected to confer today with officials of the 1933 Century of Progress Exposition. The financial program was expected to be agreed upon.

Ishbel Denies Romance With 51-Year-Old Peer

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—"I know nothing whatever about it."

This was the statement made over the trans-Atlantic telephone from Ottawa today by Miss Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Britain, in connection with published reports that she is soon to marry Lord Arnold, British paymaster general.

The Premier's demure daughter made her cryptic statement to the London Evening Standard, which had put in a phone call across the waves in an effort to determine whether or not it was true that she had lost her heart to the newly-created peer, who is an "unofficial" member of the Prime Minister's party.

Lord Arnold is 51, a stock broker, and a close friend of Mr. MacDonald.

The reports of Ishbel's romance stated that, although she was not formally engaged, an "understanding" existed between her and Lord Arnold. Thus, it was said, in denying any engagement in her many interviews with reporters in the United States and Canada, she was not overstepping the bounds of truth.

Lord Arnold was commended to King George for the peerage in 1924, during MacDonald's first brief tenue of the premiership, "for meritorious service to the Labor party."

OFFICER SHOT IN THIEF HUNT

Daniel (Harp) McLaughlin, reputed North Side bootlegger, was in jail today, suspected in a holdup in which City Detective Florence Brunner was shot.

McLaughlin and two others were suspected of holding up Mr. and Mrs. Regis Carr in the Carr home at 509 West Lacock street early today and robbing them of $800 and a diamond pin worth $500.

DETECTIVE SHOT

An hour later Brunner, running down a clue to the robbers, was shot in Marion street by one of two men who fled. Police say there is nothing to connect McLaughlin with the shooting.

After the robbery Carr complained to North Side police that one of the men who invaded his home was "Harp" McLaughlin, one of the scores convicted in the federal rum investigation. He appealed his case and it is now pending before the State Supreme Court.

But in police court today Carr failed to identify either McLaughlin

Texas Guinan Loses $105,000 Truck Suit

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Texas Guinan, night club character, lost her suit for $105,000 damages against the Los Angeles Railway Company yesterday.

The company contended it was not responsible for damage caused by one of its trucks which collided with Miss Guinan's automobile and assertedly caused her to be injured, because it was being used by the driver to take a friend home at the time. It also denied the plaintiff could earn $5,000 a week, as she stated in her complaint.

Texas sued for $5,000, designated as the loss of a week's salary, and $100,000 additional damages.

Whalen's Men Learn How Sherlock Did It

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Don't be surprised if the next New York policeman you met whispers slyly in your ear, "Quick, Watson, the needle." Police Commissioner Whalen took all of his principal henchmen to a Broadway movie today to see the film version of "Sherlock Holmes."

County Heads Veto Plea to Move 'Ten Commandments'

The County Commissioners today voted to keep the Ten Commandments where they are—on the Fifth avenue side of the Courthouse.

The bronze plaque bearing the commandments was moved from the front of the Courthouse to the Fifth avenue side when Grant street was widened. Requests have been received by Public Works Director Norman F. Brown to restore the plate to the front of the building.

Commissioner E. V. Babcock declared that "maybe the people who congregate on the Fifth avenue side have more need for the commandment plaque." This sunny spot is a favorite with loafers.

"I move to keep the commandments—where they are," offered Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong. Babcock and Commissioner Charles C. McGovern voted "aye."

MOTHER TO TOIL FOR STRANGLER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. — To save the strangler of Marjorie O'Donnell from the electric chair, Mrs. Edith P. Dayton is coming to Washington where she will hunt a job to pay expenses of the trial.

Her son, Dexter Dayton, has confessed that he choked to death Miss O'Donnell, daughter of John O'Donnell, Pittsburgh and Oil City newspaperman.

Mrs. Dayton is expected in Washington tonight or tomorrow, according to information sent to Attorney Harvey L. Cobb, who will defend Dayton.

In a letter to Cobb, Mrs. Dayton said she would have just enough money to pay her fare here from Kansas City and board and lodging for a day or two before she arrives, but expressed the hope that she would be able to obtain employment.

"I am a capable housekeeper," she wrote, "and I am sure that I can obtain some sort of employment so I can be near my son who needs me more than he ever did in his life. I want to be near him until I can be of no further use to him."

5 Earth Tremors Shake Texas Town

BIG SPRINGS, Tex., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Hundreds of residents here were awakened today by the rattling of windows and bric-a-brac, believed to have been caused by earth tremors.

The first of a series of shocks occurred at 12:30 a. m. The last was registered shortly before 7 o'clock. Residents, who reported they counted five tremors, said the last was the most severe. All of the shocks were of a few seconds' duration.

20 Boats Sail Downstream As Crowd Lines Shores; Waterways Council Backed

The Ohio River canalization celebration went forward today with popular interest focused on the river pageant program. Highlights of the observance were:

1—Announcement today by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont that he plans to call transportation leaders together to form a council of transportation as a result of discussions of the need for such a body at last night's river banquet.

2—A score of river steamers departed on the big river parade which left the Monongahela wharf early this afternoon.

3—Cabinet members and the nation's leaders in the rail and river industries were informally discussing problems of transportation.

The colorful river life of before the Civil War was revived in Pittsburgh today in celebration of the completion of the nine-foot channel in the Ohio.

Twenty steamboats amid a din of calliopes and whistles cruised majestically down the stream to Emsworth and back as the chief feature of imposing pageantry.

As they lay in the harbor, moored to the Monongahela wharf, before their departure, they presented a sight such as has not been seen in Pittsburgh in many years. It was a spectacle reminiscent of river pictures of the old days when the Ohio was the only transportation artery to the west.

RIVER BANKS THRONGED

From Smithfield street to Short street they lay, side by side, their prows shoved against the shore.

The river banks were black with people. An immense throng looked down from Mt. Washington boulevard and Grandview avenue. Automobile traffic had to be diverted.

Carnival spirit prevailed. Toy balloon men weaved in and out of the crowd with their gaily colored baubles. Two steam calliopes alternated in playing songs reminiscent of old times on the river—"My Old Kentucky Home," "Old Black Joe," "Old Man River" and others.

Bank Robbers Get $50,000, Use Machine Gun

PERU, Ind., Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Six bandits, brandishing machine guns, sawed-off shotguns, and revolvers, swept into the heart of the crowded downtown business district here today, shot a policeman and a pedestrian and robbed the First National Bank of approximately $50,000.

Terrorized pedestrians stampeded towards every possible cover.

Five of the robbers dashed into the bank and aimed their weapons at 10 employes and customers, ordering them to one side.

Leaping into a high-powered automobile, the six men escaped.

OFFER OF LIFE JOB TO TARIFF LOBBYIST BARED

UNDER COVER WORK GOT 'RESULTS'

Manufacturers' Agent Who Sat With Rate-Making Senators Won Boss' Praise

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—"You have done a great deal more than we ever bargained for and undoubtedly the results which you have accomplished are far-reaching and will bear fruit for a long time to come."

This cryptic statement in a letter written to Charles L. Eyanson, "undercover" tariff agent, by his boss, E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, today threw a new light on Eyanson's employment as secretary to Senator Hiram Bingham (Rep.), of Connecticut.

The letter, introduced as evidence at the Senate's lobby inquiry, was written July 19, just six weeks after Eyanson went to work with Bingham. It was during this period that Bingham took Eyanson into two secret sessions of the Senate finance committee while rates were being fixed.

'WRONG WORDS'

Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, questioned Eyanson about the meaning of the letter. Eyanson twice contended that Hubbard had used "the wrong words," and insisted the "results" that pleased his boss were his activity in helping Senator Bingham.

"Isn't it the plain truth that Mr. Hubbard had information from time to time about the rates the Connecticut manufacturers were going to get and those were the results he spoke of?" Walsh asked finally.

"I don't suppose Mr. Hubbard could tell about the rates at that time," said Eyanson. He explained his chief was "very busy and did not inquire into rates on specific commodities, but was interested in seeing Connecticut manufacturers got adequate protection.

TEXT OF LETTER

The letter read in part:

"I want you to prepare the way for me with Senator Bingham regarding your tenure of office in Washington. You have done a great deal more than we ever bargained for in the beginning and undoubtedly the results which you have accomplished are far reaching and will bear fruit for some time to come.

"At all events, in the past the association, when any tariff matter came up, was always dependent on Senator McLean. Now we are in a position where we can handle it here in the office.

"Please help me carry out this program, for there is no question in my mind but that you could find forever a permanent lot of responsibility and useful activity for the rest of your life in Washington."

SIGNED SENATE PAYROLL

Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin, asked Eyanson if Bingham appointed him as a clerk in his office and he replied he believed he was a secretary.

"But you signed the payroll as clerk of the Senate Committee on Territories and Insular Affairs?" Blaine protested.

"I thought I was acting as secretary to Senator Bingham," Eyanson said. "I'm inclined to say I received it as clerk of the committee."

GRUNDY WANTED HIM

Eyanson said that Joseph R. Grundy, representative of the American Tariff League, called at the Gingham office "six or seven times."

"What did he want?" he was asked.

"Just as hundreds of others, he called to urge a raising or lowering of rates," replied Eyanson. "I assume he came to see Senator Bingham, but he was referred to me."

Asked if he had known Grundy previously, the witness said he had not.

"But I suppose every one knows through the papers of the splendid work Mr. Grundy has done on the tariff," he continued.

Walsh then referred to a newspaper interview quoting Eyanson as stating "Joe just called me to Washington."

NEVER CALLED HIM "JOE"

"I never called Mr. Grundy 'Joe,'" explained Eyanson. "He did ask me to come to Washington. I did later. Then he deplored the fact that I had left Senator Bingham and urged that I return to Washington."

Walsh wanted to know "what was the particular work Mr. Grundy wanted to have you do down here?"

"I suppose to resume my work with Senator Bingham and supply him information."

Grundy, who has been called by the committee, was at today's hearing.

THE sugar lobby wishes to set the Filipinos free, because if free they couldn't bring in sugar without paying a high duty. That would give home made sugar a better chance.

THIS information comes at a rather awkward time. Congress was about ready to free those dear Filipinos, and it would be a little embarrassing to do so, knowing how much money is back of their freedom.

CANADA HONORS MACDONALD

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Ramsay MacDonald today became a member of the Privy Council of Canada, continuing the precedent established two years ago when Stanley Baldwin was admitted to the council during his tenure as Prime Minister of Great Britain. Mr. MacDonald was sworn in by E. J. Lemaire, clerk of the council, which is a group of government ministers and former minister advisers to the governor-general.

After this ceremony at Government House the Prime Minister and his daughter, Ishbel, accompanied by MacKenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, went to the National Gallery where Lord Willingdon, governor general, formally opened a loan exhibition of British pictures.

Mr. MacDonald had a luncheon gagement at the country club with R. B. Bennett, leader of the Conservative party, the guests also including Lord Arnold and Sir Robert Vansittart. Miss Ishbel was invited to lunch with Mrs. C. H. Thornburn at the Chelsea Club.

This afternoon Mr. MacDonald and his daughter were invited to tea with William Phillips, United States minister.

CANADIAN RUM BOAT SKIPPER INDICTED

U.S. Charges Captain of Boat Fired On With Conspiracy; Agents Run Liquor, Trap 42

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—A conspiracy indictment against Capt. John McLeod, skipper of the Canadian vessel Shawnee, one of the boats involved in the operations of the North Atlantic rum ring, has been returned in Trenton, N. J., the prohibition bureau announced today.

The Shawnee is now a subject of diplomatic correspondence between the State Department and the Canadian government because the United States Coast Guard vessels fired on her outside American waters on September 11.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman revealed today that government operatives, manning the secret radio station of the rum ring, almost lured the Shawnee within American waters where she could have been seized, several nights ago, but the canny skipper became suspicious and pulled out for Nova Scotia.

DETROIT INDICTS 42

DETROIT, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Federal indictments against 42 men, said to have been involved in two huge liquor syndicates operating out of New York, Detroit and Chicago, were returned by a grand jury today. Fifteen of the alleged conspirators already have been arraigned, according to John R. Watkins, district attorney.

All but eight of those mentioned in the indictments are Detroit residents. The others live in Chicago, New York, Toledo and small towns in Ohio and New York, according to federal authorities. Evidence against the two syndicates was obtained by special prohibition agents working under direction of Dwight E. Davis, agent in charge at Detroit.

"The special agents," said Gregory H. Frederick, chief assistant district attorney, "assisted in running liquor from Canada to the United States and also received compensation from liquor chiefs for hauling liquor in trucks to Detroit as well as to Chicago and Toledo."

2 LEADERS NAMED

The agents also assisted in loading contraband on freight cars consigned to New York, according to Frederick. At all times the government men acted as bona-fide rum runners and enjoyed the confidence of their associates.

The two syndicates are designated by the agents as the Sam Rosenfield and Sam Miller rings. Both Rosenfield and Miller are now free under bond.

The indictments charge specifically that these men conspired to violate the tariff act and the national prohibition laws from January 1 to September 18, smuggling liquor into the United States from Canada by boat and then distributing it to Chicago, New York and Toledo by rail and truck.

Most of the importations consisted of beer, which was taken to Chicago and Toledo by truck. New York was the principal market for whisky, gin and champagne.

The undercover agents stated they were employed to run the liquor in their own boats for the syndicate. Government trucks also were pressed into service to carry liquor, the agents said.

ACTION ON BUS FARES ASKED

Harry Bastow, president of the Allied Boards of Trade, has sent a letter to Charles A. Finley, chairman of the Traction Conference Board, requesting that body to intervene in the fight to obtain a reduction in the 25-cent fare rate charged by the Pittsburgh Motor Bus Company.

In his letter Mr. Bastow said Pittsburghers are being unjustly dealt with at a prohibitive rate of fare. It was made plain by Mr. Bastow that the board's attitude on the fare question was desired.

Mr. Finley says that the Traction Conference Board cannot now intervene because the complaint of the Allied Board of Trade was filed with the Public Service Commission before the Traction Conference Board took the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company under its judicial powers last June.

DOHENY, FALL WITNESS, WEEPS

two years after Doheny acquired the Naval oil reserve.

A romantic story of the old days in the West, when men braved death in quest of gold and oil, prefaced Doheny's explanation of the transaction which the government contends was a bribe.

FRIENDSHIP DESCRIBED

Under guidance of Frank J. Hogan, chief defense attorney, the pink-faced, white-haired oil baron told how he and Fall prospected together 43 years ago and struck up a friendship that has come down through the years.

It was this friendship that prompted the man whose millions run into several score to make an unsecured loan of a mere $100,000, he told the jury.

Preceding him on the stand had been his wife, who attested to the same story of the $100,000 transaction. Mrs. Doheny explained the signature had been torn from the note Fall gave for the money simply as a precaution to have the aged defendant from the possible embarrassment of premature foreclosure should she and her husband be killed simultaneously in a railroad accident.

TELLS OF FALL LOAN

"I first met Fall in 1886 at Kingston, N. M.," Doheny testified. "He was working in the 'Grey Eagle' mine; I was working in the 'Miner's Dream.'"

The oil magnate explained that Fall, in 1921, had told him of an urgent desire to acquire certain ranch property adjoining his in New Nexico so as to preserve his water rights.

"He spoke of borrowing the money but from the way he talked, I gathered he was doubtful whether the people he had in mind would loan it to him," Doheny testified. "I told him that I was quite able to loan him $100,000."

McLEAN PART EXPLAINED

Doheny said Fall had spoken of borrowing the money, among other people, from E. B. McLean, Washington publisher.

At the time the Senate was investigating the oil scandals, Fall said that McLean had given him the money.

"Were oil leases mentioned at the time you were talking about the ranch?" asked Hogan.

"No, absolutely not."

The witness then said that at a later date Fall phoned him in New York and asked to borrow the money.

"I told him I would send him a check," Doheny said. "He said that, in view of the condition of banks in the west at that time, and because he would need part of it for immediate down payment, that he would prefer to have it in cash.

"So I had my son draw the money from the bank and take it down to Washington."

TELLS OF TEARING NOTE

Mrs. Doheny told of the note mutilation as follows:

"One day I returned to the hotel (in New York) and Mr. Doheny said to me: 'Mumsie, I've just been looking at this note. I loaned Mr. Fall the $100,000 and if anything should happen to us on the way home, he would be worse off than before he got the money. I'd like to have the signature torn off.'"

She said the signature part was entrusted to her for safe-keeping and she put it in her California safe deposit box.

Her husband repeated the story. He said he had told Fall in 1923 he should tell the Senate investigating committee where he got the $100,000.

SECURITY FOUR YEARS LATE

A stock certificate of Fall's Tres Rito Ranch Company was given Doheny as security for the loan in 1925, it developed. This was four years after the money changed hands and one year after the Senate investigation had developed into a national scandal.

Next, in connection with the transaction, Hogan elicited the information that Doheny had foreclosed on the ranch last spring to satisfy the loans—this in the face of the fact that in another of the oil trials it was testified that Harry S. Sinclair gave Fall $225,500 for a third interest in it.

Eight years from the loan, Doheny thus took over a property reputed to be worth $700,000 in payment.

By agreement, however, Fall and his family may live there for the remainder of their lives.

Order for $60,000 On Blackmer Signed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Justice Siddons, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court today signed a formal order assessing fines totaling $60,000 against Harry M. Blackmer, former president of the Midwest Oil Company.

Counsel for Blackmer noted an appeal from the decision. Blackmer, now in France, failed to appear when called as a government witness in the naval oil reserve cases, and $100,000 in bonds he held in this country were seized under a special statute.

Winston Churchill Calls on Hoover

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Winston Churchill, former British chancellor of the exchequer, called at the White House today and paid his respects to President Hoover. He was accompanied by attaches of the British embassy, where he is a guest during a brief stay in Washington.

DANCER SCORES WHEN CHIVALRY TRIPS THAW WITNESS

SECRETARY'S TESTIMONY FALTERS

Former Aid Admits Trying To Leave Doubt With Jury; Harry May Go on Stand

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Marcia Estardus scored today in her fight to win $100,000 damages from Harry K. Thaw for an alleged beating suffered on New Year's Day of 1927.

Morgan Pendleton, scion of an elite Virginia family, who was formerly Thaw's private secretary and who has been regarded as the defenses' principal witness, was tripped up under cross-examination by the plaintiff's attorney as a result of his high regard for traditional southern chivalry.

Yesterday Pendleton testified that on the day the attack is alleged to have taken place, Miss Estardus was alone with him in Thaw's apartment.

WITNESS STAMMERS

Today Samuel Seigel, Miss Estardus' representative, asked him point-blank what he meant to infer. But Justice Aaron J. Levy, who is presiding, asked:

"Is it your intention to infer something?"

Stammering and shifting uneasily in his chair, Pendleton replied, "I didn't exactly want to infer anything. I wanted to leave some doubt in the minds of the jury."

"You're a southern gentleman, aren't you?" the justice asked.

THAW AWAITED IN COURT

Despite his declaration yesterday that he would be present, Thaw was not in court up to noon today.

"I'll be there until the finish," Thaw told International News Service yesterday.

"Will I take the witness stand? That is a matter of the future and I would rather talk of the past."

Following this lead, I reminded him of his return to Broadway several years ago when this correspondent accompanied him on his rounds of the night clubs.

"Remember you said then that Broadway wasn't what it used to be?" I suggested. "Do you still think so?"

"Oh, bosh," he replied.

SILENT ABOUT TESTIFYING

Whether Thaw will accept the comfort or discomfort of the witness chair is apparently a secret kept to himself. His lawyer doesn't know. Neither does his confidential man, William Dennenberg, former Chicago police inspector.

In fact, it was quite a surprise to all concerned when Harry K., spick and span in a dark gray suit and with his white hair slicked back, strode into the courtroom during the testimony of Pendleton yesterday.

He tossed his overcoat to an attendant and sat down brusquely beside his counsel, Isadore Shapiro.

Butler Plank Road Project Approved

The County Commissioners today authorized entering into a contract for rebuilding the Butler plank road from Wimer crossing, Etna, to the Mt. Royal crossing.

The road is a joint project in which the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is to pay $430,000, the State Highway Department $282,000, and Allegheny County $82,700.

Two dangerous grade crossings and several bad curves in the road will be eliminated.

Dunn Gives Promise To Guard Taxpayers

Thomas A. Dunn, Democratic nominee for mayor, charged before the Henry George Club at its noon luncheon today that all the city's resources and employes are "first directed in political channels." He promised, if elected, to protect the taxpayers from extortionate rates.

GREAT HOLE "PUNCHED" INTO HOTEL WALL BY RUNAWAY COAL CAR

Loaded with 70 tons of coal, a gondola on the Martin Branch, P. R. R., broke a chain and raced a mile-and-a-half downhill to Portage where it leaped the track at 80 miles per hour on a sharp curve and crashed into a wall of the Waldorf Hotel, a three-story brick structure, killing August Hess, 45, proprietor, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Anne Skelly, 70.

HOOVER STARTS TOUR SUNDAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—President Hoover, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover and aides, will leave Washington late Sunday afternoon for Detroit to attend Light's Golden Jubilee at Dearborn, the Henry Ford city, just outside Detroit.

President Hoover will make the only speech of his Detroit visit at a dinner in his honor Monday night at the reproduction of Independence Hall, which Ford has erected as a part of his museum of American lore.

Following the evening's speech, the President will go to the reconstructed Edison's Menlo Park laboratory where Edison will re-enact his invention of the incandescent lamp 50 years ago.

The presidental party will go to Cincinnati Monday night, and Tuesday morning will be received by the committee arranging for the celebration incident to the reopening of the Ohio River's locks and dams system. The President will speak at Eden Park at 10:30 a. m. at the dedication of the monument commemorating the reopening of the river.

After lunch the party will go aboard a river steamer and start for Louisville, where, on Wednesday, President Hoover makes his address on waterways.

Motor Fatalities Reach Highest Peak

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Automobile fatalities in the United States reached a higher peak during August, 1929, than in any previous month in history, the Travelers Insurance Company reported today.

The report shows approximately 2,900 persons killed during August, a 23 per cent increase over August of last year and an 8 per cent increase over July of this year.

Priest Preaching To Students Dies

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The Rev. James I. Doyle, S. J., professor of English at St. Louis University, collapsed in the pulpit of St. Francis Xavier Church while preaching to several hundred students today. He was dead when his body was removed to the sacristy. Death, a physician who examined the body said, was due to apoplexy.

Russian Fliers Leave Seattle for Oakland

Orchestra Leader Held After Fight

Dave Broudy, leader of the Stanley Theater Orchestra, was at liberty on bail today pending hearing on a charge of assault and battery.

Julius Gardner, 40, fired by Broudy from the orchestra, accused the leader of striking him in the face and injuring his left eye.

Gardner's complaint to Alderman Raymond E. Schneider, before whom he filed the information, was that Broudy called him to his office, fired him and struck him after an argument.

The theater's management explained that Broudy merely stuck out his fists to protect himself from blows by Gardner. Neither plaintiff nor defendant would discuss the case.

LEADERS SPEED TARIFF VOTE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Aroused by charges they have mismanaged the tariff fight and reported pressure from the White House for action, Senate Republican leaders at a conference today adopted a drastic program to speed the bill toward passage.

Republican members of the Finance Committee will meet every day to consider amendments, many of which may be accepted without debate; night sessions will be asked and if this plan fails, daily sessions from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. will be proposed.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader, and Senator Smoot (Rep.), of Utah, chairman of the Finance Committee, called the informal conference.

Air Tour Fliers At Cedar Rapids

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Steve Lacey led the national air tour into Cedar Rapids today on the hop from Des Moines. R. A. Nagle arrived three minutes later, with John Livingston, of Waterloo, the leader in point standings, third. The fliers were to hop off later for St. Paul, the overnight stop.

Fire broke out in the grass across the road from the airport shortly after the planes arrived. Two automobiles were destroyed.

Foreign War Vets Adding Members

STAGE STRIKE SPREADING

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Seven Shubert theaters in Chicago are expected to be "dark" after tomorrow night's performances as a result of a strike order to musicians and stage hands issued by heads of the two unions in New York.

John J. Garrity, Chicago representative of the Shuberts, said the theaters never had had any trouble here with stage hands or musicians, and that both unions were under contract.

James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, expressed regret at the necessity of calling the strike, which is in sympathy with one in Philadelphia. The theaters there have been dark for 10 weeks due to differences between musicians and managers.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Joseph N. Weber, president of the musicians' union, who is attending the American Federation of Labor Convention here, announced that members of the union employed in Shubert theaters in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and other eastern cities would strike Monday unless a settlement of differences is reached.

Jews Open 'Sukkoth' Observance Tonight

Pittsburgh Jewry tonight will begin its celebration of the Feast of Tabernacles, known to the Hebrew as "Sukkoth." The chief object of the festival is to express the feeling of the people toward nature at large, a period of thanksgiving, joy and gladness. Sukkoth originally was an agricultural festival, marking the seasen of ingathering and closed the economic year in Palestine. Modern Jewry is emphasizing the message of joy and gladness which this festival brings. It stresses Sukkoth as the Jewish Feast of Thanksgiving.

RUNAWAY CAR DEATHS PROBED

PORTAGE, Pa., Oct. 18.—An inquest into the runaway coal car crash yesterday, which took two lives, will be held next week, Mrs. Annie Swabb, Cambria County coroner, announced today.

Mrs. Swabb personally investigated the accident, which caused the death of August Hess, 45, proprietor of the Waldorf Hotel, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Anne Skelly, 70. They were crushed when the loaded car demolished the kitchen of the hotel.

A derail switch on the Martin branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad, down which the loaded car sped for a mile and a half, would have averted the loss of life, authorities believe. Several similar accidents occurred.

The car, loaded with 70 tons of coal, started down the grade when a chain broke by which it was being lowered from a side track at the tipple of the Johnstown Coal and Coke Company onto the branch line.

Young Rockefeller To Enter Business

SHANGHAI, Oct. 18. — (AP.) — John D. Rockefeller, III, will lose no time getting down to business after his present tour is completed.

Logan Ferry Barn Burns; Owned Here

NEW KENSINGTON, Oct. 18.—Fire of undetermined origin caused $5,000 damage on the old David McCracken farm at Logan's Ferry hill, now owned by George Baton, of Pittsburgh. Two horses and a dog were burned to death, and a barn stocked with grain was destroyed.

OFFICER DENIES DEATH PACT

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The will of Mrs. Anna Bryan Ayres, high-salaried executive, who was shot to death Tuesday in a hotel at Wallingford, leaves her estate, valued in excess of $10,000, in equal shares to her three children.

Grace Bryan, of Franklin, Ind., a sister of Mrs. Ayres, is named as guardian of the three children.

Deputy Coroner James J. Corrigan today expressed the opinion that the deaths of Mrs. Ayres and William H. Gaylord, Hartford bookkeeper, were not by mutual agreement, but rather a murder and a suicide engineered by Gaylord. The mutual agreement supposition had been advanced by Medical Examiner J. H. Buffum, of Wallingford.

RUSTLESS IRON IN PATENT SUIT

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 18.—The Rustless Iron Corporation of America, which recently announced it had Sandusky, Lorain, Pittsburgh and other cities under consideration for a $5,000,000 plant, today was named defendant by the American Stainless Steel Company, Pittsburgh, in a patent infringement suit, filed in the United States District Court for the district of Maryland.

The bill alleges that the Baltimore company infringed on the rights of the owner of a patent issued to the late Elwood Hayes, of Kokomo, Ind., the inventor of certain processes for the treatment of iron and steel to render it proof against rust.

The patent has been sustained as valid by the United States courts and as being "a generic patent" and one of pioneer rank.

REP. MICHEL DIES HERE

Charles A. Michel, 61, a member of the Legislature, died at the Allegheny General Hospital at 9:15 o'clock last night. He had been ill since September 1. He was representing the Seventh District of Allegheny County in the lower house at Harrisburg for the third term.

Mr. Michel resided at 1108 James street, North Side. He was born in old Allegheny, February 15, 1868, and had spent his whole life there. For the last 22 years he had been in the employ of the city as a division superintendent of highways and sewers.

He was a meember of Weiterhausen Lutheran Church and of the fraternal orders of Eagles, Elks, Moose and Knights of Pythias.

Mr. Michel married Miss Anna Waizenhofer 30 years ago. He is survived by her and three brothers and two sisters, Daniel, Louis and George Michel, all of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Annie Smith, of Charleroi, and Mrs. Clara Ossmond, of Pittsburgh.

Offers $10,000 For Boy, Girl Born

WOODWARD, Okla., Oct. 17.—(AP.)—Desiring an heir to carry on his extensive cattle business, W. M. Ferguson promised his son and daughter-in-law $10,000 if their first born were a boy.

"An 8-pound girl," a nurse told Mr. Ferguson last night.

The grandfather, after viewing the blue-eyed mite which gave him the title, said he would pay the $10,000 anyway.

U. S. TO SPEED TRANSPORT COUNCIL LAUNCHED HERE

TRAFFIC PEACE MOVE LAUDED BY NOTABLES

Cabinet Members, Captains Of Industry Back Plan to Form Co-Operative Council

Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont told the Sun-Telegraph today that he planned to call together in the near future leaders in the competitive transportation fields to form the American Council of Transportation.

Mr. Lamont's plans follow the suggestion of James Francis Burke that such a council be formed to promote the existent harmony among transportation competitors.

The suggestion was Mr. Burke's contribution to last night's banquet in celebration of the opening of the canalized Ohio River.

Secretary Lamont was enthusiastic over the proposal. He said:

"I am glad of the opportunity to sponsor the co-operation among these big industries.

"The meeting will be in the near future, not necessarily in Washington, but at some place suitable and accessible to the greatest number."

The keynote of many of the speeches at the dinner, which was given at the William Penn Hotel jointly by the City of Pittsburgh, the Chamber of Commerce and the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange, was that the day of conflict between the railroads and the water transportation lines had passed. It was asserted, in effect, that there is, or eventually would be, traffic enough for all, and that development of the waterways would ultimately benefit the railroads.

Burke Urges Union For Cut-Throat Rivalry

Burke, as toastmaster, appealed for the substitution of constructive co-operation for cut-throat competition, and in this connection said:

"For the purpose I have outlined, I suggest the creation of a business men's organization, which might be called an American Council of Transportation, headed by the great leaders at this table.

"Robert P. Lamont, the Secretary of Commerce, who was chosen by President Hoover because of his broad understanding of the larger problems of American business, would be an ideal sponsor—in fact, the logical leader in the inauguration of such a movement.

"The Willards, the Atterburys, the Crowleys, the Bernets, the Taplins, the Dennys and the outstanding geniuses in all other lines of transportation who would gladly join, should complete the circle."

Atterbury for Linking Water, Rail, Road, Air

Gen. W. W. Atterbury had known in advance of Burke's plan and referred to it in his prepared speech.

"Waterways," said the Pennsylvania Railroad president, "do compete with the railroads, but so do the bus, the truck and the airplane. The whole tendency of modern railway transportation is to co-ordinate itself with highway and airway service, so that each can serve in the field to which it is best adapted. And that is the policy we should adopt in the development of waterway transportation.

"Now, the very conditions that I have outlined lead to my wholehearted support of Mr. Burke's suggestion of an American Council of Transportation.

"I believe such a council would be a splendid thing and render a public service of great benefit.

"As Mr. Burke so well pointed out, there is at present no agency entrusted with the task of co-ordinating and knitting together, in a scientific manner, the various forms of transportation that are natural supplements and aids to one another and should be made to serve as such. Until there is that co-ordination the public interest naturally will suffer.

"Therefore I would gladly join Secretary Lamont tomorrow in endeavoring to bring about a council of the character suggested, and I am sure that every far-sighted railroad executive in the country will see in it an opportunity for constructive work and extensive benefit not only to the railroads themselves, but also to American industry and public in general."

Mellon Predicts Record Gain in River Traffic

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon voiced in the following language the thought that there was need for both railways and waterways:

"When the railroads came, the importance of water transportation declined and at Pittsburgh, as elsewhere throughout the country, the railroads generally displaced the rivers and canals as the accepted means of transportation. Only in quite recent years have we come to a realization of the fact that our rivers also have their uses and that they should supplement other forms of transportation by rail, motor car and air.

"Particularly must our waterways be developed in anticipation of the time when traffic in this country will be so heavy that no railway system, however extensive and well-managed, can entirely cope with our increasing requirements.

"There is a very definite field for water transportation here in slow-moving and bulky freight, such as ore, coal and grain; and it will be fortunate in the end, for the railroads, no less than for the public, if a great inland water traffic can be steadily built up on a sound and profitable basis."

Kline on County's Boat With McGovern on City's

Mayor Charles H. Kline will be on the county's boat in the river parade today, while County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern sails on the steamer chartered by the city.

McGovern balked yesterday when the commissioners were asked to sign a contract to pay $10,000 to hire a boat from the Ohio River Transportation Company for the trip to Cincinnati by 84 passengers.

Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong replied that he had been invited on the city boat but that he would go with the county as he "always liked to stand on his own bottom." Commissioner E. V. Babcock said he was in favor of the county hiring its own boat.

McGovern voted no when it was proposed to set aside $15,000 for the trip, and it was carried over his protest.

Adams Felicitates City For Foresight, Progress

The addresses and informal talks were punctuated by applause, but most striking was the ovation given Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. The mere mention of his name was the signal for wave after wave of handclapping, whistling and cheering.

When the veteran banker arose following an introduction by Toastmaster Burke, the 1,500 men jammed in the ballroom arose, stamped their feet, and cheered. Secretary Mellon read his brief address.

Toastmaster Burke called on Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, who congratulated the district on its development, and predicted further growth. He complimented the men behind the industries on their foresight and desire to progress.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, who, Burke said, was too busy to speak because he was "preparing his inaugural address as governor of Pennsylvania," replied to the witticism with a humorous story.

Good Notes Significance Of Rail Chiefs' Presence

Secretary of War James W. Good also emphasized the desirability of co-operation between rail and water carriers, saying:

"No question is more important to the future development of our waterways and of our transportation problems in general than co-operation, which must be substituted for competition between railways and waterways. We must realize the fundamental fact that rail and water transportation systems are not competitive, but complementary; that their proper relation is not combat, but co-operation, and that any other relation is abnormal, wasteful and against the public interest. It is fraught with significance of far-reaching importance that at the opening of the celebration commemorating the completion of the improvement of the Ohio for continuous navigation there should be present the presidents of six of our great railroad systems."

Lamont Pledges Help Of His Department

Answering Mr. Burke's proposal, Secretary Lamont lauded the dinner party and the speakers, declaring that 30 years ago the attitude of business leaders would have made impossible such a gathering of men of presumably conflicting interests.

"But the Department of Commerce will be glad to co-operate with the various transportation systems," he said, "and we will do anything to help business to help itself. For that reason the department was organized. There is a limit to what government can do. It is our hope that business will handle its own problems in so far as it is able. But we are anxious to give our assistance when requested."

Fisher Offers Good-Will Of All Pennsylvania

Gov. John S. Fisher, speaking of the beauties of Pennsylvania, promised the state that the pollution of the streams tributary to the Ohio River would be remedied as soon as possible.

"We have secured," he said, "the promise of help from the bituminous coal companies to prevent stream pollution. Already 1,800 miles of stream have been purified, and for the benefit of anglers, much of it stocked."

He discussed the new possibilities that the improved waterways would afford, and declared that he was the bearer of goodwill from 7,000,000 residents of the state to those 3,000,000 who resided in the district adjoining the rivers here.

Following Gen. Atterbury's commendation of the conception of the big committee, three other railroad presidents added their promise of co-operation.

Willard Recalls Wartime Report on Development

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimare and Ohio, expressed his opinion on waterways, saying that while their development might add some differences among the various systems of transportation, he had, and would, encourage them.

"When I was asked to make a report during the war 12 years ago concerning the transportation systems of the nation, I urged in my report that the nation should develop a national transportation, and included in it—waterways. That opinion I still hold in peace time, but with this condition:

"That they be developed in co-operation, and such co-operation I urge, if it be placed on the right economic basis.

"And if we are to develop differences, it is much better if we settle them around the table than by legislation, and we will have more harmonious relations in the future.

"If there is to be such a council, I know of no one better equipped than Secretary Lamont to head it."

Crowley Sees Prosperity For All by Co-Ordination

Patrick E. Crowley, president of the New York Central lines, discussed the relations of the waterways and the railroads.

"Without much doubt the railroads will lose some of the traffic at the beginning, but our hope is that this additional artery will so increase the prosperity of the district it serves that the railroads too will prosper," he said.

"I am certain the railroad interests will co-operate with such a plan as Mr. Burke proposes. The co-ordination of the railroads, waterways, air and motor lines on sound economic principles should be of benefit to all concerned."

C. E. Denney, president of the Erie Railroad, spoke briefly on the assistance the waterways would give the coal and iron industries in the Pittsburgh district.

"I lived here 30 years, and I want to see Pittsburgh grow, so I'm for waterways," he stated.

Bernet, Taplin, Egyptian Minister Offer Praises

Succeeding him before the microphone were J. J. Bernet, president of the Cheseapeake and Ohio Railroad; Frank E. Taplin, president of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad, and Mahmoud Samy Pasha, Egyptian minister to Washington. Each presented his compliments to the city and the tri-state community being served by the canalization.

The speaking program was begun by Alex W. Dann, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange, and general chairman of the festivities. He reviewed the history of the canalization, how in 1875 Congress appropriated for a six-foot dam, and told the story of the rivermen's fight for improvement. Forty-nine dams provide a nine-foot stage, he said, at a cost to the government of nearly $200,000,000.

The banquet hall, taxed to its capacity, found many attendants using adjoining rooms for the dinner, moving into the main hall for the speaking. Gala decorations brought "ole Man River" into the room, a replica of a steamboat forming the stage setting on which a sailor band with "Capt." Danny Nirella directing, furnished the music.

Veteran Rivermen Business Leaders Attend

Running lights of red and green, illuminated ship's lamps covering the desserts, which were served in a room lighted only with dim ship lights; a Negro quartet singing Southern melodies and wharf tunes, fast dancing and Negro band music.

While no rivermen spoke, captains of the "water trade" sat in the audience. Among them were Capt. Thomas M. Reese, octogenarian ship builder; William B. Rodgers, K. Stamets, O. A. Ackard and many others whose names have symbolized river lore for generations.

They rubbed elbows with diplomats, financiers and industrial captains and political leaders.

At the speakers' table were noted guests, among them Bishop Alexander Mann, who, in his invocation, asked for a peaceful world, especially peace between England and the United States; James Rae, president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce; Paul Block, newspaper publisher; Mayor Charles H. Kline, Ernest L. Jahnke, assistant secretary of the Navy; Cyrus E. Woods, state attorney general; Donald B. MacMillan, Arctic explorer; Michael Gallagher, of the Taplin interests, Cleveland, O., and George Puchta, former mayor of Cincinnati.

At other tables were leading bankers, including R. B. Mellon; industrial magnates, presidents and executives of the majority of the leading commercial concerns in the tri-state district.

County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong, C. C. McGovern and E. V. Babcock, judges, members of City Council, congressmen from Western Pennsylvania, including Adam N. Wyant, of Greensburg, and other political leaders attended.

For the convenience, as well as the protection of the distinguished guests at the dinner, police and detectives guarded every entrance and furnished escort to the members of the cabinet. One unidentified woman braved the stronghold of 1,500 men and listened to the speeches, when the dinner had ended, from a secluded spot in the balcony.

Woman Crashes Into Trolley to Miss Child

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 18.—Helen Smallwood, Point Marion, Pa., woman, narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday when she drove her automobile from the highway at Thornton, near here, and ploughed into the side of a moving trolley car to avoid striking a small child who was gathering leaves along the roadway.

EGYPT'S ENVOY LAUDS CITY

Pittsburgh is destined to become one of the dominant factors in world trade, Mahmoud Samy Pasha, Egyptian envoy, said yesterday in an address at the luncheon of the Interclub Council of Pittsburgh, in the Fort Pitt Hotel. The completed project of the canalization of the Ohio River will do much to make this a leading trade city, the minister believes.

The envoy, himself an engineer, told of the great results obtainable after such projects have been completed. He compared the floods of the Mississippi with the floods of the Nile and told of some engineering work he has done along that stream.

noisy greeting as they proceeded down the Ohio.

FLAG SHIP LEADS

The flagship Cincinnati, bearing Capt. Oscar E. Barrett, president of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association, and other visitors from down the river, led the parade. Next came the Greater Pittsburgh, with Pittsburgh officials and distinguished guests. Most of the 1,500 persons who attended the banquet at the William Penn Hotel last night, opening the celebration, were on the Greater Pittsburgh and other passenger craft.

The larger steamers in the van proceeded all the way to the Emsworth dam. Smaller boats left the parade at Davis Island and waited for the others to return.

Promptly at 2 p. m. the gangplank of the Cincinnati was raised, bells in the engine room sounded, the mooring lines were cast off, and the steamer backed into midstream.

GUESTS TOO LATE

A moment later six Cincinnatians dashed down to the wharf in a taxi, too late to board the craft. The last passenger to go aboard was the veteran Capt. Thomas Rees, well-known Pittsburgh octogenarian river man. He was the guest on the Cincinnati of Capt. James O'Brien, master of the craft.

The Greater Pittsburgh was prompt in following the flagship.

The air was vibrant with the screams and shrieks of steam whistles as the great pageant, commemorating the fulfillment of a purpose on which 50 years of effort have been spent, got under way. Every locomotive, every industrial plant let go with a blast of salutation.

85 DELEGATES ABOARD

The Cincinnati tied up at the Monongahela wharf shortly after noon. She carried as passengers 85 delegates from down river points to the Pittsburgh celebration. There were 100 on the boat when she left Cincinnati Tuesday, but 15 disembarked soon afterward to continue the journey here by automobile.

Among those who arrived on the Cincinnati were Capt. Oscar E. Barrett, president of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association; J. M. Kehoe, of Maysville, Ky., vice-president of the association; Congressman Charles C. Kearns, of Amelia, O., official delegate from the House of Representatives; Mrs. Albert Bettinger, widow of the river pioneer in whose honor a monument is to be dedicated in Cincinnati next week, and James E. Howard, president of a boat-building company which has constructed more than 2,000 Ohio river steamboats.

Unable to reach Pittsburgh in time for the official banquet last night the, passengers on the Cincinnati held an elaborate dinner of their own on the boat. Members of the party impersonated the distinguished speakers at the Pittsburgh affair.

STEEL HOOP TO ISSUE STOCK

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 18.—The Sharon Steel Hoop Company has announced issuance of an additional 90,000 shares of no par value common stock, to sell at $40 a share on October 28. The proceeds are to retire bonded debt incurred in the company's expansion program, begun in 1927 and completed recently.

Present holders of common stock have the right, expiring November 14, to buy six twenty-fifths of a share of the new stock for each share of old stock now held. At the same time waivers were asked on 15,000 shares of the authorized issue.

The company was reported in good current condition and is holding in its treasury a considerable proportion of outstanding bonds purchased from time to time on the open market, officials reported.

The new units, including a cold rolled strip mill, are now in operation which tends to broaden considerably the company's market.

MERCER OFFICE IN DISPUTE

MERCER, Pa., Oct. 18.—The successful nominee as the Democratic candidate for Mercer County jury commissioner hasn't been decided. Clouse Emery, Greenville policeman, who thought he had the nomination only to find he has been defeated by Jerry Welk, incumbent, by 75 votes two weeks after the primary, has filed an injunction asking that Welk be prevented from running since he has already served five terms of two years each.

Emery claims the law provides that no person shall be eligible for re-election more than once in any period of six years.

Washington County Pair Wed 50 Years

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 18.—Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Post, prominent residents of South Franklin Township, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their home. Mrs. Ed Bottenfield and Mrs. Harry Miller, of Pittsburgh, and Dr. H. L. Baldwin, of Greensburg, who attended the ceremony half a century ago, attended.

Section Hand Dies In Auto Collision

DENNISON, O., Oct. 18.—Leroy Keeman, 18, Pennsylvania Railroad section laborer, was killed on the Cadiz pike when his motorcycle crashed into the automobile driven by Robert L. Hale, of Philadelphia Roads.

Dr. Petty Assists Organ Dedication

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 18.—Dr. C. Wallace Petty, Pittsburgh, made the address at the dedication of the new pipe organ in the First Baptist Church here.

Real Estate

Ground has been broken for the new store of McCann & Co. in the block bounded by Diamond street, Ferry street, Fourth avenue and Delray street. The entire block including 106x200 feet was purchased from different owners for a total consideration of $950,000. The deal was made through L. W. Monteverde, sales manager of the Real Estate Company of Pittsburgh.

The C. L. Saxton Company sold for George F. Schueler to John P. Rendinell two modern duplex dwellings on 68x130 feet at 6368-74 Forward avenue, Squirrel Hill, for $35,000. In part payment, Mr. Rendinell conveyed a three-story brick building and service station and restaurant business at 3746 Wickliffe boulevard, Youngstown, O., for $30,000.

Mendell's, Inc., chain hosiery shop, have leased for a long term a room at 407 Federal street, North Side. The deal was made through the E. A. Hess Company and Harry Dunn.

In Crafton, Mrs. Anna Glazier has sold to St. Mathew's Evangelical Lutheran Church 50x117 feet of vacant adjoining the church at Stueben and Lincoln avenues. It is planned to move the present church building on the lot and use it as a chapel in connection with a new edifice.

A property in Castle Shannon road, Mt. Lebanon, has been sold by William F. Cole to J. A. West. The lot is 60x101 feet.

Calvary Evangelical Lutheran Church of Natrona Heights has conveyed to E. G. Wolfe 54x142 feet in Cambridge street, Harrison Township.

A house on 25x120 feet in Cologne street, South Side, has been sold by Alfred E. Grossman to William Droste for $8,000.

A dwelling in Princeton avenue, Overbrook, lot 30x110 feet, has been sold by Harold S. Lovett to George W. Watkins for $6,700.

Building permit applications included:

FEE AWARDED AFTER 2 YEARS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 18.—Another chapter in the R. Clyde Segner case, in which Washington County lost over $25,000 through the peculations of a former clerk in the office of Controller T. J. Underwood, was written when the Controller finally approved an $18,000 voucher for the services of Attorney A. M. Linn after more than two years. Linn was employed as associate counsel when the county started proceedings to collect the $25,000, and also fix responsibility for the shortage.

Controller Underwood, in whose office Segner was employed when he secured and presented for payment a second time, interest coupons and bonds, objected to Linn's fee, claiming it was not necessary to have employed him.

EX-RAILROADER HELD IN WRECK

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—William Breese, 46, discharged railroad employe, was arrested last night on suspicion in connection with the wrecking of a speeding Pennsylvania Railroad express freight train nine miles east of here late Wednesday night.

Breese denied any part in the wreck, in which three members of the train crew were slightly hurt. He said he was at home when the wreck occurred.

Sheriff George Winkler, of Marion County, said a grievance against the railroad because of an injury suffered while he was an employe, is believed to have prompted Breese to loosen a rail which caused the wreck. Breese was discharged about two weeks ago.

Husband Who Shot Wife, Self, Jailed

BEAVER, Pa., Oct. 18.—Sufficiently recovered to leave his bed at the Rochester Hospital, Harry Foltz, 35, of Aliquippa, who shot his wife, Mrs. Mazie Foltz, and then himself, was placed in the county jail, where he will be held pending the outcome of the woman's injuries.

Youth Injured At Plant Dies

MONACA, Pa., Oct. 18.—Raymond Guinn, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Guinn, Monaca, injured October 8 when struck by a truck while at work in the Phoenix glass plant here, died in the Rochester Hospital. He had suffered a fractured skull and leg. The truck, driven by Lawrence Crum, Rochester, was owned by the glass company and was operating through the plant yard when the accident occurred.

Lonaconing Mine Cuts Wage Scale

LONACONING, Md., Oct. 18.—Reduction in wages for about 200 men employed at the Detmold mine of the Maryland Coal Company has gone into effect. The men have continued working. Laborers have been cut from $4 to $3.60 a day and the new rate for mining and loading coal is 50 cents a ton, a reduction of 17 cents.

Seton Hill Ready To Open Building

West Finley Man Stricken in Home

or George Butler, 29, and Richard Butler, 33.

"I'm not exactly sure," Carr explained.

Magistrate Edward Hough held three for investigation.

Police, answering a call to the home of Carr, were told that when Carr and his wife returned home they were met in the hallway by a man who covered them with a revolver. Forced into the dining room they were confronted by two others, who displayed revolvers. One of the men, Carr said, took Mrs. Carr into a front room, while the others forced him to open a small safe, from which they took the money and jewelry.

BURGLAR TOOLS IN AUTO

Police found an automobile parked opposite the house, in which they said were hammers and burglar tools.

Carr furnished descriptions of the men to Detectives Thomas Morgan and Frank Connelly, who went to Woods Run and arrested three men who said they were George Butler, 29, of 1707 Laurel street; his brother, Richard Butler, 33, of 1611 Metropolitan street, and Daniel McLaughlin, 30, of 1382 Catoctin street.

About the same time a policeman watching the automobile left in front of Carr's home, arrested a man who attempted to drive it away. At the police station he said he was John G. Elean, 22, of 85 Magee street.

Elean told police that he met a man at Smithfield street and Oliver avenue who offered him $10 to drive the automobile from the North Side back to the corner, telling him that if he did not meet him there to drive it out Fifth avenue. Elean consented and was driven in a large machine to Carr's home, where the automobile was pointed out by the man, who drove rapidly away.

SLEUTH SHOT DOWN

Detective Brunner accompanied Elean in the car to the corner, and not finding the man, they started out Fifth avenue. At Marion street Elean saw the machine in which he had been driven to the North Side. With Brunner he left the car and, as they neared the other automobile, a man ran from a house and opened fire on them, a bullet striking the detective in the leg. As he fell Brunner returned the fire but the man escaped.

'WITCH' KILLER CONVICTED

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—A jury of 11 men and one woman early today found Mrs. Pearl Burgess, 52, guilty of the murder of Mrs. Etta Fairchild, 76-year-old inmate of an old ladies' home, whom Mrs. Burgess and her husband, Eugene, had admitted beating to death with a lead pipe, "because she was a witch and had killed 100 people just by wishing them dead."

Mrs. Burgess' sanity was the point on which the jurors were reported to have found difficulty.

Mrs. Burgess and her husband were arrested after Mrs. Fairchild's body was found in a cistern behind the Burgess' home.

They did not deny the slaying. Their daughter, Eugenia, 17, was singled out by Mrs. Fairchild, they said, and they were forced to kill the woman to save the girl.

Mrs. Burgess later retracted her confession. Several weeks ago her husband hanged himself in his cell.

Mail Plane Burns, Pilot Saves Cargo

ELM CREEK, Neb., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—A westbound Boeing air mail plane was destroyed by fire here early today. Pilot C. V. Pickup, by a quick landing, saved half the cargo of mail. He was not injured. The plane carried no passengers.

Office Appliance Men To Hear Sales Talk

H. H. Kennedy, zone manager of Frigidaire Corporation, will be the principal speaker at a banquet of the Office Appliance Managers Association in the William Penn Hotel tonight. Mr. Kennedy's subject will be "Peaks and Valleys of Salesmanship." H. B. Cunningham will preside.

THRONGS TEST VOTE MACHINE

Many of the 730 persons who have tried the voting machine in the County Commissioners' office have changed their opinions about how easy it would be to "cheat" this recorder of election results.

The machine, set for the coming November general election, has been getting a big play since its installation Wednesday.

All yesterday there were groups about the device discussing its merits. Every time, what sounded like a logical argument as to its impracticability was propounded, Hubert F. Shearer, representing the manufacturer, was able to demonstrate by use of the machine that the argument was groundless.

"For 25 years and more they have been trying to figure out a way to beat the machine in Buffalo but have been unable to do so," Shearer said.

"The only way to beat it would be to have all members of the board agree to ring the votes up on the machine," was the conclusion of one ward leader.

Identity Revealed, Heiress Quits Stage Job

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(A.P.)—An heiress to $7,000,000 quit a stage here because the public found out who she was.

Laura Harding, 22-year-old daughter of the late J. Horace Harding, New York banker and chairman of the American Railway Express Company, had had a three-day debut in a $40-a-week role when her identity became known.

She picked up a telephone, expressed her displeasure to the theatrical press agent she supposed had given her away, and announced that she would not appear in the cast. She said she would return to New York.

Miss Harding decided to try her talent on the stage after the death of her father last spring. She had attended school in Farmington, Conn., and spent two years in Europe and played in amateur theatricals.

Young People Union To Meet at Carnegie

Moses M. Shaw, national secretary of the Young People's Christian Union, will be guest of honor at the annual fall convention of the union of the Monongahela Presbytery, to open tomorrow afternoon at the First United Presbyterian Church, Carnegie. During the afternoon the Rev. J. M. McQuillan, pastor of the church, will conduct devotional services.

WOMAN LOSES RING IN TAXI

The disappearance of a diamond ring valued at $2,775, owned by Mrs. I. M. Saunders, of 5801 Northumberland street, was being investigated by detectives today. Mrs. Saunders discovered her loss upon leaving a taxicab in the downtown district yesterday.

According to detectives, Mrs. Saunders was waiting for a bus at Shady and Wilkins avenue when a taxicab driver offered to take her downtown at a bus rate. Entering the cab, she discovered another woman passenger, she said. Later the driver picked up another woman.

Mrs. Saunders was said to have conversed with the two women en route to the city, and opened her purse, which contained the ring, several times. Shortly after leaving the taxi she discovered the ring missing.

Detectives were making an effort to locate the driver.

2 to Be Arraigned In Stolen Auto Case

Roy Stearns, of Bluefield, W. Va., and Kenneth Beach, of Washington, Pa., were to be arraigned before the United States commissioner today on a charge of having transported a stolen automobile from Barrackville, W. Va., to New Salem, Pa. They were committed to jail here last night in default of $2,000 bail.

LIQUOR RAIDERS ARREST 18

Of 18 persons arrested by prohibition agents and constables yesterday in raids in the South Side and Soho districts, Braddock, Carnegie and Homestead, 11 were released on their own recognizance.

Those held in $1,000 bond each, according to the agents, were James C. Williams, 44, a storekeeper, of 701 West Main street, Carnegie; James Oris, 65, and Walter Woodin, 16, arrested in a raid on a saloon at 33-35 West Main street, Carnegie; Henry Jacobs, 41, arrested in a club at 545 Heisel street, Homestead; Frank Zukowski, 39, of 2506 Carson street; Anna Young, 34, of 1719 Carson street, and James O'Toole, 22, of 2009 Forbes street.

Proprietors of six stores in Carnegie, and one each in Braddock, Homestead and Library were released on their own recognizances. Liquor violations were discovered in each the raiders asserted.

"I SUFFERED 12 YEARS; KONJOLA MADE ME WELL"

Theater Employee Tells How Famed Medicine Brought Happy End to Stomach Trouble

Many of the recoveries brought about by Konjola, the new and different medicine, would challenge belief were the actual facts not known and verified. Daily the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, receives indorsement after indorsement from Pittsburgh men and women who, to their everlasting joy, found new and glorious health through this new and different medicine. You, too, can find health and happiness through Konjola. This is a medicine that triumphs when all else tried has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. Get the facts about Konjola—learn what it has done, is doing and will do, and then decide what you will do about Konjola. Hear how it goes to the fount and source of the ailments, cleansing and invigorating and paving the way for the return of new and glorious health. No matter how long you have suffered, no matter what medicines or treatments have failed, do not lose heart or hope, but profit from the joyous experiences of others. Take, for instance, the case of Mr. William A. Collins, employee of the Triangle Theater, and who lives at 5468 Hillcrest Street, Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

MR. WILLIAM A. COLLINS

"I suffered for twelve years and then Konjola made me well and happy again. I owe to this medicine a debt that I will never be able to repay. In fact, I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for all the good this medicine has done me. During those twelve years of suffering I was never free of stomach trouble, day or night. I tried most everything recommended, but might as well have taken so much water. Often I was attacked by such terrific pains that I thought I would be unable to stand them any longer. Dizzy spells made me hold onto something for support. I lost weight and strength and really thought that my case was hopeless.

"I had little or no faith in any medicine and so when Konjola was recommended I scoffed at the idea of it benefiting me. But my mother-in-law insisted that I give it a trial, stating that she know of cases wherein Konjola had triumphed when all else failed. So I consented to find out what it would do for me. What a surprise was in store for me. Konjola went right to work, just as I was told it would do. Not a day was lost—Konjola reached the source of my troubles and invigorated and cleansed my system. Then it restored my digestion. For the first time in twelve years I eat what I want, without distress. Konjola gave me new and glorious health. Anyone can call on me at the theater and I will be glad to tell them about the wondrous merits of Konjola."

And so it goes—the same splendid story of success, wherever Konjola is known and given the chance to prove its merits. All that is asked for this medicine is the chance to make you well.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. There is also a Konjola Man at Dow's Drug Store, 5939 Penn Avenue, East Liberty.

SCHOOL FIGHT IN COURTS

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 18.—Ligonier Borough's dispute over the construction of a new high school building has reached the courts with the request for an injunction against the school board restraining it from erecting a new building.

The proceedings were filed by Mrs. Helen E. Hammill, J. Harvey Miller and T. C. Musick, of Ligonier, representing a group of citizens. Mrs. Hammill is the wife of Dr. C. A. Hammill, a member of the board.

One of the complaints is that a contract was let for the building of the high school to a firm whose bid was higher than another submitted. Dr. Hammill, one of the members of the board, is said to favor a new building for borough and township outside of the borough, to cost $55,000, but does favor the borough building.

Hunter Refuses To Risk '13' In Woods

BEAVER, Pa., Oct. 18.—Cicero Garrett, 55, of Beaver Falls, refuses to hunt with an unlucky number on his back. He returned his hunter's license, 1213, to County Treasurer Joseph J. Zimmerman, and purchased a new license.

"I'd sure be killed with number 13 on my back," he told the treasurer.

LISTERINE
ASTRINGENT

So many women have written us enthusiastically about Listerine used as an astringent, that we feel duty bound to pass the suggestion on to you. Furthermore, beauty doctors and dermatologists tell us that Listerine is almost ideal for this purpose. Next time you use an astringent in connection with your toilette, give Listerine a trial.

Note how it closes pores, how it tends to tighten sagging muscles and how wonderfully cool and smooth your skin feels after you have used it.

You will find that it accomplishes results equal to those performed by special astringents costing from two to six times as much. Moreover, Listerine protects you against infection. Though gentle in action and healing in effect, full strength Listerine kills even the stubborn Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) germ in 15 seconds. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Tell your husband

It's great after shaving. Doused on the skin full strength, it produces a delightful sensation of invigoration and coolness. And ends all smarting and burning.

VEIDT AND JANNINGS, VICTIMS OF TALKIES, HANKER FOR CALIFORNIA

By DOROTHY HERZOG
(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18.

AN amazing figure of a man pulverized Hollywood boolvard yesterday. It wore a B. V. D. shirt and a cunning pair of blue trunks. It walked with a long, swinging stride, knees bending generously. Over its shoulder was slung a home-made knapsack and in its hand it carried a staff. The face was weather-beaten and slightly drawn and through the shaggy iron beard gleamed red lips. Who he was. Where he was going. Why he dressed in cult style. Another Hollywood mystery.

News seeps from distant Berlin that Joseph Von Sternberg has finally corraled a good yarn for Emil Jannings and will megaphone him in it P. D. Q. Word also travels to the colony that both Jannings and Conrad Veidt—victims of the talkies—hanker for California. Jannings never hankered particularly while there. Being back is another story. Here, he was a big shot and many well knowners catered to him. They don't seem to do that sorta thing in Germany.

Emil Jannings

'Tother eve the local colored Thespians put on "Hit the Deck." Whereupon the "decker" on the RKO lot traipsed down en masse to get an eyeful and noise out a hand: Walli Macdonal, Margaret Padula, Jack Oakie, June Clyde and others of the musik-outloud. Artists will be artist.

location flick, one naturally suspicions George may be the man in the case. But Sue doesn't appear to be confining her dates to George.

She still sees Nick on the average of once or twice a week. They're still beaucoup friendly. But Nick has been devoting a lil' time to Dixie Lee, an attractive Broadway newcomer to the Fox lot.

However, it wouldn't be surprising to see them make it up. Sue has broken off steady going with Nick twice within the two years they have known each other. Only to go back to the steady racket. U never know . . .

Sue and Nick Still Friends

SUE CAROL'S announcement that she and Nick Stuart have agreed to call their engagement off is something of a surprise. This bureau has heard from any number of sources reports of their being secretly married.

At that, it listens as though it might have been a cinch had she used her own name of Evelyn and her former husband's name of Keefer—Evelyn Keefer. No one would have recognized the moniker. Had Nick used his own name, Nicholas Prata—well, that's another cinch.

Yet Sue calls the whole thing off upon returning from a coupla weeks location in Arizona. Inasmuch as George O'Brien was the hero in this

NIXON, ALVIN TO PRESENT MYSTERY

"Dracula," coming to the Nixon next week, is the story of a vampire, a restless, roaming spirit, that in human form infested the countryside from midnight to dawn, casting forth ominous warning of his coming and leaving terror and moaning mortals in his wake. Hamilton Deane and John Balderston dramatized "Dracula."

William Hodge comes to the Alvin next week in "Homicide," a play of murder and mystery, from the pens of Milton Herbert Gropper and Edna Sherry. Seats are now on sale. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday. Mr. Gropper was the author of "Ladies of the Evening," which was produced by David Belasco.

Kenneth Daigneau, in "The Trial of Mary Dugan," next week's production of the George Sharpe players in the Pitt, will portray a sister, who is charged with murder. Others who will appear in the cast are Robert Fiske, Gus Forbes, Mabel Kroman, Alice Ann Baker, Lucette Parker, Myra Lehr, Allen Moore and Norman C. Porter.

First Aid Classes Will Open Sunday

A first aid class of instruction for men and women is to be conducted at the training center in the First Baptist Church, Bellefield avenue and Bayard street, in connection with the course now being given for Scout leaders of this district. The classes open to the public Sunday afternoon at 4 p. m., under the supervision of G. W. McKellar, director of the training school.

Raiding Dry Agents Hooted by Crowd

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—A special police detail was called to preserve order last night when federal dry agents raided the saloon of Jacob Weisling. While the agents swarmed over the place, following which they reported finding liquor in several caches, hundreds of neighbors and pedestrians surrounded the saloon, hooting at them. A police guard was called.

GENTLEMEN'S English Flannel* PAJAMAS

Loomed and Tailored in England Expressly for McCreery's

$3.50

These will instantly appeal to the man who is particular about his sleeping wear, because they are tailored of fine loomed English cotton flannel, with a fine close-cut fleece that combines warmth with light weight.

They are perfectly tailored and sized, in a smart coat style with English collar and large pearl buttons. Striped patterns in subdued colorings that men will like.

Only because McCreery's went to the very source of supply and had these made in England is this price possible. It's a real opportunity to prepare for the cold Winter nights . . . when you will appreciate them most.

DORR TO STUDY CRIME COST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The cost of crime will be subjected to intensive study on behalf of the President's law enforcement commission by Goldthwaite H. Dorr, of New York.

Appointment of Door as expert consultant and advisor of the subcommittee charged with responsibility for investigation of that subject was announced at the conclusion of a three-day session of the commission.

Dorr's investigation will include such factors of the cost of crime as protection of property against theft and burglary and the cost of insurance against crime.

He has had broad experience in the administration of criminal law, having been assistant United States attorney at New York City from 1906 until 1913 and special assistant to the Attorney General in 1920 and 1921.

The commission set its next meeting date as December 3, but left the way open to meet earlier if the progress of the experts made such a gathering desirable.

No experts have yet been appointed to assist the sub-committees on prohibition, prison paroles and probation and juvenile delinquency.

Two Die as Plane Falls, Then Burns

MUNCIE, Ind., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Harry L. White, 38, a World War aviator, formerly of Charleston, W. Va., was burned to death in a plane which pancaked and burst into flames after falling 100 feet to the ground here. Paul Karlen, a student pilot, died of burns an hour later.

"HAVE MORE PEP AND VIGOR THAN ANY"

New Castle Girl Won Back All Her Friends Through World's Tonic

"I just lost my desire to go any place last winter. I had no wish to go out and spend the evening. I wanted to sit by the fire and rest all the time I could. My friends noted the change in me and after a few weeks quit taking me out. I was hurt by this, but I did not know what ailed me," said Miss Margaret Jackson, of New Castle, Pa. "This state of things kept on for several weeks, with my stomach troubling me much. My head ached and at times my breath was very bad. One morning I woke up with a sharp pain in my ankle. That spread until the whole leg was sore. A few days lated my arms began to ache. I thought I was getting rheumatism, and I took a lot of rheumatism medicine, which quite upset my stomach. My eyes got yellowish and my stomach ached sometimes as if I had appendicits.

"One day when I was especially blue I read an advertisement of a new medicine called World's Tonic. It told of how people all run down, lost pep and vim, and had stomach and catarrh trouble, much as I had. My mother got me a bottle of this new medicine. In three days it began to have effect. My stomach felt better. The aches and pains left me. My eyes cleared up. My digestion was good, and in three or four days more I began to note how vigorous I felt. In a short time I was my usual self, except that I was so full of pep and ambition that I did not know what to do with myself and could not find enough to do to fill my time. One by one my old friends came back, and they all say the change in me is remarkable. I have more pep and vigor than any of them, and I can make it lively in any party and then in the morning feel as good as I did the night before. I haven't a sign of my old troubles. That is why I think World's Tonic is the most wonderful medicine we ever knew about." This reliable World's Tonic can be obtained of Dow's (formerly McCulloch's), also May's and Mayflower or of any other first class drug store. (B-11.)

DETWILER, RAIL BUILDER, DIES

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Abraham K. Detwiler, 81, retired capitalist and railroad builder, died yesterday after a prolonged illness. He was born in Birdsboro, Pa., and began his colorful business career in Toledo, O., where in 1899 he became president of the Toledo and Maumee Valley Railroad, and later its owner.

Detwiler was builder of the Toledo and Indiana Electric Railroad and the director of the Toledo Manual Training School, now the University of Toledo. He came to California in 1903 and began large scale building and commercial work in Los Angeles. He constructed public utility plants in Southern California and ultimately extended his operations to San Francisco.

Mr. Detwiler was president of the Detwiler Corporation here and owner of the Detwiler Building, a prominent structure in downtown Los Angeles.

Mr. Detwiler, who was active in club circles here and a prominent Mason, is survived by five foster children, Mrs. Ruth D. Anderson, Deetta, Hope and John Detwiler, of Los Angeles, and Clarence H. Detwiler, who lives in Indiana.

MOVIE MARKET GROUP FORMS

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Frank J. Rembusch, Indianapolis theater owner, announced the incorporation in Delaware of the Motion Picture Congress of America, the purpose of which, he said, was to "buy pictures from producers and to handle all distribution of the same among its exhibitor members on the basis of a new profit-sharing franchise."

Rembusch is president of the new organization. In his announcement he called attention to a decision Tuesday by Federal Judge Thacher here upholding the government's demand for an injunction restraining 43 defendants, including leading producers and film boards of trade, from unlawful enforcement of uniform lease contracts and abritration agreements relating to motion picture distribution and display.

FISHER PRAISES NEW POLICE

Pennsylvania's new industrial police system, which went into operation today, succeeding the coal and iron officers, was defended yesterday by Gov. John S. Fisher.

The Governor, here for the Ohio River canalization exercises, said strict discipline, under a state-appointed superintendent, would probably prevent atrocities similar to the Borkowski case, which resulted in the arraignment of three former coal and iron police officers on a murder charge. The men were acquitted later.

The state industrial police, according to the Governor, will be responsible both to the commonwealth and to the corporations that employ them. Formerly the state commissioned the coal and iron officers, but they were responsible only to their employers.

"The eyes of the state will be on the officers," Fisher said, "and they must make good. Organization has progressed nicely and future indications for success appear optimistic."

Sons of Liberty Elect Pittsburghers

YORK, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Officers to serve during the ensuing year were elected and installed today at the closing session of the thirty-sixth annual convention of the Pennsylvania Council, Sons and Daughters of Liberty. The officers are: Anna R. Smith, Pittsburgh, councillor; Emma Homan, Gettysburg, associate councillor; William S. Wacker, Philadelphia, vice councillor; Sallie Loggendorfer, Philadelphia, associate vice councillor; Helen Bates, Philadelphia, associate secretary; Isaac Dando, Cresson, treasurer; Florence Hixon, Philadelphia, associate treasurer; Lena Bauerle, Pittsburgh, ceremonial guide; Sarah Dougherty, Philadelphia, inside guard; Charles Spoo, Lancaster, outside guard.

British Dirigible On Second Flight

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—The giant British dirigible R-101 soared aloft today on its second trial flight. Maj. H. G. Scott, commander of the airship, planned to keep it in the air for eight hours on a cruise over the industrial districts of England. The dirigible was manned by its usual crew of 38 and carried a number of passengers, including Lord Thompson, air minister.

HOSPITAL DRIVE RALLY TONIGHT

Redoubling their efforts as the opening date approaches, leaders in the $300,000 campaign for a nurses' home for the Pittsburgh Hospital, Frankstown avenue and Washington boulevard, today faced the last full day in which to obtain special gifts prior to the dinner to be held at 7 o'clock tonight in the Rittenhouse, Highland avenue.

Wilson S. McClintock and Thomas E. Doyle, co-chairman of the committee on special gifts, stated that an extremely encouraging report on preliminary gifts may be possible by the time of the first report luncheon Monday.

Three report luncheons have been scheduled during the campaign, which is to last one week, according to James F. Keenan, chairman of the executive committee. The two others are for Wednesday and Friday.

Mr. Keenan will preside at tonight's dinner, with J. Frank McKenna and John F. Casey, board members, as speakers. Brief addresses will be given by the heads of the nurses' alumnae association and the hospital auxiliary—Miss Margaret Iribacher and Miss Mary Hackett. Mrs. Myrtle Bierer Brice, instructor in violin, will play, accompanied by Miss Frieda Wilson. The present campaign's purpose is to provide funds for a five-story nurses' home, on the site of the old one, which has been inadequate for years and has been condemned by state authorities.

PITT RESEARCH WORK PRAISED

Praise for the work of the research bureau for retail training at the University of Pittsburgh was given by speakers at a banquet in connection with the twelfth annual convention of the bureau in the Hotel Schenley last night. The convention, which opened Wednesday, closes tomorrow.

Dr. W. W. Charters, director of the bureau of educational research, Ohio State University, and former director of the bureau here, lauded Edgar J. Kaufmann, president of Kaufmann's store, and H. M. Phifer, manager of Joseph Horne Company, for their part in the inception and development of the bureau.

Other speakers were Dr. Harlan S. Person, managing director of the Taylor Society, of New York; Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh; Mr. Kaufmann and Dr. David R. Craig, new director of the bureau.

"There can be no limit to the breadth and intensity of your problems, opportunities and responsibilities," Dr. Person said, in urging members of the bureau to carry over into their activities the newer pedagogical developments in the general field of education that they might better train the personnel of the mercantile establishments of which they are a part.

GETS 5 YEARS IN SLAYING

Convicted of second degree murder in the killing of his next door neighbor, Harry Smith, Fred Siebenschue, 40, of the Curry Hollow road, Mifflin Township, was sentenced to from 5 to 10 years by Visiting Judge Miles I. Potter, of Union and Snyder Counties today.

Smith was shot by Siebenschue February 1, after Smith had cut an electric light wire running from one house to the other. Assistant District Attorney E. T. Adair prosecuted the case, while Ralph H. Smith defended Siebenschue.

Tech Instructors Inspect Air Tunnel

Three faculty members of the Carnegie Institute of Technology were at Langley Field, Va., today, making an inspection of the government wind tunnel which is used for testing airplane models. The test is being made prior to the reconstruction of a similar, though smaller tunnel at Tech.

Members of the party are Prof. A. H. Blaisdell, head of the aeronautical engineering department; Prof. James W. Trimmer, in charge of the courses in aviation ground mechanics, and Frank Orbin, business manager.

OPIUM IMPORTS AGAIN BASED ON SALES

Federal Board Once More Fails to Act Toward Any Curb on Vicious Traffic

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The Federal Narcotics Control Board apparently refuses to mend its ways.

Even in advance of the meeting Monday to fix the import allotments of opium for next year, L. G. Nutt, secretary, has indicated the board will conduct no scientific survey of the medical needs of the country for drugs, but, as in the past, will determine the medical requirements on the basis of manufacturers' sales.

This procedure will not result in any material diminution of imports as the sales for this year will greatly exceed those for 1928. If the sales remain the criterion, the board will have to admit approximately 140,000 pounds, or 70 tons, of opium into the country next year. This would give America a per capita consumption of 10 grains of opium, which exceeds the consumption in England and the maximum set by the League of Nations as the medical need of any civilized nation.

IMPORTS TO MOUNT

And instead of slashing the imports, in accordance with the trend of the medical profession against the use of drugs in treatment of disease, the opium supplies will be approximately 40,000 pounds greater than for last year.

Plain inference that the board attaches more importance to manufacturers' sales than it does to a scientific investigation was given by Nutt in a letter which said:

"As you are aware, complete general information relative to imports, sales and stocks on hand is available in official reports published periodically."

Further, the board intends to surround the hearings with the usual secrecy, for Nutt declared:

NO OPEN HEARINGS

"At such meetings, representatives of the several manufacturers are also afforded the opportunity of presenting, individually, their applications for allotments for importations of crude drugs and are required to give data in support of such applications. At such individual hearings each representative gives information connected with factory operation which might be commercially prejudicial if revealed to the other representatives. Obviously, therefore, such individual hearings cannot be made public."

However, the law creating the board does not say that hearings shall be conducted behind closed doors.

A representative from the Public Health Service has been invited to appear, apparently in response to the appeals that the board obtain the view of the medical profession rather than the manufacturers. What weight will be attached to this testimony is problematical, as the board already is on record as saying that manufacturers' records reflect the country's medical needs.

Mother Saves Children From Flames

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Antonio Tacca, Hickory Township, saved the lives of her seven small children when her home was destroyed by fire. Firemen were unable to save the building.

Mrs. Tacca was awakened by the cries of her youngest child. She had just gotten her family out of the building when the roof caved.

TARIFF URGED BY DE VALERA

DUBLIN, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The annual convention of Fianna Fail, the organization of Eamonn De Valera, opened in the Mansion House with delegates present from the whole of Ireland. Many members of the Dail were among them.

De Valera was re-elected president of Fianna Fail. He made an address on his party's policy, touching on agriculture, the land question and tax reform. He thought the unemployment problem could be solved by enforcement of tariff protection.

Advocating revision of the Free State's financial agreement with England, by which she pays $25,000,000 across St. George's Channel yearly, De Valera said this sum would, if retained, suffice to finance schemes as big as the Shannon River electricity scheme every year.

AUDIT ORDERED IN OVERBROOK

Overbrook Council last night voted to hire a public accountant to audit the borough's books, and passed an ordinance providing for a paid fire department of 12 men at $150 a month each.

The action followed revival of rumors that the borough is "broke." Councilman Edward Meier, in reviewing the financial condition of the borough treasury, said that Council still has a borrowing power of $17,000.

The ordinance for a paid fire department provides that it shall not begin functioning until December 15, which will make the borough liable for only one-half of one month's pay, prior to the annexation of the territory to Pittsburgh.

It was decided to begin paving more than a score of streets before the borough becomes a part of Pittsburgh. During the last year, it was said, street improvements have cost more than $200,000.

MARIANNE by GLADYS JOHNSON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

In the little French village of Saint Vallier the call to arms summons all to the great war. The village schoolmaster, Andre, leaves his school and sees Marianne running toward him. They have grown to love each other and now under the stress of war the man avows his love. He folds her in his arms and kisses her, saying "I will come back—you're locked in my heart Marianne." After her aunt dies Marianne shelters four little waifs. One day she hears American soldiers marching into the courtyard. Later she misses her pet pig and finds it in the barn where the Americans are quartered. She retrieves her pet from Stag, one of the doughboys, just as Lieut. Frayne appears and demands to know if the men have been annoying her. Marianne, instead of accusing Stag, the American who had stolen the pig, tells the officer he helped her recover it. Frayne praises Stag. Later the doughboys are invited to a feast by Marianne.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V.

NOW that the hungry mob of soldiers had left, it seemed strangely still in the big kitchen which the firelight was filling with alternate bursts of light and shadow.

Stag was struggling with an embarrassment heretofore foreign to this self-assured young man. That scene in the barn had touched him to admiration and a little secret shame. Before the men he had worn his old devil-may-care manner, but under it new and softening thoughts were stirring.

The game little kid—shielding him that way before the darned M. P.... There was a little sport for you! . . . Not a whine out of her . . . Gee!

From the corners of his eyes he was watching the girl as she worked. Such a slim pretty kid . . . a man could almost break her in two with his hands . . . If only he had a chance to tell her he was sorry for swiping her old pig . . .

Confound Soapy and Yom! Why the dickens didn't they clear out and give a fellow a chance!

Behind the girl's back he made furious gestures at them. Soapy's face immediately spread with an incredible dumbness. Yom's eyes became black beads of exaggerated inquiry.

Stag felt his cheekbones burn. Darn their hides—horsing him like that! He continued in elaborate pantomime, a mistake, for it was evident that the other two enjoyed the performance mightily.

"Oui, Monsieur." A dignified little bend of the yellow head, but the girl did not look at him.

Again silence fell, broken only by the snapping of the wood in the fireplace.

Stag looked entreatingly at Yom and Soapy. They met his eyes with wide and knowing grins. He gave them a murderous glance and became desperate.

Moving close to the startled girl he spoke in a lowered tone. "Look here, miss, I want you to know that I thought you acted fine out there in the barn. It was darned sweet of you not to squeal on me to the louey."

Violet eyes flashing up in a long cool look before the thick lashes swept down again.

"I do not tell on you," Marianne answered demurely, "because the American lieutenant like me much. If you offend to me he shoot you queek. If you steal my Anatole again, though, I am no more darned sweet, I will go." She checked herself with a little gasp as her eyes flashed to the top of the stairs.

"Francois! Bad boy! Come down here to me immediately!"

A stir up there in the bend of the shadowy steps and Francois crept reluctantly from the place where he had been hiding and vastly enjoying the scene below.

As the boy came down in his nightrobe Stag spoke his astonishment. "Why—who's that!"

"It is my bad little Francois who should 'ave been in 'is bed an hour ago!" Marianne scolded the grinning youngster.

Soapy's low whistle sounded. "Well, can you beat that!" he whispered hoarsely to Yom. "An' her not looking a day over twenty!"

This escaped the girl, as did Stag's rather crestfallen look. Up there in the dusk which Francois was forsaking, her quick ear had caught a snicker. She clapped her hands.

"Nanette—little mischief! I know you are up there. You come here to me, at once!"

Nanette's little white figure crawled in view, clasping baby Sylvestre by the hand.

"Oh, dear, Marianne, we did not mean to disobey, but we heard all the noise and we couldn't sleep and Francois said, let's get up and see what the soldiers were doing—"

Nanette chattered her glib apology as she scampered down the stairs. Her small charge descended in a manner of his own, on hands and knees and sidewise, like a baby crab.

The faces of Soapy and Yom were a study in deep amazement. It was Stag, however, who voiced, rather breathlessly, the question which was burning in the minds of all three men.

"Say . . . these kids—they aren't ALL yours, are they, Madamoiselle?"

Nanette had flung herself on Marianne and was clasping her ecstatically about the knees. It was over her black curls that Marianne's clear gaze met Stag's concerned scowl.

"But certainly, Monsieur!" with gentle dignity, "Why else should they be here?"

"But—but you seem so darned young—" stammered the sorely puzzled young man, "just a—a kid yourself—it's funny—"

Soapy recovered from the speechless stage with a gulp.

"Say—if it ain't gettin' personal, how long you been married, Miss?"

There was a little ruffle on Marianne's forehead as she tried to concentrate on the rapid English. She considered this last, then broke into a merry little laugh. "Oh—marry! Why I am not marry, Monsieur!"

"N-o-o-o-o? Well, I'll be a Chinaman!" murmured Soapy.

"But—but—but—" In his excitement Yom gave an excellent imitation of a motorboat. "What he means"—(he was assiduously ignoring the black scowl Stag turned in his direction) "he wants to know—where is their Papa?"

The girl's face was sweet and pensive. "Ah, Monsieur, who knows? One was Belgian, one was French."

Stag interrupted with a murderous glance at Soapy, who had exploded. "Excuse me, Miss, I don't think we quite get each other. You mean—these youngsters, petites—they are yours?"

"Of course!" Her arms went defiantly about the children, who were staring with wide eyes. "They 'ave no one else now! These little one"—a loving shake of Francois—"'e was found after Verdun. My little Nanette, she was in a cellar at Amiens. And theese little mischief, Sylvestre—mon bebe Sylvestre—'e just come!"

Stag's narrowed eyes were slits of steel in his brown face as he turned them on Soapy and Yom, who were helplessly shaking.

"Now, maybe" — he spoke through clenched teeth—"you two will be so damned kind as to get out of here!"

"Oh—oh—oh!" Tears were running down Soapy's face. "What evil minds you two birds have got!" He was groggy with suppressed laughter as he followed Yom unsteadily into the night.

The pantomime was luckily lost upon Marianne, who was concerned with feeling cold little feet. Scolding. Buttoning nightgowns closer around the throat.

"Such bad little ones! An hour ago you should have been in bed! If you get cold, I will give you some very nasty medicine to take—for your disobedience. And little Sylvestre—that little bebe. Ah, Nanette, shame on you, to make him disobey so. Now," she clapped her hands, "not another word. Off to bed with you! Kiss me goodnight and RUN!"

"Goodnight, Marianne!"

"Goodnight, Jacques." She bent to kiss him and shooed him up the stairs.

"Goodnight, Marianne—" meekly from Francois.

"Goodnight, little bad boy!"

Down the line she went, kissing, scolding them lovingly. She turned from baby Sylvester and gave a little cry of alarm.

It had shattered her dignity. "Oh, no, Monsieur!" her voice a little laughing gasp. "You are too beeg a bebe to kiss!"

"Not even a little one?" There was a plaintive drawl to that which made the girl's lips twitch. He saw the smile tugging at her mouth and pressed his advantage. "I'm an orphan, too—Marianne!" he finished daringly.

"Ah, but I do not intend to kiss all the orphans in France."

"But I'd appreciate it so! You've no idea how long it's been since I was kissed good night."

She made a desperate grasp after her vanishing dignity.

"I do not think that so handsome a young man suffers from lack of kisses—even in France." Something disturbing about this tall young man smiling down at her with laughing gray eyes. In dismay she felt the hot color pouring into her face and she tried to speak lightly. "I save my kisses for my bebes. All I can give you, is—Bon Soir!"

She found that unaccountably he had moved nearer. The handsome, laughing face was poised perilously over her own, his voice was a low caress.

"You prett, thing . . . I see your Bon Soir and I raise you a Toodle-oo!" He bent and kissed her full on the lips.

Laughing he fled from the wrath gathering in violet eyes.

Upstairs, in the dark of her own bedroom, Marianne relived that scene in the kitchen. Oh, the unbelievable impudence of that tall young American!

Flash of white teeth in a brown face . . . the unexpected rough sweetness of that kiss . . .

"Oh, oh . . . Shameless, to think of it like this!" The girl pressed her hands hard over her hot face as though to shut out the disturbing image.

No man had kissed her since that golden day under the willow when Andre had taken her in his arms and told her that he loved her . . .

Andre . . . Ah, dear God . . . Marianne was suddenly crying softly into her pillow.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

—By ADELE GARRISON—

Family Humors Mrs. Ticer to Join in Family's Plans.

I FELT distinctly uncomfortable at the childish figure which I felt I was cutting in my colloquy with Anna Schmidt, but I could see no alternative. It was highly necessary to our plan for the protection of Princess Olina at the farmhouse that we have no unnecessary people on our hands. If this faithful old servant were to continue grieving as I had found her doing, a recurrence of her serious heart attack would be almost inevitable. And, to do Olina justice, I knew that the slightest hint of Anna's condition would bring her to the old woman's side, regardless of possible danger to herself. So I salved my conscience or rather my sense of the fitness of things—with these unguents as the old woman looked fixedly at me and replied to my question.

"I will never tell anybody what you tell me."

"Not the princess, not your husband?" I stipulated.

"Nobody, nobody," she reiterated.

"Then," I lowered my voice, "I will tell you one reason why I do not wish the princess to marry Mr. Noel. I want him to marry an American girl—my niece."

For the first time I saw the wraith of a smile flit across her tear-ravaged face.

"Ah-h;" she said, and I knew that I had hit upon the one thing which would make her believe me. She had not much faith, poor Anna, in the altruism of anyone. But if I could convince her that I wanted Noel for my niece, she would believe that I would keep the promise I had made her not to permit her adored mistress to marry the young American.

With an intuition that I would do well to say nothing more for a little, I kept silent while on her worn face incredulity finally gave way to belief and confidence in me. Finally she broke the silence.

"You good woman," she said. "I believe you. You want me stop crying, get ready, go away, so you take care of"—she choked—"my baby."

It was the old nurse who was speaking now, the woman who had cared for the imperious child princess. But I saw that she had herself under control, and that though she would grieve at the separation from her darling, she would have no more terror for her, and would be able to school herself to calmness.

"Yes, I want you to go to your home as quickly as you can," I said. "If you cry as you were doing, you will be sick and cannot go. Then you know, the princess would come to you."

She rose to her feet and drew her frail figure erect.

"You will not tell her," she pleaded.

"No, indeed," I said. "I will tell her only the truth, that you are a very brave woman and love her dearly." She put out her hand, then drew it back as if she were taking a liberty. But I grasped it with the feeling that a handclasp from so devoted a soul as hers was something like an accolade.

"Goodby. The good God bless you," she said and with that benediction in my ears I went back to the other room, finding it empty. But upon crossing it and going out on the veranda, I found Mrs. Ticer in a watchful, guarding attitude, while a little distance off, upon the lawn, Noel was engaged in an animated colloquy with the dour old man who had been in the service of Princess Olina.

"Everything's all right," I said hastily, as she turned to me, interrogation in every line of her face. "She's stopped sobbing, and is really quite calm. I don't think she will give you any more trouble."

She put her arms akimbo and looked at me admiringly.

"I don't know how you did it," she said, shaking her head. "You're a wonder. Ticer would say you had witches' blood in you."

She laughed comfortably and pulled out a chair.

"Can't you sit down a bit?" she asked, with one eye upon the irascible old man in the distance. "I feel as if I'd like that old coot out there to see us sitting and talking pleasant like—he's been lording it so long, and him nothing but a hired man himself. If it hadn't been for Miss Lincoln and the poor old lady I'd have quit long ago."

I humored her very human desire and sat down in the chair while she took one opposite me. The old man on the lawn lifted his head, glared at her and took a step toward us, then evidently reflected that he had no more control over her, for he turned back to Noel. Mrs. Ticer laughed softly at the little by-play.

"That almost killed him," she said, "but as the youngsters say, 'I should worry.' But," looking keenly at me, "you didn't sit down here just to give him an eyeful. You've got something to tell me, I know."

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A SIMPLE AND STYLISH FROCK.

Printed crepe was used in this instance. One could have flat crepe, or satin, or transparent velvet. Wool crepe and georgette are also suggested. This design shows a raised waistline, and a V neck opening finished with broad revers. The skirt flares slightly and has plait fulness at the left side. The sleeve is a fitted model. A three cornered tie trimming completes this pleasing style.

The pattern is cut in five sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. To make the dress for a 38-inch size will require 3¼ yards of 39-inch material. For belt, and tie trimming of contrasting material 1-3 yard 39 inches wide is required. To trim revers and sleeves as illustrated with braid or ribbon will require one yard. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plait fulness extended is 60 inches.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Household Hints

New calico, prints and lace curtains are hard to wash owing to the lime in them. But if you give them a night's soaking in warm water in which two or three handfuls of salt have been dissolved, the lime is freed and the task lightened.

To test milk stir it and pour it into a dry tumbler. Then dip into it a clean steel knitting needle. Withdraw and hold vertically. If water has been added to the milk, what is on the needle will run off at once and leave no film—or but the barest trace—behind.

Formality of Wedding Announcements

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Is there any other way of wording a wedding announcement besides just "announce the marriage?" My father is dead so I would like to use my mother's name just the same. I have read a large number of announcements but they are all worded alike.

M. G.

THAT is just what they should be—worded alike. For forms of this kind should be just as conventional and traditional as possible, since that emphasizes their formality. Better than "announce the marriage" is the more usual form: "Have the honour of announcing," with honour spelled in this old-fashioned way, and with this more stately form used. You show excellent taste in wishing to have your mother make your wedding announcement, and she should, as you know, use the form of name that she used when your father was living: Mrs. Henry Wood Goddard.

Wedding announcements, too, always include the date when the ceremony took place, the year spelled out, and the place in which the ceremony took place.

Gift for Young Girl

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: I am following your answers on etiquette. I wonder if you will please answer my question? You have probably answered this question time and time again. I have been going with a young lady for about two and a half months, and she will be 18 years old this month. Would it be all right for me to surprise her with a friendship ring? If not all right, will you please suggest a few suitable gifts? RAY.

I DON'T believe in a man's giving jewelry to a woman to whom he is not engaged, Ray, and so I don't recommend that you give a ring to this young lady whom you have known such a short time and to whom you are not engaged. Your gift to her should be of the most simple kind—a kind which you will probably not agree with, since you have been thinking in terms of rings. A box of flowers, or a corsage of flowers, sent on the morning of her birthday, or a box of candy, or a well-chosen book—gifts of this type are what you should be giving to this young belle.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, October 19

WHILE the planetary forecast for this day shows many important opportunities, with favorable prospects for ultimate attainment of the desires, yet there may be very active opposition, calling for indomitable courage and resistance. Large issues are at stake, with favorable affiliations with corporations or mergers, but it will take resolution and decisive action to push things through. These may bring about a desirable change of work or environment. Be careful against accident.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of making important change, with excellent prospects of eventual achievement of the goal, but it may require bold and brave action, with resourceful and indomitable enterprise to dispose of opposition and open hostility. Be on guard against personal injury, fire or loss.

A child born on this day may have splendid equipment for reaching place and power and may have excellent opportunities, despite possible open opposition and some menace to the personal welfare.

Many a foe is a friend in disguise, many a trouble a blessing most true.—Anon.

How to Keep Well

—By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND—

Foot-Care Essential During Cold Spells

WHEN cold weather comes the feet require a lot of care. Many and many a person will have chilblains and painful feet till next spring. Most of these foot ailments are preventable and curable.

Lots of us show little common sense in the way we dress in winter. We have a certain date for putting on the "heavy underwear" and another for taking it off. No matter what the temperature may be, we wear the same heavy clothing. We may perspire and feel miserably hot, but that makes no difference. The calender says we are in the season of cold weather and that settles it.

DR COPELAND

Thick, woolen stockings are worn from morning till night. In the warm house or barn these cause the feet to perspire and the stockings become moist. The moisture softens the skin and gets it ready to be chilled when the owner of the feet goes into the cold. Trouble is sure to follow.

The thick stockings cause the boots or shoes to be crowded and to pinch the feet. Perhaps the foot covering is too small anyhow. This leads to pressure on the blood vessels and serious interference with the circulation in the feet.

To guard against any harm that may come from cold, the first rule is that the blood must flow freely through the surfaces of the body. When you get chilled you beat your arms and chest. Why? To get the blood going in the surfaces.

You can see that tight shoes will prevent free circulation and prepare the way for uncomfortable happenings. These are inevitable if you fail to get the right foot-gear.

City people suffer less from cold feet than country folks. Most city homes have central heating plants. Not only are the rooms warm, but the floors are warm. Where the heating is from stoves the floors are cold for hours in the morning. The cellar under the living room is cold and this chills the floor.

Housewives, policemen, motormen, farmers—everybody having occasion to have the feet exposed to cold should bear several things in mind. In the first place, keep the feet dry. To this end change the stockings several times a day if necessary. Wear rubbers if it is very wet.

Have the shoes well fitted, but above all else have them big enough. They need not be monstrosities by any means, but buy good shoes and insist on having them properly adjusted. Provide yourself with an extra pair, so if you get them wet you can change to a dry pair.

Have stockings of different weights, so you can dress according to the temperature. Take pains not to have the stockings too short, as they are capable of confining the toes, producing corns and in-grown nails.

If you get home with thoroughly cold feet, don't stand over the register or put your feet in the oven. Take off your shoes and stockings and place your feet in cold water. Then dry and rub them with a coarse towel.

The Marry-Go-Round

—By HELEN ROWLAND—

We Moderns

TURNING a 11 o'clock lover into a 2 o'clock husband is the greatest sleight-of-hand feat of a woman's life.

The glow of self-righteous pride which a man feels when he occasionally wipes the dishes on the maid's day out, usually lasts as long as the average permanent wave.

HELEN ROWLAND

So far, man seems to have invented about everything the human heart can desire—except a drink that will quench the thirst as well as plain water, and something that will satisfy a woman's soul as well as love.

Woman's versatility: To be able to run a car with one hand, powder her nose with the other and take in the new fall ensemble which the woman in the other car is wearing—all at the same time.

It may annoy a man to lose his hat; it may worry him to lose his wallet; it may distress him to lose his wife, but nothing so completely bewilders and paralyzes him as to lose his keyring.

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments.

Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade-Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood, and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

M'MILLAN URGES ARCTIC RESEARCH

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

THE pastor of a Catholic Church in a nearby borough requested a great friend, a member of the Masons, to kick in with a contribution to the pastor's school building fund. He received in return the following letter:

"Dear Father: I think you got a lot of nerve. I hope your old school burns down and here's a check for $1,000 to buy a furnace."

Havey J. Boyle.

It was not the first considerable contribution made by the Mason in question, and as both pastor and the contributor laughingly agree, it won't be the last. In every case the padre gets a friendly verbal jab from his friend—and a substantial check.

TWO men were drinking in a local parlor when one, growing confidential, asked his friend: "Bill, do you think I'm contracting the liquor habit?"

There are times when every average citizen must feel good he is not a prominent man. The other morning, for instance, we stepped off a train that was carrying a load of notables from Washington, here to celebrate what is awkwardly called the canalization of the Ohio River. Well, there were solicitous police officials, a nervous reception committee, and a small knot of curious persons standing around. It is the guess here that every one of the noted men would have preferred stepping off the train, unattended, repairing to a hotel, unaccompanied, and after a wash, sitting down to read the newspapers. Instead of this they had to follow a program, which, not being new to any of them, could not help but being just a little boring.

As between not being noticed at all and being noticed too much, it is the guess here that the prominent men prefer the first named situation.

We observed that Mr. Mellon, the secretary of the Treasury, sort of eased away and made straight for the privacy of his home.

The special Pullman, of course, was no experience for him at all, but it is significant that just a lower berth is often his accomodation on his journeyings back and forth.

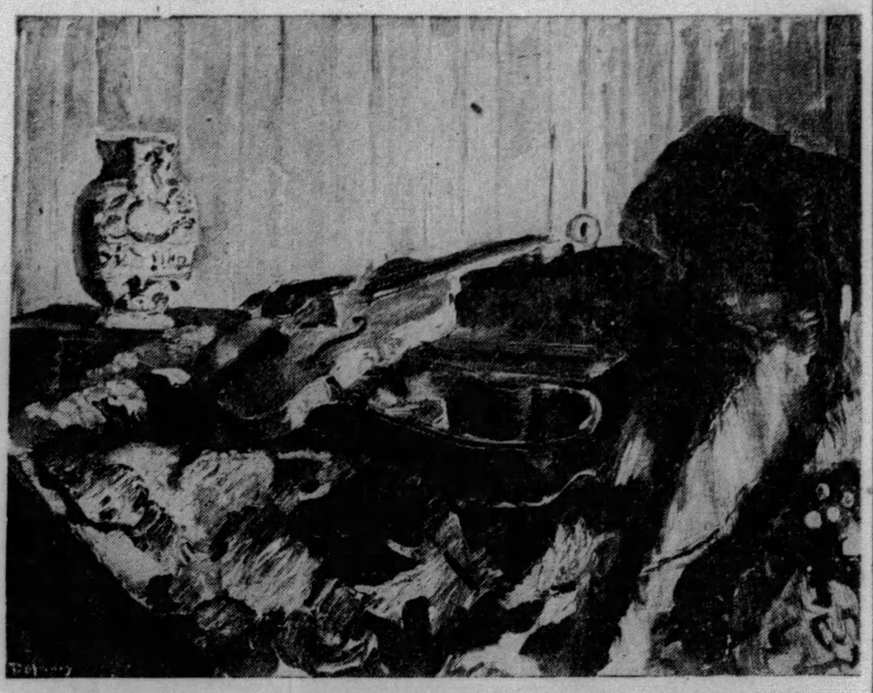
A FEW days ago we were washing in a Pullman when we heard a cantankerous customer complaining loudly and bitterly to the porter that the train was 20 minutes late. "I'm sorry," said the porter, "but the delay was unavoidable. A poor man in the coach ahead asked us to make a special stop. His wife had died in her berth during the night. The poor man was almost crazy and the conductor thought no one would mind much if we did pull in a little late."

Paintings Awarded Prizes in the International Exhibit at Carnegie Institute

Be Sure to See These Canvases Reproduced in Next Sunday's Sun-Telegraph Color Gravure in All of Their Original Warm Colors

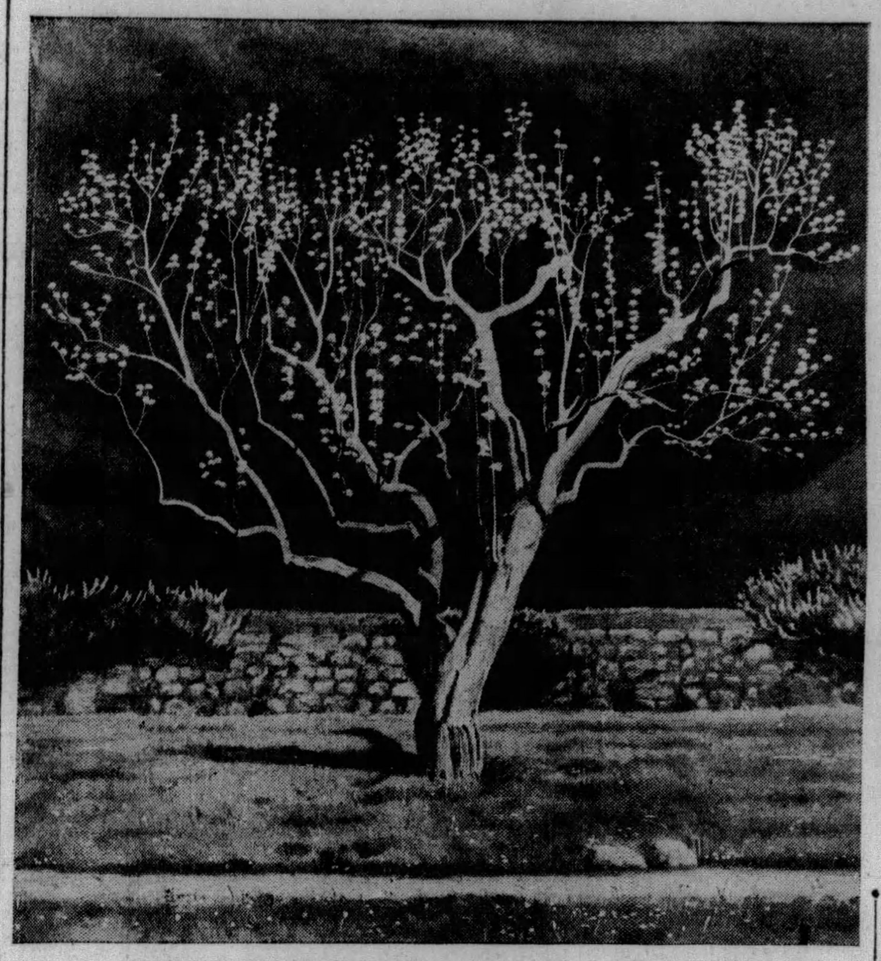
"THE STUDIO," FELICE CARENA'S CANVAS AWARDED FIRST PRIZE AND LEHMAN PRIZE

"The Studio," a large canvas by Carena, Italian painter, awarded the Carnegie Institute's first prize of $1,500 in the International Exhibit which formally opened yesterday. It was also given the Albert C. Lehman Award of $2,000 and also purchased for Mr. Lehman.



"STILL LIFE WITH VIOLIN," GEORGES DUFRENCY'S PAINTING GIVEN THIRD PRIZE

Painted by Georges Defrency, French, this canvas was selected by the distinguished jury of artists to receive the third prize of $500. The exhibit closes December 8.



"THE PEAR TREE" BY EDWARD BRUCE, AWARDED FIRST HONORABLE MENTION

First Honorable Mention and $300 went to this canvas by Edward Bruce, American. The Sunday Colorgravure Section of the Sun-Telegraph will reproduce these paintings Sunday (the day after tomorrow) in all of the colors given them by their respective artists.

"SEA HOLLY," PAUL NASH'S CANVAS GIVEN ALLEGHENY COUNTY GARDEN CLUB PRIZE

Paul Nash, Briton, produced this painting, selected as the best of its subject and given the $300 Award offered by the Garden Club of Allegheny County each year.

POLAR HERO SPEAKER AT INSTITUTE

Twenty-sixth Founder's Day At Carnegie Establishment Draws Distinguished Guests

Commander Donald B. MacMillan, Arctic explorer, delivered an address at Carnegie Institute yesterday afternoon, the feature of the twenty-sixth annual Founder's Day program, and immediately afterward the public was admitted to the galleries where the international art exhibit is being held.

Commander MacMillan stressed the importance of Arctic exploration. His address, and those of others delivered during the afternoon, were broadcast over Station KDKA and were probably heard by Commander Richard E. Byrd and his crew explorers, in Little America, near the South Pole.

NO BANQUET

The banquet which usually climaxes Founder's Day program, was eliminated because of the conflict with the Ohio River canalization celebration.

Dr. Samuel Harden Church, president of the institute, who presided at the ceremonies, announced the award of prizes for paintings in the international exhibition. He also introduced Mahmoud Samy Pasha, Egyptian minister to the United States, who made a brief address.

Among the notables seated on the speakers' platform were Dr. W. J. Holland, director emeritus of Carnegie Museum; Paul Block, newspaper publisher; James R. Mellon, Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology; Congressman Stephen G. Porter; John L. Porter, vice president, and Augustus K. Oliver, secretary of the board of Carnegie Institute.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS

Other prominent persons who were present were Homer Saint Gaudens, Dr. Andrey Avinoff, director of the museum; Taylor Allderdice; W. S. Arbuthnot; W. W. Blackburn; Judge Josiah Cohen, William Frew, Frank J. Lanahan, James H. Lockhart, William S. Moorhead, Ralph Munn, Roy. B. Ambrose and Dr. William M. Davison, superintendent of public schools.

A large crowd visited the galleries yesterday and last night. The galleries will be open daily for visitors to view the 392 paintings on display. Two hundred and fifty-six paintings are by European artists and 136 by American painters.

RETRIAL ASKED BY POLICEMAN

Policeman Edward Teets, of Mintwood street, found guilty by a jury in Criminal Court before Judge Frank P. Patterson of assault and battery on Miss Laura Montgomery, a beauty parlor operator, also of Mintwood street, has served notice that he will apply for a new trial, and sentence has been deferred pending final decision.

The jury was out three hours deciding the Teets case. Testimony brought out by Assistant District Attorney J. E. Kalson was to the effect that Teets bruised Miss Montgomery's lips, cheek, eye, nose and throat when she resisted his caresses while in an automobile on a lonely road near Rodgers Field August 5. She jumped out of his car and got into the machine of Richard Charlton and his sister, Mrs. Ida Sherlock, of Harmarville, who testified they took her to their home and dressed her injuries temporarily, and then sent her to St. Francis Hospital.

MAN, WIFE HELD IN THEFT

Mrs. Mildred Tremont, 24, and her husband, Anthony, 32, rear of 322 Lehigh avenue, were arrested in Morals Court today, charged with robbing a man of $300.

Detectives refused to disclose the name of the complainant. He is expected to appear at a hearing of the Tremonts tomorrow.

Mrs. Tremont had appeared as a witness against Thomas Cohen, of 3229½ Ward street, a taxi driver. She charged he knocked her unconscious and robbed her of $45 Tuesday in her home.

Halloween Ghost Brings Police On Run

Taxicab Passenger Holds Up Driver

Warner Lang, taxicab driver, reported to county detectives that a passenger he drove from the downtown district early today held him up as they approached Pitcairn and robbed him of $2. Detectives are investigating.

NEW THOMPSON DIVIDEND MADE

A 2 per cent dividend, practically the last to unsecured creditors whose claims totaled $18,000,000 against Josiah V. Thompson, Uniontown bankrupt banker and coal operator, was ordered by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker today. The dividend which Referee in Bankruptcy Watson B. Adair was ordered to pay makes a total of 12 per cent, payments of 5 per cent each having been authorized in 1920 and 1921.

The money will be paid from funds in the hands of the trustees, D. M. Hertzog and Rolfe M. Hite. The petition asking for the distribution stated that a final settlement is some distance away, as there are matters which will occasion many delays and a final dividend will be small.

Thompson, once a power in Fayette County, failed in 1917. For several years prior to that, following the collapse of the National Bank in Uniontown, of which he was head, his affairs had been in a precarious condition. An appraisal committee found his estate was worth $70,000,000.

Revision of Plans Cause Postoffice Delay Here

The heavy task imposed upon government architects by the decision to house all federal activities in the Pittsburgh district under one roof is the cause of the delay in the plans for the new postoffice building.

This was the reason given today by Representative Stephen G. Porter for failure of the United States Treasury Department to submit the final drawings to committees of various local civic organizations. Work on the final sketches began almost a year ago.

"TREMENDOUS TASK"

"The architects are confronted by a tremendous task," said Representative Porter, who has been working on the Pittsburgh postoffice project since its inception. "The men who are working on the plans for the Pittsburgh building have specialized in postoffices, but in this case they must provide space and convenient arrangements for the federal courts, the United States engineers and about 15 other federal activities.

"Various department heads have their own ideas as to how the building should be arranged. Floor plans of the building were sent out and suggestions were asked for. It is natural that delays result from this method, but it seems that it cannot be helped. Plans for the postoffice proper are almost complete."

10 STORIES HIGH

Representative Porter said he has been assured no time would be lost in submitting the drawings when the work reaches the point where the specifications may be written up. He declared the final drawings would be ready in 1930.

It has been definitely determined that the structure, which is to be erected at Sevnth avenue and Grant street, will be 10 stories in height on the Grant street front.

Marriage Unhappy, Asks Her Freedom

Mrs. Bertha J. Bennett, of 509 Hays avenue, Mt. Oliver, asked to be declared a feme sole trader in a petition presented in Common Pleas Court. She stated she was born in Allegheny County in 1874, and married Thomas R. Bennett in September, 1917.

He maliciously and wilfully deserted her in March, 1927, and has not contributed to her support since, according to the petition.

Bellevue W. C. T. U. Arranges Meeting

Plans for the annual meeting to be held November 14, were discussed at the monthly gathering this week of the Bellevue unit, Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in the Bellevue Methodist Protestant Church. The unit sent Mrs. Anna Richards and Mrs. Margaretta Hosack as delegates to the state convention which opened last night at Warren, Pa.

Mt. Lebanon Man Opposes Scheck

Attorney Frank P. Martin, of 271 Mabrick avenue, Mt. Lebanon, yesterday announced himself as a candidate from the Fourth Ward for township commissioner, opposing the regular Republican candidates. Martin is opposing Howard W. Scheck, present head of the commissioners. He will run on the "Progressive" party ticket.

Jail Official Picked As Probation Aid

Paul F. Beiswenger, bookeeper at the county jail, yesterday was appointed assistant probation officer by Common Pleas Court judges. He takes the place of Robert M. Fulton, who died recently. His position at the jail will be filled by his cousin, Norman Beiswenger, of Undercliff.

Rich Colors Lend Reality To Prize Painting

By PENELOPE REDD.

THE prize awards for the paintings at the Carnegie International inevitably open the opinion season. Opinions range from the hostile to the silly, which this year will probably be that the first prize was awarded, "The Studio" by Carena (Italian) because it is the largest canvas in the show.

"The Studio" is painted in the grand manner. It is a glorified genre, showing men at work under circumstances more startling than selling insurance, but no less serious. The composition depicts with dignity a nude model posing for a group of 10 painters. A visitor and duenna complete the ensemble. Through words and photographic reproduction, the painting is trite.

Penelope Redd

Beholding it, however, is different, since the color endows it with Olympian life. With a rich blue in the blouse of a boy in the background and the deep red of his companion's cap, and the old gold velour upon which the model rests, Carena reveals the basis of his subtle color. He creates mutations of these colors until the whole assumes a valid reality.

CARENA arranges his figures in a majestic manner. Although he has four groups and three isolated figures, the complicated composition is perfectly sustained. Moreover, every figure is a character. The eye comes back again to one or another of the earnest men, to the reserve guest in the foreground, to the duenna, or to the superb model. Opulence and austerity are intuitively blended. "The Studio" seems completely appropriate as a prize painting.

The second prize was awarded to "Bathers, Ile Adam" by William J. Glackens (American). He is always in playtime mood and, moreover, transforms actual times and places into the rose, blue and gold of his own palette. Glackens conceals all hint of drudgery; to him his work and his observations are evidently made and expressed with absolute spontaneity. The late Renoir, with whom Glackens has an affinity for volatile color, was as ponderous as Glackens is bonair. The prize seems almost deserved for his persuasive amiability.

The third prize prize painting, "Still Life With Violin," by Georges DuFrenoy (Frenchman) was too tiresome at first sight to inspire enthusiastic second sight.

"THE PEAR TREE," by Edward Bruce (American), awarded first honorable mention, shows the composite influences that have animated this painter. Bruce lived in China for years, where he made a collection of Chinese paintings. Eventually he went to Italy to live and to paint. He has been influenced by the philosophy of Chinese painting, but he has used Italian subjects. His paintings always eliminate all details other than those essential to the theme. His color is ascetic.

Paul Nash (English), whose canvas, "Sea Holly," was awarded the Garden Club prize of Allegheny County, achieves a singular style. Nash's style is his own and none other's, either contemporary or predecessor. He is never so ceremonial as Bruce. Nash's style suggests, for no ponderable reason, the verse of Dorothy Parker. Perhaps the similarity is suggested because there is satire in Nash's piquant intellectuality.

"Festival in Mallorca," by Joan Junyer (Spaniard), was awarded an honorable mention. It, too, is tartly modern, although celebrating a peasant genre. Two peasant women and a man are involved in a ritualistic dance of solemn movement. About them, sitting, as if enthralled, is a semicircle of womenfolk. The church-crowned village broods over all in the distance. The whole has an intangible, fantastic beauty heightened by Junyer's exotic melding of blond colors in rose, green, orchid and their variables.

THE two other paintings awarded honorable mention are completely personal. "Autobiography," by Joseph Pollet (American), shows the artist painting from a nude model with a tricky vista of the rooms beyond the studio. Pollet has a small landscape done without ostentation that is more stimulating than the empty, honor one.

The eighth of the group singled out for distinction is "The Loge," by Max Beckmann, a German. The poster-like composition reveals a woman haughtily installed in an opera box while her escort, who is holding huge opera glasses, looks upward. The doorway and the corridor beyond are tauntingly juxtaposed. The insolent magenta, silver and black color scheme that relates these facts is stunning. The painting has a violent strength, but one is dubious of its power to survive the decade.

The prize awards are usually arrived at by compromise, since individuals on art juries have as divergent points of view as individuals the world over. These prize pictures are, on the whole, refreshing. It is noticeable, however, that the majority of the prize paintings are reminiscent of traditional modes.

Sid Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 18.

Been reading in the papers about the big bootlegging combine that they say they had captured in the East. They had their own broadcasting station just to keep their salesmen informed on change of prices and what the opposition was doing.

They had enough guns on all their various boats, that if they are not invited to the next disarmament conference it will be on account of jealousy.

You know what will happen when the whole thing goes through the courts? Why, two truck drivers will be sent to jail, the radio announcer will have his gold membership card canceled for six months, and the leaders will go into vaudeville till they can make new mergers and then open bigger and "better than ever."

Yours, WILL.

LEARN ELECTED PRESIDENT OF PENNSYLVANIA REALTORS

SESSION TOLD OF INCREASING LAND VALUE

Streets in New Plans Curve With Hills, Expert Shows; Conventoin Ends Tonight

Dale H. Learn, of Monroe County, was elected president of the Pennsylvania Real Estate Association in the closing session of the convention today in the William Penn Hotel. The selection of a meeting place for next year was referred to the executive committee.

The report of the nominations committee was approved. Other new officers are: Vice presidents, James C. Wilson, of Pittsburgh; Harry Swenson, of Erie; Philip N. Arnold, of Philadelphia; Paul H. Faris, of Altoona, and Victor S. Robinson, of Wilkes-Barre; secretary, E. J. Miller, of Harrisburg, and treasurer, Henry J. Mack, of Bethlehem.

MODERN SUBDIVISION

The modern subdivision is based on imagination and dreaming to a large degree, L. T. Stevenson, developer of a number of well-known plans in Pittsburgh's South Hills, told the convention.

Mr. Stevenson illustrated his talk with descriptions of his experience in Dormont and Mt. Lebanon. He pointed out that in 1922 the Mission Hills plan represented real estate assessed at $60,000 and at present the same property is assessed at $1,800,000. Beverly Heights in Mt. Lebanon in 1925 was assessed at $78,000 and is now placed at $750,000.

SEMENOW SPEAKS

Robert W. Semenow, recently named head of the real estate brokers' license board, spoke on the legal relations of landlord and tenant. He brought out the point that husband and wife should both sign a lease as the family funds may be carried in the wife's name and the absence of her signature may cause loss to the owner of the property.

Joseph B. Hall, executive secretary of the Chicago Mortgage Brokers' Association, spoke on "Appraising Income Property." D. R. Davies, of Scranton, pointed out some of the information necessary for realtors in selling chain store sites. Herbert U. Nelson, executive secretary of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, spoke on the work the association is doing for realtors and property owners.

VISIT ART EXHIBITION

The use of steel in erecting homes was discussed by Louis Brandt, housing engineer. Steel framing is now available in complete detail for the home at a cost of only 10 per cent more in the completed dwelling.

The convention will be brought to a close this evening with the annual dinner in the ballroom of the William Penn Hotel. J. W. Cree, Jr., president of the Pittsburgh Board, will preside, and Thomas McCaffrey, Jr., will lead the singing. Henry W. Armstrong, first president of the Pennsylvania Real Estate Association, will deliver the invocation.

Theft of Airplane Charged to Flier

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Elliott Delisser, 30, was held in bail today for a highly original felony—the theft of an airplane. He was arrested on a charge of having borrowed a Travelair biplane, valued at $2,500, from the Jamaica Sea Airport and failing to return it.

North Avalon Will Observe Halloween

The Community League of North Avalon is planning for a Halloween celebration to be held the night of October 25. A street pageant and parade will be features. A. P. Dietz, representing the league, recently invited Burgess Grant Ritchie, Borough Manager J. N. Arthur and members of Council to attend.

Owner Reports Tools, Pipe Gone

Carpenters' tools valued at $400, and lead pipe worth $150 were stolen yesterday from a shed at 2129 Wightman street. Max E. Boyer, the owner, told detectives the lock on the shed was broken.

EARLY VERDICT REVERSED

A verdict of $7,500 damages for personal injuries was awarded Simon Grossman, of Cleveland, formerly of Pittsburgh, in his suit against the Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad Company before Judge Ambrose B. Reid in Common Pleas Court. Grossman alleged he was seriously injured in March, 1923, when a train he attempted to board at Bairdford suddenly started and caused him to be thrown from the step.

A verdict in favor of the company was rendered at the first trial of the case in March, 1926, and Grossman was granted a new trial, sustained on appeal to the Supreme Court.

Civic Club Seeks Traffic Signal

Erection of a stop and go sign at Lincoln and Lemington avenues is asked in a petition which the Civic Club of the Lincoln avenue district last night prepared for Council. The light was promised a year ago, speakers said.

METALLURGISTS MEET HERE

The third open meeting of the metallurgical advisory board to the Carnegie Institute of Technology and the United States Bureau of Mines, which opens today in the Bureau of Mines Building, Forbes street, will be attended by more than 200 metallurgists and steel engineers.

Those attending will hear the progress made by engineers at the institute and the bureau, on problems previously assigned to them. Reports will be made by Dr. V. N. Krivobok and Dr. Charles H. Herty, Jr., of the Carnegie Institute of Technology and of the Bureau of Mines respectively. Dr. F. M. Walters, Jr., director of Carnegie laboratory, also will speak. Dr. John Johnston, of the United States Steel Corporation, will preside.

The institute will be host at a luncheon to the visitors after which reports will be made. Frank N. Speller, of the National Tube Company, will preside during the afternoon. At night a dinner will be held in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, the chief speaker being Thomas M. Girdler, president of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation. Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of the institute, will preside.

Chestnut Ridge Route of Hikers

Members of the Pittsburgh Hiking Club will hike over Chestnut Ridge, near Ligonier, to Derry, Pa., on Sunday. Members or others interested will take the 8 a. m. Pennsylvania Railroad train to Millbank and start the hike from that point. Miss Meta Thomas will lead. The advance party will take the 12:10 p. m. train to Ligonier on Saturday.

Flags Will Mark Early Boat Yard

Marking the spot where boats were built by Peter Shouse before 1837, members of the Crescent Township Civic Club and the Boy Scouts of the community will place flags along the bank of the Ohio River at Glenwillard this afternoon. The two participating groups are decorating the bank as part of the Ohio River celebration.

Telegraph Employes To Hold Fall Party

The annual fall party of the Western Union Telegraph Company Employes' Association will be held Tuesday night in the Plaza restaurant. A. F. Cavanaugh, president of the association; M. A. Hughes, J. J. Keenan, Nathan Weiner, Edward Foster and Ruth Lawson compose the committee in charge of arrangements.

Avalon Reports Building Permits

Capt. J. N. Arthur, borough manager of Avalon reports issuing building permits to J. V. Schrock for a two-story brick and tile dwelling at 839 California avenue, estimated to cost $24,000, and to C. A. Strowbridge for a double brick duplex at 860 Ohio River boulevard, to cost $15,000.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

OVER $300,000 SPENT IN RACE FOR MAYOR

Reports Show Expenditures Of Kline $104,859; Malone $103,642; Martin $74,953

The primary campaign was an expensive proposition for those concerned, according to expense accounts filed yesterday, the final day.

The campaign committee for Mayor Charles H. Kline and his city and county ticket reported expenditures totaling $104,859.50.

Two campaign committees backing Councilman James F. Malone and his ticket reported expenses of $81,220 and $22,422 respectively, a total of $103,642.

The Judge Richard W. Martin campaign committee, which functioned for Martin alone without city and county candidates, reported expenditures of $74,953.

BIG SUM FOR WATCHERS

These amounts do not include the personal expense accounts of the three mayoralty candidates which bring the total well above the $300,000 mark.

So far as expenses for watchers and messengers are concerned, the Kline and Malone camps run close together, their reports show. The Kline committee spent $49,025 for the purpose, while the Malone camp spent $42,500. Both factions covered the entire county. The Martin group, working only in Pittsburgh, spent $21,215 for watchers.

The Malone committee's report showed unpaid notes in the Potter Title and Trust Company totaling $23,700. The Kline committee report showed a balance of $582, although the receipts included one personal note for $30,000 drawn by Dr. F. H. Frederick, Samuel J. Grenet, Roy D. Schooley and Congressman P. J. Sullivan.

J. Walter Green, treasurer of the Malone committee, contributed $17,500, the report showed. Fifteen hundred dollars each came from Henry Oliver Evans, John A. Fugassi, Thomas F. Ashford, P. J. McArdle, Malone himself, and Coroner W. J. McGregor, all except the last named being defeated candidates.

CONTRIBUTORS LISTED

Attorney Charles B. Prichard gave $2,500 to the Malone campaign, Roy R. Poynter $2,000, John Collins $2,000, Walter Bonitz $3,600, James C. Wilson $2,000 and J. J. Mincher $2,000. Those giving $1,000 were Senator M. G. Leslie, A. C. Leslie, his son, E. T. Weir, S. G. Robinson, J. T. Mitchell, Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, William F. Farrell, T. J. Foley, W. J. Lamb, G. E. Green and Frank McEnteer.

The Kline Regular Republican Committee showed the largest number of contributors. The largest contributors listed are: Senator James J. Coyne and P. J. Donahoe, Tenth Ward chairman, with $5,000 each. Attorney Louis Little gave $2,500. Samuel C. Jamison, former coroner, regarded as the spokesman here for Joseph R. Grundy, contributed $3,000.

Those giving $1,000 each were Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang, Councilmen John S. Herron and W. Y. English, Frank T. Hollaran, E. D. Friedertshauser, John Freyvogel, Edward Townsend, Dr. F. H. Frederick, C. B. Connelley, C. B. Ferree, Daniel Winters, George Savage, Director of Public Safety James M. Clark, Commissioner E. V. Babcock, R. V. Bingay, City Solicitor Charles Waldschmidt, Edward Hunkenstine, Edward Wettach, Howard Neely, John F. Casey, William H. Robertson, M. Turich and H. D. Hirsch.

Universal 5-Day Week Predicted By Raskob

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—John J. Raskob, in an article in the current issue of the North American Review, predicts "the all but universal adoption of the five-day week by the major industries within the next few years to give the workers additional time to function as consumers of what they produce."

The financier, who is chairman of the Democratic national committee, further expresses the opinion that the half day's work customarily done on Saturdays represents more loss than gain, since it deprives the worker of the day's leisure and at the same time adds little to the week's production.

West Penn President Addresses Employes

H. L. Mitchell, president of the West Penn Power and Railways Companies, was the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the West Penn section National Electric Light Association in Kaufmann's auditorium last night. D. J. Johnson was named chairman of the section, and M. E. Ferguson vice chairman. M. H. Bowman, Jr., presided. A dinner and minstrel show followed the meeting.

MINERS' FIGHT ON COAL FIRM SETTLED

Injunction Vacated as Battle Resulting From Evictions Of Strikers' Families Ends

The bitter fight that waged between the United Mine Workers of America and affiliated local miners' organizations against the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, growing out of the coal strike, has been amicably settled.

The preliminary injunction of the Federal Court restraining the miners' organizations and individuals from interfering with the operations of the company's mines, granted September 30, 1927, by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, was vacated by the latter late Thursday afternoon.

BOND DISCHARGED

This action was taken on a joint stipulation filed by counsel for the miners and attorneys for the coal corporation, the latter represented by W. K. Stanley and H. H. Baker, and Henry Warrum for the miners' organizations and individuals.

Under the agreement the defendants paid court costs aggregating $368.07, and the court discharged the $50,000 bond that was posted by the coal corporation. The injunction proceeding was brought by the coal corporation on August 19, 1927, at a time when dissatisfied miners were objecting to being ejected from houses of the coal concern.

DEPREDATIONS CHARGED

At a hearing before Judge Schoonmaker many allegations were made against the defendants in which they were charged with depredations against the company's properties and with molesting company employes and prospective employes.

More than 60 organizations affiliated with the United Mine Workers of America, and individuals, including John L. Lewis, individually and as president of the international executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, and P. T. Fagan, individually and as president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers, were enjoined under the preliminary injunction.

SKY BROADCAST OF JUBILEE ARRANGED

Akron to Send Blimp Here, Using Radio to Depict Scenes Witnessed Below

Description of Pittsburgh's observance of the Light's Golden Jubilee, next week, as seen from the air, will be broadcast from a blimp Wednesday evening, officials in charge of the program said today.

The Goodyear Zeppelin Company, Akron, O., will send one of its fleet of blimps here if the weather permits, it was said. W. T. Van Orman will probably be the pilot.

The blimp is expected to arrive over the city late in the afternoon, and because none of the airports here is equipped with mooring masts, the ship and its crew will remain aloft.

A transmitting set, weighing only 50 pounds, was perfected by Westinghouse engineers so that the aerial discription of Pittsburgh's electrical show could be given. Transmitting sets are ordinarily bulky and heavy.

FLOATS IN PARADE

The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce will have five floats in the night parade. One will depict the development of light. The other four will pay tribute to Westinghouse, Heinz, Carnegie and Frick. Each float in the parade, which starts from Stockton avenue, North Side, at 7:30 p. m., will be motor-driven and electrically illuminated. Among the organizations which will be represented are:

Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, Union Switch and Signal Company, Pittsburgh Box Company, H. B. Carter Company, Ochiltree Company, Ready Mixed Concrete Company, H. J. Heinz Company, Equitable Gas Company, Duquesne Light Company, Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, Pittsburgh Railways Company, Equitable Sales Company, Westinghouse Airbrake Company, Freedom Oil Company, Mellon National Bank, Union Trust Company, First National Bank, Pittsburgh Valve Foundry & Construction Company, Cruikshank Bros. Company, Davison Coke & Iron Company, Aluminum Company of America, Peoples Gas Company, General Motor Truck Company, Ford Motor Company, Pittsburgh Auto Equipment Company, Mine Safety Appliance Company.

MANY COMPANIES AID

Mack International Motor Company, W. H. Williams Lumber Company, Keystone Lumber Company, Builders Supply Company, Sand & Gravel Producers Association, Packard Motor Car Company of America, M. H. Pickering Company, Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, Bell Telephone Company, John Benkart & Sons Company, Higgins Lumber Company, Firefoam Sales Company, Dravo Equipment Company, Hubbard & Co., Pittsburgh Screw & Bolt Company, City of Pittsburgh, Allegheny County League of Building & Loans, Air Reduction Sales Company, Kennywood Park Corporation, Gainaday Electric Company, Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, Pittsburgh Steel Company, Harris Amusement Company.

Farmers Deposit National Bank, Chevrolet dealers, Hamburg Bros., Electric Appliance Company, Cooperative Club, Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, Carnegie Steel Company, East Liberty Coal & Supply Company, General Outdoor Advertising Company, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Waverly Oil Works Company, Gulf Refining Company, Rotary Club, McKinney Manufacturing Company, Kroger Grocery & Baking Company, H. C. Frick Coke Company, Pittsburgh Pretzel Company, The Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Haller Baking Company, Printers Council, International Harvester Company, Liberty Dairy Company, and University of Pittsburgh.

"BOSTON TEA PARTY" HELD AGAIN IN PITTSBURGH

LIGHT, TRAFFIC IN CITY SHOW

Primitive and modern methods of illumination and naviagtion are illustrated in electrically-lighted symbols on the Grant street front of the City-County Building to celebrate Light: Golden Jubilee and the canalization of the Ohio River.

Conspicuous positions are given to portraits of Thomas A. Edison in two shields and a sunburst, each 5 by 7 feet, outlined in electric lamps.

Contrasts in lighting fixtures appear in a greatly enlarged candle 16 feet high in a holder 12 feet wide that is dominated by a mammoth electric light bulb 10 feet in diameter by 16 feet long.

Advancement in navigation is portrayed by the life-sized figure of a trapper sitting in a canoe 19 by 2½ feet that is dwarfed by a replica of the Clermont, Robert Fulton's contribution to science as the world's first steamboat.

The loggia and corridor of the building are hung with United States flags, red, white and blue bunting and gold-colored draperies.

City employes worked two weeks and placed 1,200 25-watt lamps to illuminate the various symbols at a total cost of $500.

The decorations were designed and erected under the supervision of William Abercrombie, deputy superintendent of the City-County Building, and these assistants: Robert Hann, engineer in the division of design, Department of Public Works; William H. Rapp, electrician; George L. Terney, carpenter, and George Chalmers, painter.

James Crump, 31, a Negro, of 25 Shomin street, died last night in Passavant Hospital from toxemia, which developed from burns suffered October 9, when his bed was set on fire, according to a coroner's report. Morgue attaches today were endeavoring to learn the cause of the blaze.

Eveready Radio

...THE PRECISION INSTRUMENT

makes a sure appeal

THERE are certain people who take pride, not only in owning the best, but also in tempering that "best" with good taste . . . their clothes, their motor-cars, the houses they live in, are smart but not showy. . . . When you examine any of their material possessions you find them very much in mode, but you also find in them a certain excellence, an underlying permanence.

For such people the new Eveready Radio is built. The large scientific organization which has contributed years of research to the making of this fine instrument makes full-toned, resonant reception possible . . . a dance orchestra is heard in a living-room with remarkable fidelity . . . you sit on the 45-yard line when you tune in on a football game . . . and the shuffle of a boxer as he moves across the ring comes to you almost as distinctly as the announcer's voice.

Here is a radio receiver which is top-notch, mechanically. And here, too, is an instrument which is built to last. The new Eveready Radio is precision-built. The care which labors at achieving hair's-breadth accuracy is the sort expended on this radio.

That is why this radio appeals to people of good taste. They know it has not only the newest mechanical devices, but also a definite underlying permanence. Talk about new accoutrements, mystifying technical terms, mechanical details, bores them.

And so, if you are such a person, you will want to see and hear this fine instrument. If you want to take your radio for granted, just as you do your motor-car, your house, your clothes . . . if you assume you have the best when you buy . . . here is the instrument you have been looking for. Naturally, the cabinetwork is beautiful. Incidentally, this radio is priced no higher than ordinary "commercial" receivers.

EVEREADY SCREEN GRID CONSOLE, MODEL 52, $157.50 (LESS TUBES)—Model 53, a larger console, $195 (less tubes)—Model 54, the de luxe console, $225 (less tubes), using the same perfected screen grid chassis. Pacific Coast prices slighly higher.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Plan Dance For Bud Dec. 30

WHEN all our twoscore and some debutantes start "bowing," every day will be a red letter day for boys and girls of the younger set, for their fathers and mothers, and for their fathers' and mothers' friends, who'll entertain for the buds.

Although there have been some debutante affairs already this fall, beginning with next week there'll be at least a debutante event a day, I prophesy.

Some time ago I mentioned that the William Frews, of Devon road, would give a tea on Tuesday, November 12, in the Pittsburgh Golf Club to present their daughter, Miss Emily Frew.

Among additional entertainments honoring Emily will be a dinner dance her father and mother will give on Monday, December 30, in the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

DECEMBER entertainments are being planned for another bud, Alice Coburn Rust, debutante daughter of the S. Murray Rusts, of Murrayhill avenue. Her mother will present her to society at a buffet luncheon on December 19 in the Rust home. Alice is a junior this year at Smith, did you know?

And while I'm on the topic of buds, I wonder if you've heard that Helen Morewood Pendleton, bud daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Alexander Garland Pendleton, arrived in town this morning to be the guest of friends until the family home, Fifth and Morewood avenue, is ready for occupancy.

TO change the subject rather abruptly, fall has still another betrothal in its harvest. Word comes from Banff, Alberta, Can., of the engagement of Kathleen Moneith Scarth, daughter of the William Henry Scarths, of Banff, to Charles L. Wooldridge, Jr., son of the Charles L. Wooldridges, of St. James street.

DOWN in Sewickley entertainments for house guests are quite numerous these days. This afternoon Mrs. Alfred Branch Harlow is giving a buffet luncheon for her house guests, Mrs. B. E. Seaborn, who is her sister, and Miss Cornelia Dunham, of Boston, Mass.

HAVE you heard that the junior James William Bennings, of Montreal, Can., are now residing at Victoria, British Columbia? Mrs. Benning, I hardly need mention, was formerly Mrs. Sara Rose Frick.

Mrs. Rebecca McGee and Priscilla Brown have motored to Boston. And Mrs. McGee will visit her son in Andover, Mass., and Priscilla will attend the Harvard-Army game.

MRS. THOMAS E. LONG, Jr., of Dunlap avenue, entertained at bridge Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Mary Scott Long, whose marriage to William S. Ryland, of Raleigh, N. C., will be an event of Monday.

COURT DUQUESNE, No. 659, Catholic Daughters of America, will hold a dance and card party on Wednesday evening, November 6, in the old Wainwright mansion, Dallas and Penn avenues.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT G. GUNN and son, Robert, Jr., of Wilkins avenue, are spending the week end with Mr. and Mrs. James Banfield, of Toronto, O.

SWISSVALE CHAPTER, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold a card party in honor of the members on Tuesday evening at 9 o'clock in the Odd Fellow's hall, Noble street.

* * *

MISS WINIFRED ELIZABETH JOHN, daughter of the Rev. W. J. John, was married to Charles Lester Jonen, of Philadelphia, on October 8. The father of the bride read the service. After November 1, Mr. and Mrs. Jonen will reside in Germantown, Pa.

MEMBERS of Fort Pitt Chapter, No. 130, Order of the Eastern Star, will be entertained at a fashion tea, conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth Skelley and Mrs. Clare Alexander, in the home of Mrs. Skelley, Squirrel Hill, tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock.

THE Peggie Club will hold its regular monthly swimming party in the Pittsburgh Natatorium, Duquesne way, this evening from 9:30 to 11 o'clock.

PENNSYLVANIA COURT, No. 1, Order of the Amaranth, will hold a benefit card party in the home of Mrs. J. C. Franz tomorrow evening.

CARRICK COUNCIL, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will hold a card party Wednesday at 1 o'clock in the Mt. Oliver Harris Theater.

* * *

MRS. FERDINAND LUDWIG FISHER, of Tampa, Fla., announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Margaret Eleanor Swann, to Francis X. Kumer, of Pittsburgh and Boston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Kumer, of Crafton. Mr. and Mrs. Kumer will reside in River way, Boston, Mass., after October 31.

COURT EAST LIBERTY, No. 905, Catholic Daughters of America, will hold its annual fall card party in Oppenheim-Collins on Saturday afternoon, November 2.

State Federation Honors Pittsburgh Woman

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 18.—The entire ticket as presented by the nominating committee was elected yesterday by the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women in convention here. Headed by Mrs. John A. Frick, of Allentown, as president, the officers are: Vice presidents, Mrs. Ambrose N. Diehl, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. R. H. Godcharles, Milton; Mrs. J. E. Sickler, Scranton, northeastern district president; Mrs. R. J. Hamilton, Ardmore, southeastern president; Mrs. Margaret L. Kral, Shippensburg, central president; Mrs. James B. Luther, DuBois, northwestern; Mrs. John E. McKirdy, Edgeworth, southwestern; Mrs. Charles W. Hunt, Williamsport, recording secretary; Mrs. F. Whitney Davis, Chinchilla, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harry B. Bradley, Franklin, treasurer. Directors are Mrs. W. M. Wolverton, Easton; Mrs. Louis W. Dick, Philadelphia; Mrs. Ruther Springer, Carlisle; Mrs. Charles D. Parshall, Erie, and Mrs. Stephen Byers, Washington.

Peace measures and law observance were leading subjects embodied in resolutions passed by the federation at the closing sessions. The delegates affirmed their belief in the wisdom of prohibition and will work for law enforcement. They indorsed a program to foster the ratification of the Root protocol, admitting the United States to membership in the World Court and to work for a better understanding among governments. The federation declared for clean journalism, for a dean of girls in high schools, and the establishment of a department of education in the national government. It will continue its support for the civil service system as applied to officials of penal institutions and the police, and it reaffirmed its approval of the principle of the Shepard-Towner act and the Jones bill for maternal and child welfare.

The delegates indorsed the activities of the United States Flag Association in its program for education in the principles for which "Old Glory" stands, and sanctioned a program to urge the state to take steps in research and care that may diminish cancer.

Wilkins Farm, adjoining the forest preserve, "Hearts Content," in Warren County, will be purchased by the federation for recreational purposes.

CLUB NOTES

INVITATIONS have been sent out by the board of directors of the Hannah M. Martin Home for Teachers for the annual reception to be held at the home, Kelly avenue, Wilkinsburg, tomorrow afternoon.

THE Brighton Woman's Club for its next gathering will visit the International Art Exhibit on October 31. The members held their annual sale for the blind yesterday in the home of Mrs. Donald Lerch, California avenue, and at the tea which followed Mrs. F. E. Jamison and Mrs. Elmer Stoll presided at the table. Miss Anna Dietrich was in charge of the sale.

A CUTTING for the blind will be held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Thomas Gray by the Woman's Club of the City of Pittsburgh.

* * *

MRS. C. GUY JONES will be hostess for the annual Halloween party of the Crafton Heights Woman's Club Thursday evening.

Women Going To D. A. R. Service

MRS. WILLIAM D. HAMILTON, regent of the Pittsburgh Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution and Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., a member of the chapter, will motor to Washington on Monday to be present at the consecration of Constitution Hall, which will take place at a 5 o'clock vesper service Wednesday. The annual meeting of Pennsylvania chapters will open October 29 in Scottish Rite Cathedral, New Castle, with a reception for the president general, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, of the National Society, and will continue through November 1.

THE regular dinner meeting of the Quota Club, Monday evening in the Congress of Clubs, will be delivered by descriptions of a week-end motor trip through the mountains with an over-night stop in Ebensburg, which was recently made by several of the club members. Following this feature, the club will listen in on an address on Light's Golden Jubilee, arrangements for which have been made by the program chairman, Mrs. Edna I. St. Clair. The quarterly business meeting will be held later in the evening. The "Come and Go" luncheons of the club, which are being held in Gimbels are proving popular because of their informality and the fact that members may drop in during the noon hour and leave at their pleasure. A number of Pittsburgh Quotarians will be guests of the Washington Club at its annual card party Tuesday evening in the George Washington Hotel.

MEMBERS of Court Bellevue, Catholic Daughters of America, will appear in costume for the court's social night, October 28. The following officers have been elected for the year: Mrs. Clara Sullivan, grand regent; Mrs. Loretta Rousseau, vice regent; Miss Louise Kerr, prophetess; Mrs. Edna Cox, lecturer; Miss Mary Rose Burns, historian; Miss Evelyn Adams, financial secretary; Mrs. Mary Patterson, treasurer; Miss Irene Fischer, monitor; Miss Virginia Kerr, prophetess; Mrs. Romayne Roche, organist; Mrs. Lillian Cavanaugh and Mrs. Mary L. Braun, trustees.

ALPHA IOTA alumnae chapter of Alpha Delta Pi will hold its annual benefit bridge at the Congress of Clubs tomorrow afternoon. The proceeds are to go toward Alpha Delta Pi's national altruistic work, which is the sponsoring of day nursery schools throughout the universities of the country. The following committees have been appointed: Miss Lorena G. Orr, general chairman; Mrs. Frank Gold, reception; Mrs. A. L. Finley, tickets; Miss Louise Hetherington, prizes; Miss Mary Bigham, candy, and Miss Gladys Willock, room.

A CARD party will be held tonight in Cathedral High School by the Mothers' Auxiliary to Boy Scout Troops No. 43, 45 and 52.

* * *

AN all-day sewing will be held Thursday at the Florence Crittenton Home, Aiken avenue, by the Woman's Auxiliary to the home. Mrs. J. Earl Collier, national executive secretary, will arrive in Pittsburgh Monday to be the guest of Mrs. Frank H. Fulmer, superintendent of the home, next week. The annual donation day and reception is set for November 7.

MANY DIFFERENT STYLES OF EVENING GARMENTS SEEK PLACES IN FASHION

High Waistline Creates Much Attention

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—The night has a thousand eyes, so the poet assures us, and we think that it is going to need every one of them to observe the many different styles of evening frocks that are seeking their places in the electric light. It is the waistline that gives so much variation to the prevailing silhouette. In some cases the high waist is so very high that it suggests the Directoire or Empire silhouette, something that some stylists assure us will be along in the wake of the princess line. One dress that we have just seen is belted so high that the waist appears to be almost under the bust, and the skirt has very loose and flowing lines. But as yet such models are determined by the individual wishes of their wearers, and the majority of women are content with the prevailing models requiring but slight modification to give the much-to-be-desired "something different" air. It is in these touches that the real genius of the designer is to be seen, for although the dress is very much of the mode, it manages to be subtly different, and what wise woman would ask more. Bows, floating panels, trains, cascading draperies, flaring flounces are all called upon to lend their infinite variety and charm to our formal frocks.

THE two evening frocks shown today are both delightful examples of gowns that conform to the prevailing mode and yet are just a little different. The first is from Bernard et Cie, and is of white moire crepe. Straps and crystal bands form the shoulder straps, and at each side of the bodice are folds of the material, similar to box pleats terminating in deep circular flounces in two tiers on the skirt. The hemline is very uneven being cut high in front, dipping sharply to points at each side, while in back, it reaches nearly to the heels. The decolletage forms a deep "V" at the back.

BLACK taffeta with huge coin dots of grege velvet is the very effective medium used for the second frock which is quite characteristic of the house of Molyneux. The straight narrow bodice reaches to the hips, where fold upon fold, laid in horizontal pleats are drawn about the figure and flare out very suddenly at the side in an enormous bow with crip ends reaching almost to the floor. Vertical folds hold down the bouffant drapery at each side to a point just above the knee.

8 NICARAGUANS, EXILED, ARRIVE

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Oct. 18.—(AP.) Eight former residents of Nicaragua, one a former American college professor, arrived here and charged they were "railroaded" out of their native land for their political beliefs.

The men, who also alleged the Nicaraguan government had plotted to land them in Mexico for execution, created a problem for United States immigration authorities because of their status of aliens ousted from their mother country.

The exiles are: Solomon de la Selva, former professor of romantic languages at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., and spokesman for the group; Gabby Rivas, newspaperman; Adolfo A. Diaz, a newspaperman and a relative of former President Diaz of Nicaragua; Gustavo Manzanares, former member of the Nicaraguan Chamber of Deputies; Alfredo Rivas, a brother of the former President Solorzano, of Nicaragua; Fernando Larios, politician; Enrique Aviles, one-time captain of Nicaragua's largest port, Corinto, and Adan Z. Morales, a Nicaraguan merchant.

Communications were prepared to government authorities at Washington appealing for recognition and permission to establish temporary residences in this country until they could alleviate opposition in Nicaragua and return home.

Weather Conditions.

High barometer now covers the country east of the Mississippi with its crest over West Virginia. As a result of the high, the skies are clear from the Plains states eastward and the weather north of the Gulf states is moderately cold. Heavy frost and freezing temperatures occurred in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia. In down town Pittsburgh the lowest temperature was 34 degrees, while at the weather bureau sub-station in Ingram it was 28.

Low barometer, centered over Manitoba extends southward over the Plains states to the panhandle of Texas. It is causing considerable cloudiness and scattered light showers in the Plains states. Moderately warm weather prevails over that section.

River Conditions.

The rivers are about stationary. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.3 feet: Dam No. 2, 8.4; Dam No. 6, 7.5; Dam No. 9, 8.0, and Dam No. 12, 4.0. The dams are up.

Philadelphia Car Runs Wild; 18 Hurt

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Eighteen person were injured today when a Chestnut Hill trolley left the tracks on Germantown avenue, near Gorgas Lane, and ran wild. The car crossed the curbing, crashed through a fence and ended up by crashing into tree on the lawn of William McKinley.

A gang of workmen were hurled from their seats and cut by shattered glass. Most of the men suffered only minors cuts and bruises.

SPRING TRAINING WILL AID BROTHERS

THE announcement that Paul and Lloyd Waner had signed Pittsburgh contracts for next year, made exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday, came as a pleasing bit of post-season news to baseball fans throughout the district. Though the majority of Pirate followers had been confident all along that the famous brothers would be back on the job next year, as usual, not a few had been disturbed by rumors that Paul was to be traded this winter and that Lloyd had refused to sign a contract tendered to him at the close of the 1929 race, thus making himself the first holdout in connection with the 1930 season.

Paul Waner

Neither rumor ever had the slightest foundation, in fact President Barney Dreyfuss had said emphatically more than once that there was absolutely no chance of Paul's being traded, and as for a holdout on the part of either player it is a fact that never in the history of any club did two star members sign for a coming season more quickly or uncomplainingly.

IT WAS solely for the purpose of silencing the unfounded rumor in circulation that Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss gave out the news at this time, as it is the custom of the Pittsburgh club to withhold until near the spring training date announcements as to what players have or have not signed contracts.

Pirate rooters welcomed the assurance that the Waners were already in line, not only because it disproved the stories that had been afloat for weeks, but principally because it means both players will get the benefits of the full course of training next spring. Lloyd joined the squad in time last spring to put himself in the proper trim, as his great work during the season showed, but Paul, as a result of the time he lost, was not up to his top form at any time during the campaign.

THE big drop in Paul's batting average, as compared with his marks of previous years, is evidence of the extent to which last year's loss of practice hurt his hitting for the year as a whole, and the harmful effects also were apparent in his work in other departments.

It is a most encouraging start to have this early assurance that the Waner act will continue to be a part of Pittsburgh's baseball show in 1930. The signing of the brothers, who are so essential to the success of the team, is an important step toward shaping up the Bucs for the right kind of bop-off in the next pennant race.

Lloyd Waner

THE fact that both of the "poison" brothers have been signed may be taken as assurance that President Dreyfuss has been busy in the same line of work in other directions. In other words, it is safe to say that a number of additional athletes have affixed their signatures to Pirate pacts for 1930, and that when some of the other clubs have holdout troubles on their hands next spring, the Pittsburgh magnate will be sitting pretty with practically his entire string of players in line long before the time comes for the trip to Paso Robles.

THAT the football chiefs at Carnegie Tech realize the Tartans have the toughest kind of job on hand in the game with W. and J., scheduled for tomorrow, was shown by the arrival here this morning of Advisory Coach Wally Steffen. The judge usually waits until the day of the game before making the trip from Chicago, knowing that affairs are in capable hands with Coach Bob Waddell in charge.

On this occasion, however, the situation calls for something extra to put the Plaid eleven on the right edge, so Coach Steffen arranged to take personal charge of the final workout of the Schenley Park lads this afternoon. With Andy Yerina and Leonard Schupp definitely out of tomorrow's lineup, and John Karcis and Ted Rosenzweig still doubtful, the Skibos will be weakened not a little, and some unusually hard drilling and pepping-up are necessary at the eleventh hour to prepare the team for the strenuous struggle that may be expected when the improved Presidents are encountered tomorrow.

JAMES L. MARKS, the Kiski seer, is one chap who sees great possibilities, if not actualities, in the present Pitt football squad. The famous J. L. says that the Panthers are one of the most powerful football machines he has ever seen, and he believes the team is as strong as any ever boasted by Pitt.

James L. Marks

Marks was loud in his praise of Milligan, reserve guard, who has been seeing a great deal of action. Milligan prepped at Kiski, and Marks told Jess Carver that he rated Dutch Schwab, famous Lafayette all-America star, and Milligan as the finest guards Kiski has ever produced.

INASMUCH as Marks has developed some great college players at Kiski, and has seen them go up into big time football, besides studying some great football teams in his time, his opinion of the Panthers carries no little weight. Other good football judges join in boosting the Panthers to the skies. Odds on the Pitt eleven are being quoted for the Nebraska, Ohio State, Wash-Jeff and Penn State games.

FOLLOWERS of Pitt, who are aware of the potentialities of the second team, and know that a good second team will, nine times out of ten, make any first team a wonder, realize that any eleven that beats Pitt this year will have to possess practically two teams.

With one or two exceptions, little difference can be noted in the Pitt play when the second team is inserted into the game in place of the varsity. And the varsity would gladden the heart of any coach in the country. It is the old story of a chain being as strong as its weakest link, and Pitt has no link that can be called weak.

DURING a world series aside, Billy Evans, former American League umpire and now an official of the Cleveland American League club, came to bat with a big boost for Karl E. Davis, who was for many years the University of Pittsburgh's chief athletic executive, and who is at present manager of athletics for Western Reserve in Cleveland.

"Davis looks like the right man in the right place, and there is no doubt in the mind of anybody around Western Reserve that he is going to make a big success of his job," said Evans. "He has taken hold of things like a master hand, and has already impressed Cleveland people as a man who knows his stuff from A to Z.

Billy Evans

"AT WESTERN RESERVE'S first football game, for instance, the receipts totaled $9,000. That's more than was taken in at any game played last season by Reserve, and shows the extent to which Manager Davis has stirred up interest in the athletics activities of the college. And it goes without saying that he will keep it up. He has made a most successful start and is following a course that cannot fail to bring results within a reasonable length of time. He is tackling a hard job, but I do not hesitate to predict that he will put it over."

ART FLETCHER TURNS DOWN OPPORTUNITY

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The plans of Miller Huggins for the Yankees were so far-seeing that the midget manager actually provided, as long as five years ago, a course of action to be followed in the event of his own death—which occurred three weeks ago. Jacob Ruppert, commander-in-chief of the Ruppert Rifles, had such great faith in even the slightest suggestion of his diminutive field marshal that he faithfully followed Huggins' lead in announcing last night that Robert J. Shawkey would be the next manager of the Yankees.

The veteran pitcher and recent coach of pitchers for the Yanks was second choice of the mighty atom to succeed to the managerial mantle. Arthur Fletcher was first in the Huggins handicapping, but the former Giant infielder and Philadelphia manager told Col. Ruppert he would prefer to remain in his present capacity as coach of the Yankees.

APPOINTMENT SURPRISES

The appointment of Shawkey was a surprise to baseball circles as the names of Fletcher, Robert J. Connery, president of the St. Paul Club, and Eddie Collins, the Atlantic infielder and coach, had monopolized the speculation regarding the next leader of the club. It was recalled, however, that both Huggins and Ruppert always had thought highly of Shawkey's abilities both on the field and in the dug out, and that the late manager welcomed the former pitcher back into the fold as coach last spring after Bob had finished his active career in Montreal.

Shawkey signed a contract for one year before departing some days since for a hunting camp in Quebec, where he now is with a party of friends. He will return to New York on Tuesday or Wednesday of next week to begin rebuilding the Yankees—or, more properly, to carry on Miller Huggins' rebuilding plans with which he doubtless was familiar.

Shawkey, one of the game's best righthanders in his day, began his career at Harrisburg in the Tri-State League in 1911. He was purchased by the then champion Athletics for 1912 delivery, and optioned to Baltimore for that season and 1913. Recalled from the Orioles in midseason of 1913, Bob fitted into the championship picture so well that he remained under the big top until 1928, when he obtained his unconditional release that he might sign with Montreal.

NAMED BY HUGGINS

The Yankees obtained Shawkey from the Athletics in midseason of the first Ruppert-Huston campaign in 1915. Jack Warhop, E. S. Cottrell and a fat check were turned over to Connie Mack for Bob's release.

In announcing Shawkey's appointment, Colonel Ruppert said:

"Before announcing the new Yankee manager, let us go back a few years. Miller Huggins came to me and said we ought to make some provision for somebody to carry on for him in case of his own retirement or inability to continue at the head of the club. We added such a man to the Yankee coaching staff when Arthur Fletcher came to us after finishing in Philadelphia.

"Both Huggins and I looked upon Bob Shawkey as a valuable timber for the council room after his playing days should end. He was returned to the club this season as a coach of pitchers, Huggin's second managerial choice. Fletcher preferred to remain a coach, so Bob Shawkey is the man, the new manager of the Yankee Ball Club.

MEUSEL SIGNED, WINGO OUT

CINCINNATI, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Another move to add batting prowess to the 1930 Cincinnati National League baseball team was taken here yesterday by Sidney Weil, president of the Reds, who announced the purchase of Bob Meusel, for many years a star outfielder of the New York Yankees. Meusel's purchase was a straight cash deal.

Another development in the Red quarters was the unconditional release of Ivy Wingo, coach and former manager of the Columbus Senators, of the American Association. The move was taken, it was said, simply to give Howley free rein in choosing his coaches.

DEDICATE SCOTT FIELD

Dedication ceremonies for the new Scott High School athletic Field in North Braddock, will mark the grid game between the Homestead and Scott elevens this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Henry Shephard will preside at a flag-raising ceremony. Speakers will include Manager William McKechnie, of the Boston Braves, and Head Basketball Coach Dr. Cliff Carlson, of Pitt.

Sun-Tele Editor Aided Shawkey In Rise to Fame

Bob Shawkey, new manager of the Yankees, was a sensation in Western Pennsylvania school baseball in 1906, when he pitched for Slippery Rock State Normal school, now Slippery Rock State Teachers' College. Under the tutelage of John B. (Whitey) Price, star athlete at Ursinus College, and later developer of great football and baseball teams at Trinity and Franklin and Marshall, Shawkey got the baseball instruction that was to make him a star with Connie Mack's Athletics in 1908 and for several years thereafter.

L. A. (Scotchie) MacDonald, night editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, was in charge of athletics at Slippery Rock, and was responsible for Shawkey's migration from Jefferson County to the Butler County school. MacDonald also holds the distinction of having handed the famous Rube Waddell the first $5 the eccentric star ever received for pitching a baseball game. That happened away back in the '90s in a game with Slippery Rock's nearest and deadliest enemy, Grove City College.

LOYOLA ARRIVES FOR DUKE BATTLE

The undefeated Loyola University, of Chicago, football squad arrived here from the Windy City at 9 o'clock this morning. The Loyola delegation included 25 players, Head Coach Dan Lamont, Bob Morris, manager of athletics, and Harold Hillenbrand, publicity director. The Ramblers are confident of being able to take the measure of the Dukes and are ready to trot out their interpretation of the famous Notre Dame system to match that of the Dukes.

Together with the characteristic Notre Dame passing attack Loyola will have a combination of star ends versed in brilliant terminal play, Paul Noland and George Weimer probably will show the full effect of that stress when they line up against the Dukes since the two are reported as adept at snaring passes tossed from the capable arms of Capt. Corny Collins, Rambler quarterback, who is rated as one of the brainiest backs in the West. Fred Sextro, first class wing man for Coach Dan Lamont's outfit has been out of the running for some time, due to early season injuries.

The Dukes have been brushing up on their technique all around and will be ready for a running attack or passing game. Kass Kovalcheck, Gaizy Benedict, Joe McCarthy and Capt. Buff Donnelli will be in excellent form for the fray.

PROS, AMATEURS BOX HERE TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Amateur boxers vie with the pros for patronage in Pittsburgh tonight, when the Keystone A. C. stages an inter-city simon-pure show in the gymnasium of its downtown quarters with the cream of local talent pitted against an all-star Philadelphia team of which Eddie Loughran, middleweight brother of Tommy Loughran, resigned light-heavyweight champion, is a member, while the Moose Temple Club will stage its weekly show in its Penn avenue arena, with Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, boxing Benny Burns, of Akron, in the 10-round main bout.

Seven bouts are on the Keystone card, which is not confined to members and their friends, but is open to the public.

The Burns-Belmont battle promises to be a lusty hitting bee. Both go in for walloping and Belmont especially has found favor with the fans in his last few showings.

GARDEN CARD FILLED

The card was completed last night for Monday night's show at Motor Square Garden, with the signing of Georgie Chambers, of the North Side, to box Steve Pollock, of the South Side, the former Marine, in the opening bout. Willie Davies, of Charleroi, and Franklin Young, Negro, of Detroit, are in the 10-round main bout; Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, and Steve Nugent, of Cleveland, in the eight-round semi-final, and U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, and Chet Smallwood, of Akron, in the second bout. Franklin arrived in town this morning and worked out in the Motor Square gym this afternoon.

James (Red) Mason veteran manager of boxers, is at it again. Yesterday he donned a gym suit and played handball with Jimmy Belmont at the Braddock Library. This

New Ring Togs Considered By Comish

Report has it that the State Athletic Commission is seriously considering two reforms in the attire of the ringsters.

One is that each boxer must have two sets of fighting trunks, one red and black and the other purple and another standard color, so that in each bout they will be prepared to don the opposite colors to those of their opponents, as is the case in New York State, and the other change is in the matter of protection cups. The commission is considering putting its O. K. on a new patented pneumatic protection cup to take the place of the metal devices now in use.

No official word has come out on the changes, but it may be expected within a short time.

PRESIDENTS CONFIDENT

Washington and Jefferson College's grid squad, 33 strong, are coming to the city tomorrow fully confident of handing Carnegie Tech's fighting eleven its first loss of the season.

Coaches Bill Amos and Ray Ride will bring their charges here early tomorrow, where quarters will be established at Webster Hall. A large delegation of rooters and students will accompany the squad to Pittsburgh.

Tiger Joe Randall Bows to Wallace

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Kid Wallace, 143, of Philadelphia, won a decision over Tiger Joe Randall, of Elizabeth, Pa., in a 10-round bout here last night.

Young Corsey, of Canton, won a decision in six rounds over Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg. They are lightweights.

PITT IS READY FOR TILT WITH 'HUSKERS

By JESS CARVER,
Staff Correspondent.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 18.—Having passed through Chicago for the second year in a row without connecting up with any bombs, the University of Pittsburgh's varsity football team put in an early appearance here today. Pitt is giving this section of the country a break by coming out here to play the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers, which they will do tomorrow in Lincoln.

Yesterday's stopover in the Windy City was an enjoyable one. Coach Sutherland gave the boys a hard workout in the afternoon, but they had some fine meals, if any training table meal can be so called, and were taken for the nicest buggy, or bussy ride, in the afternoon, shown all the tall buildings and all the "X's mark the spots where the bodies were found."

WON'T LISTEN TO JOCK

The big kick of this trip is the very evident fact that some one has "bulled" the Blues market for Coach Sutherland. Imagine Jock's embarrassment as he discovers that, for all his attitude of pessimism, no one believes him. He has the ball players about half convinced, but to his great chagrin, he can't make the critics jump when he shouts "boo."

Pitt is not over-confident regarding tomorrow's battle with the hefty Huskers, but the club is going in there with just about twice as much life as was displayed against West Virginia a week ago.

The workout at Stagg Field yesterday reminded one of the great drill staged about a year ago here in Omaha. Last fall, when Pitt came West, the team was distinctly on the short end of the betting, and there was no over abundance of confidence hanging about the ears of our Panthers.

NOT SO THIS YEAR

That is, until the day before the game. On that day, Pitt went through a drill here, in mud and rain, that was as snappy and purposeful as any I have ever seen a Pitt team go through. The following day, when the squad stepped off the train in Lincoln and was greeted by a flock of shouting Nebraskans with offers of "3 to 1" and "14 points," the Pitt team very politely gave their hosts the well-known bird. And if you have ever heard a Pitt team give anyone the bird, you must know that they give a very, very razzberry sort of bird.

This year's game is attracting as much attention hereabouts as last year's and the chances of a sell out for tomorrow are very bright. Nebraska's stadium will hold about 37,000 honest souls, and college students. The chances are that there will be 30,000 on hand tomorrow, leaving the remaining 7,000 to sit at home with the loud speakers.

Pitt came over here (they call it "over" out in this country) on the palatial Corn King of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad last night. The Corn King is the name of the train, and not a bootlegger. It is one of those new type trains, with all cars having roller bearings and all these modern dodads that tend to increase the comfort of everything, but an upper berth.

No changes other than at right

BIFF PREDICTS PANTHERS WILL GO UNBEATEN

By CAPT. BIFF JONES,
Head Coach, U. S. Military Academy.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Heavy competition will be general in the football world Saturday.

The Army goes to Cambridge again. Last year, after a lapse of 17 years, the relationship was resumed, and Army scored its first victory over Harvard.

Last year the two teams were very evenly matched, the outcome being influenced by two Harvard fumbles leading directly to Army scores. It looks to be a standoff again. Harvard has lost Guarnaccia and French, while Army has lost four valuable linemen out of its first team of last year.

Capt. Jones

Brown is expected to give Yale some trouble. However, the former lacks able performers to go along with an outstanding back like Fogarty. This lad is one of the best passers in the game today. Yale's first team is composed almost entirely of letter men from last year and has in reserve personnel of the caliber of Booth. Back on their own field, out of the Georgia heat, Yale will be a different team.

PRINCETON FAVORED

Princeton is given the edge over Cornell. The latter has its best team of recent years, but Princeton's open game is expected to give Princeton the edge.

Much interest will attach to California's trip east to battle Penn at Franklin Field. California still has the great Lom, while Penn has a very evenly balanced team with no backs outstanding as yet. Penn's defense is of a very rugged nature, and I expect them to stop the westerners in a very close game.

The only other coast team embroiled in a game of any caliber is Stanford. Oregon State will furnish opposition and that is all. Twenty points is a conservative margin.

In the South, there are three great games on the card, North Carolina-Georgia, Alabama-Tennessee and Georgia Tech-Florida. North Carolina looks better than Georgia. Tennessee beat Alabama last year in an upset. While Tennessee is again strong, Alabama looks stronger. I pick the latter.

FLORIDA STRONG

Georgia Tech will have its hands more than full with Florida. This is Coach Bachman's second year with Florida. He knows football and how to teach it. He has the players to work with this year. I consider Florida slightly the better team in this game.

Pittsburgh invades the Big Six conference to play Nebraska at Lincoln. Pittsburgh looks too good to be stopped by any of its opponents this year. The Panthers' attack has a nice balance of deception and power, which I think will prove too much for the Huskers.

Other Big Six entanglements are Missouri-Drake; Kansas Aggies-Kansas; Iowa State-Marquette; Oklahoma-Texas. Only one of them is a conference game, Kansas Aggies-Kansas. The former is given the edge. Missouri should beat Drake, but it looks as though the conference representatives, Iowa State and Oklahoma, will drop their games to Marquette and Texas, respectively.

The hardest conference game of the day appears to be Minnesota-Northwestern. The latter won last year, rather unexpectedly. Northwestern has lost too many players through scholastic difficulty to stop the powerful Gophers this year.

Iowa lacks enough to turn back Zuppke's veteran Illinois team. Michigan looks better than Ohio State in spite of last week's setback at the hands of Purdue. Michigan has demonstrated its attack power. Ohio State has not.

Notre Dame tackles its second conference foe, Wisconsin. The South Bend team this year is the best since the Four Horsemen. I consider them too good for Wisconsin in this game.

EDDIE LOUGHRAN BILLY LEWIS

M'TIERNAN STOPS ROSS IN FIRST

Buck McTiernan, hard-hitting Swissvale welterweight, scored a one-round knockout victory last night at the Palisades, McKeesport, his victim being Tony Ross, veteran Pittsburgh Italian, now booking out of Detroit. The end came two minutes and 40 seconds after the bout started. Just before administering the knockout wallop, Buck floored Ross for the count of one with a hard left to the head. The finishing punch was a straight right to Ross' jaw. Tony sank to the floor, his head resting on a lower rope. When Referee Red Robinson reached the count of five, Ross' seconds threw in the towel, bringing the bout to a close. McTiernan, at 151½, had a six and one-quarter pound weight advantage over Ross.

BOUT IS ONE-SIDED

McTiernan did practically all the fighting during the short time the bout lasted. He backed Ross to the ropes, let his left go and Ross went down. Tony was up at the count of one, only to run into a flock of rights and lefts. McTiernan jabbed a while with his left and then let his right fly, and it was all over.

The semi-final bout of eight rounds brought together two hard-hitting welterweights, Walter Majeske, of Wilkinsburg, formerly of Saginaw, Mich., and Jackie Herman, of Wheeling. It was the best bout on the card and Majeske got the decision, receiving the votes of Judge Jock Simco and Referee Robinson, Judge John Graff thought Herman was the winner.

The bout was a corker all the way, with both boys landing plenty of hard punches. Majeske seemed to have the edge in the second, third, fourth, fifth and seventh rounds, first, ninth and tenth. The sixth and eighth were even. Both boys showed hard left hooks, which they landed effectively many times. Herman was floored in the second with a left hook, but got up before a count could be started. Again in the fourth he was staggered by Majeske's hard rights and lefts, but refused to go down.

TWO KNOCKOUTS SCORED

Both the first and second bouts ended in knockouts. Stanley Perto, of Monessen, hung the kayo wallop on Joe Juhasz, of Beaver Falls, in the second round of the curtain raiser, the end coming 30 seconds after that session got started.

Eddie Brannon, Hill District Negro, finished Billy Frank, of New Kensington, after 45 seconds of fighting in the fourth round of the second bout.

ST. VINCENT'S DRILLS

LATROBE, Pa., Oct. 18.—Head Coach Clem Crowe put his first string men on the side line yesterday afternoon and let the second and third teams run through the plays brought back from Canisius by a scout who has watched the Buffaloites in several of their games.

JOE M'CARTHY USED POOR STRATEGY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Joe McCarthy's smart managerial moves brought a demoralized ball club from the depths of the second division to a pennant in four years, but no pilot is perfect and this clever leader appears to have showed his human qualities in one blunder that now stands out.

McCarthy kept Hack Wilson in centerfield throughout the season and in the world series when it was apparent to almost everybody that Hack was unfit to patrol the vast domain. Hazen (Ki) Cuyler, who showed himself to be one of the greatest centerfielders in the sport when he played the position for the Pirates, would have been a better bet for the Cubs in the National League race and in the titular battles with the Athletics.

GOOD IN NTER

There was a time when Hack Wilson was a fine centerfielder, but it wasn't the year 1929. Hack, it seems, was troubled with ankle injuries nearly all the year. His pathetic performances at Forbes Field were noted by Pirates fans.

Cuyler, on the other hand, is one of the best ball hawks in the business. The former Pirate is not keen for playing sunfield, but he doubtless would be more efficient in this work than Hack, who was handicapped by lack of speed as well as by his inability to keep the ball out of the sun's rays.

It has been said by prominent baseball men that McCarthy did not make a strategical mistake in the series. Maybe not, yet his persistence in keeping Wilson in the important middle pasture doesn't make Joe's strategy stand out.

There are those who aver that Lloyd Waner would have made comparatively easy work of the two balls lost by Hack in the fourth battle of the set. McCarthy surely knew of Wilson's bad fielding before the series started; Hack's 11 games at Forbes Field alone should convince him of that. The home-run king was nothing like his old self this year.

POOR STRATEGY

Indulging in a little "second-guess" stuff, more than one follower of the sport cannot agree with McCarthy in using Cliff Heathcote at the plate with the tying run on third, the winning run on second and one out in the first game. Cliff went up to hit for Zach Taylor and hoisted a short fly to Simmons.

At the time Heathcote went to the plate, Catcher Johnny Schulte was sitting on the Chicago bench. Schulte is the same big catcher and lefthand hitter whose bat ruined the Pirates in two games at Forbes Field last spring. Schulte joined the Cubs without a minute's training and hit so many doubles in two games, the Pirates were K. O. 'd.

McCarthy needed a long drive of some kind and Schulte was more likely to produce the wallop than Heathcote, who has never been known as a slugger.

Marse Joe, however, was facing something entirely new and he was pitted against a strategist who was seeking his fourth world series emblem. In other words he was outfoxed by Cornelius McGillicuddy.

LESSONS IN FOOTBALL

What is your opinion of the short passing vs. the long passing game?

Answered by
MILTON OLANDER
Asst. Football Coach, University of Illinois.

Only one answer to this question is possible. All well-developed forward-passing attacks must combine both long and short passes. If a team uses only one system, the defensive team can arrange and instruct its defense so that it will be extremely difficult for its opponent to launch an effective passing attack. If, for instance, the offense throws only long range forward passes, the rear defensive backs will naturally line up farther from the line of scrimmage. The opposite will be true if the passes are all of short range. Therefore, long passes should be interspersed with short ones.

The smart offensive coach emphasizes to his team that the catching of the pass merely starts the play, and does not, as is too often the case, end it.

Vary the starting location of the star receiver so as to cause confusion in the ranks of the defense. The passing attack may also be launched after indirect or double passes. Tell the quarterback to use his best receivers to the limit, and not to abandon a successful passing attack until the defense actually stops it.

Develop interference for the receiver after the pass has been caught.

NATIONAL SOCCER CUP TIE TOMORROW

PIERPOINTS PLAY CECIL ELEVEN

By TOM BIRKS.

Topped by the national challenge cup tie, scheduled for Homewood playgrounds tomorrow afternoon, a long list of well-balanced soccer contests are on tap for the fans locally. The game at the East End inclosure will find the Pierpoint Motors clashing with the Cecil team of the Chartiers Valley League, and from past performances of clubs from this compact little circuit, it would appear that Sammy Parks' outfit is going to have a tough time fighting its way into the next round of the tournament. Teams from down the Panhandle Valley certainly have a way of winning cup ties, and the style of football played is all in their favor.

Fans not wanting to watch cup tie soccer can make the trip to Swisvale and watch the Pittsburgh Rovers do their stuff opposed to the Union Switch eleven.

SWISSVALE OUT TO WIN

Jack Thomas has been driving Switch boys hard all week since that Douglas affair, and the Swissvalers will be out to win this game. The game will draw a crowd because of Jimmy Dunlop. The Lawrenceville boy usually throws in a few thrills that are missing from the average soccer game. Dunlop's skillfully piloting of the ball down the field, his weaving through the opposing defense cannot be duplicated in this neck of the woods, and then his finishing with a shot that goalkeepers have the pleasure of fishing out of the way is worth watching. On the other end of the field, Tommy Hennigan will strut his stuff in the same deadly manner.

Glendale, if the field is big enough for a National cup tie, will be the scene of the hardest-fought local soccer game of the season on Sunday. Manager Balsarini is caught with anything but a full, well-balanced team, and unless the new men show something along the lines of previous wearers of the Green and Gold, Glendale is going to give them a tough afternoon. It has been many years since Heidelberg was beaten by a local team in the National, but unless the club snaps out of it, Glendale has an excellent chance of turning the trick.

Fans around the Ohio Valley should not miss the Beadling-Ambridge affair scheduled for the Bridge Works grounds. Teams playing that bustling type of soccer do not show very often in Ambridge, or down in the Beaver Valley, and this should be a real fight.

Jeannette will make another effort to popularize cup tie soccer in the rubber town tomorrow afternoon when the Lewis A. C., of Blawnox makes the trip up the main line. Jeannette, in the days of Red Adams, Bytheway and the Monstrolo family, packed in the crowds, and there is a chance that the field will be well-lined when the game starts.

Bartley of London, who holds Royal Warrants of Appointment to His Majesty the King and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, told us that this shoe was worn by prominent college men and predicted that this particular blucher oxford would be the most popular Spectator's Sport Shoe shown this Fall in England.

Our representative tested this out personally by submitting this model and a number of others to college men in a well-known University.

The general opinion of all was expressed by one man who said, "As a shoe for country treks and wet weather I could ask no better," and selected this Martin's Scotch Grain Derby as the shoe which he thought the Varsity men would wear this Fall with Plus Fours and Slacks.

In this country we don't talk of "Country treks, plus fours and slacks" and never describe a model as a "Spectator's Sport Shoe." But it is a pretty good description for a type of shoe to be worn when the streets are sloppy, sidewalks slippery, and you don't want to get "cold feet" when the sun is sinking behind the Stadium in the last Quarter.

Bartley's Original Model has a heavy double sole, with a full leather lining and is made from a special tannage of Martin's of Glasgow Scotch Grain.

As there is only one Genuine Scotch Grain, our representative went to Glasgow to see Mr. Martin personally to hurry shipments to our factory of identically the same tannage that is in Bartley's Original English shoe.

The Lasts are identical in measurements and appearance and the blucher pattern is exactly the same. I don't believe anybody ever attempted to Reproduce a full leather lined shoe, made of Martin's Genuine Scotch Grain for $6.60, and we consider it an achievement in shoe making to offer this Value at this Price.

Now in addition to this famous Genuine Scotch Grain leather lined, double soled blucher oxford, we have thirty-one other Styles of Genuine Scotch Grain, Heather Grain and Holland Grain. High shoes and Winter Oxfords, Plain and Fancy Patterns. Wing Tips, Ball Straps and Saddle Straps.

We believe this represents the most complete line of Genuine Imported High-Grade Leathers ever offered in America, and they're all One Price, $6.60.

Volume makes the Value possible. We make 1,000 pairs to Bartley's one—and every pair looks like Bartley's Original.

OLIVER, CARRICK PLAY TO SCORELESS TIE

WESTINGHOUSE, SOUTH HILLS, SCHENLEY COP

Of the four City League football battles played yesterday, the merry war waged between Oliver High and Carrick High at Carrick Park, was the outstanding engagement. Oliver and Carrick fought to a scoreless tie in their effort to advance in quest of the Section II gonfalon.

ALLEGHENY BLANKED

Allegheny High was blanked, 13 to 0, by South Hills High at the Oliver Field, when the Tunnelites made a desperate last-quarter rally to decide the honors for the game.

Westinghouse High found little opposition in the South High eleven, and the Silver Lakers wound up with a 40-7 victory.

Schenley High continued its superb playing by outplaying the Fifth Avenue High aggregation, 39 to 0.

In the Oliver-Carrick game, the teams were so well matched that neither had a very great margin of advantage at any time, and this despite the fact that Oliver registered nine first downs to two for Carrick. Baxter and Schricker were the individual stars.

GREAT COMEBACK

With only five minutes of the last period remaining, South Hills crossed the goal line twice for touchdowns. The second came with only a minute left on the clock. The North Siders put up a stubborn battle.

Westinghouse and Schenley had things their own way from the outset of their games, even though their opponents endeavored to stop them. The lineups:

OLIVER—0.		CARRICK—0.

LOCAL AMATEUR BOXERS LOSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—A New York representative won the first battle on the card of inter-city amateur bouts at Madison Square Garden tonight, Pete Bellino, New York middleweight, knocked out Sam Pattison, Philadelphia Negro, 160 pounder, in two minutes of the second round. Sid Epstein made it an all-New York final in the middleweight division by getting the decision over Wallace De Wolfe, of Boston, in three rounds.

Vincent Valenti, New York, 118 pounder, and John Warner, Pittsburgh, scrapping flyweight, gave the crowd plenty of action before the New York lad was given the decision in four rounds.

The 118 pound class likewise turned into an all-New York final with Peter Hayes decision over Mike DeCamillo, of Philadelphia, who was no match for the fleeting-hard-hitting New York lad.

West View Battles Smock on Sunday

The Smock Independents, leading gridiron aggregation from Uniontown, will provide the opposition for the West View champions at West View Park Sunday afternoon.

Smock's great game at East Pittsburgh, opposing the Firemen, entitled Zimmerman's clubs to another shot at the big clubs of the district. In Ullery, the Penn State star, Jaquette and Politx, fans will see three of the best gridiron performers on the sandlots. The game will be called at 2:30.

Tug Phillips Wins Over Kid Cangy

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Tug Phillips, Charleroi, won a decision over Paris Kid Cangy, New Castle, in the 10 round feature go here last night. Walter Ketchel, Washington, Pa., took an eight-round decision from Leo Genet, Barberton, O.

Lee Sala, Donora, stopped Joe Midway, New Castle, in the fourth frame, and Jimmy Thomas, Pittsburgh, won from Young Jacobs, Washington, Pa., in six rounds.

SHADY SIDE RES. BOW

FORD CITY, Pa., Oct. 18.—Shady Side Academy Reserves lost to Ford City here yesterday by a 20-6 score. The lineup:

GENARO WINS

Jake Weimer's Son is Loyola Grid Star

George Weimer, star Loyola University end, who arrived here from Chicago this morning with Coach Dan Lamont's team to play Duquesne University at Forbes Field tomorrow afternoon, is the son of the late Jake Weimer, star Chicago Cubs pitcher. Weimer is as great a star on the gridiron as was his father on the diamond. It will be recalled that Jake Weimer discovered Fred Lindstrom while he was coach of the Loyola Academy ball team. Weimer induced McGraw, of the New York Giants, to come to the Loyola campus to observe Lindstrom and the rest is baseball history.

GARDEN GLAZE ASSURED FOR PIRATES

By CARL W. SHATTO

Rumors that Duquesne Garden might not be available for hockey this season were stilled today when it was announced by Attorney J. F. Callahan, president of the Pittsburgh National Hockey League club, that the Pirates would hold their rst practice on Garden ice a week from today. The first public skating session at the Craig street rink is to be held a week from Monday.

Frankie Frederickson, new manager of the local skaters, returned today from New York, where he and Benny Leonad, owner of the local ice team, laid plans for the training campaign.

The Pirate skaters have been ordered to report here Monday, and the training will be confined to gymnastic work until Friday, when the Garden will be thown open to the puckmen.

Frederickson said that in his conferesce with Leonard he was intaining such high class talent as is available. The new pilot of the Bucco icemen appeared to be very optimistic over the locals' prospects, and said that he was prepared to make deals and changes deemed necessary to make the Pittsburgh club a title contender. Leonard is to come here shortly to assist Frederickson in the conducting of the training campaign.

The National League season does not open for the locals until November 16, and officials of the local club are confident that three weeks of skating will put the Pirates in top condition for the lid-lifter.

W. & J. '30 CARD ALMOST SET

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 18.—Confirming announcement from Carnegie Tech that the date for the W. & J.-Carnegie football game next year had been changed from October 18 to November 29 in order to enable the Tartans to play Georgia Tech in Pittsburgh on the October date, Manager William G. Theurer, of the Presidents, announced today that two other important shifts in the schedule had been made as a result, Temple University being moved back to October 18 for the combat in Philadelphia and Tech being scheduled for a Pittsburgh engagement on November 29, the Saturday after Thanksgiving.

In the same connection, Theurer made it known that the Presidents would play no Thanksgiving Day game next season with West Virginia, breaking a continuity of many years. However, he said that negotiations were under way for a game between the Presidents and the Mountaineers in Wheeling, W. Va., and that if West Virginia could make it suitable, the game would be played on November 22, the date orginally assigned for the Temple University clash. This date and October 11 are the only ones unfilled on the Wash.-Jeff. card, although the place for the Bucknell game on November 15 has not been definitely filled.

September 27—Bethany at Washington.
October 4—Westminster at Washington.
October 11.—To be filled.
October 18.—Temple at Philadelphia.
October 25.—Lafayette at Easton.
November 1.—Permanently open.
November 8.—Pitt at Pittsburgh.
November 15.—Bucknell (site not selected.)
November 22.—To be filled.
November 29.—Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh.

SCOUTING BIG FACTOR IN FOOTBALL

By Howard Harpster

All America Quarterback for 1928

Howard Harpster

In the locker room of my old high school our coach had placed a framed slogan which read: "If the opponents don't score, you can lose." Of course, everybody knew that such a statement was true and that so far as the reasoning of the slogan was concerned it was as simple as A. B. C. The trick then was to be able to hold the opponents scoreless, and that is the same problem that confronts and worries every coach of an athletic team.

The average football fan little realizes the amount of time coaches and teams spend in effecting a strong defense. Because it is more interesting to follow the ball, the spectators almost invariably watch the offensive team and only occasionally do they take particular notice of the position of the defense.

Defensive play is being stressed more and more by coaches each year, and, with the exception of a very few schools, each team has a staff of scouts whose duty it is to watch future opponents play and to get as much information concerning their style of play as possible. The scouts watch a particular opponent for a few games, learn the formations and plays it uses and then report back to the coach with such information as they have, so that he may devise a suitable defense to stop such a set of plays and formations. The opponent's plays are gone over in detail, both on the blackboard and on the field, so that the players have a very definite idea of the positions they should take to best stop each play. Scouting is one of the most important factors in building a strong defense.

HOW SYSTEM WORKS

Some teams go to a great amount of expense to scout their opponents thoroughly. I remember a few years ago when Carnegie Tech was playing for the first time against a well-known eastern team our surprise at the ability of the players of the opposing team to seemingly always be in front of every play. Not only that, but we were equally surprised at the fact that the opposing team knew each player on our squad, both by number and by name. We afterward learned that two scouts had watched us in our first six or seven games. These scouts had jotted down every play we had worked in our early games and had learned our formations perfectly. They knew there was only one man on our team who kicked, that some one else invariably ran the ends and hardly ever bucked the line, that when a certain man was in such and such a position in a certain formation only one play was to be looked for. The scouts had learned our offense so well that they knew it practically as well as we did.

Using this information, they had gone back to their own squad and drilled the second team in the Carnegie formations. They even had gone so far as to have cardboards made on which were the names and numbers of our players, and they fastened these to the jerseys of the second team. After the varsity had practiced a few times against these marked players, it became very familiar with the names of our players and with our entire offense, so that during the game they knew just what we were going to do. Most teams don't go to quite as much trouble in scouting as in this instance I have just mentioned, but there are many valuable things a scout can learn by watching a team for a game or two.

A most interesting example of the efficiency of scouting was that done years ago by a scout who was watching the University of Pittsburgh play. Tom Davies was the star of the Pitt team, and the scout figured out that if his team could stop Davies it would have a fine chance of winning. Consequently, he concentrated on Davies, and after a few games he was satisfied Davies could be stopped. This scout had noticed something that not one in a hundred thousand spectators would see, yet it was absolutely the keynote in stopping this great runner.

Davies lined back in punt formation and on every play extended his arms as if he was going to get the ball. Now the scout noticed that whenever Davies actually was going to run with the ball he held the palms of his hands turned to the ground, but, when he was faking to get the ball, his palms always faced each other. It was just a habit which he had acquired and which ordinarily would have passed unnoticed, but because the scout was watching Davies' every move he discovered it. The opposing team then spread out or closed its line according to the position in which Davies held his hands, and the Pitt team couldn't quite understand why the opponents knew just what was coming.

Sometimes a player's own coaches or teammates can detect a giveaway signal of which he himself is not aware in time to correct it and prevent the opposition from signaling it out and taking advantage of it, as, for instance, in the case of a certain fullback still playing on one of the major elevens. This player had a habit of jamming his headgear down firmly whenever he heard his signal called. He did it subconsciously. He still does it, but the coaches have got around the tipoff by having him jam that top-piece now on every play, so that it is meaningless to the other team. It was found that this system was easier than to try to break him of the habit.

Scouts always are looking for little oddities that will give away a play, just as in baseball managers and coaches look for certain pitchers to give them an inkling as to when they will throw their fast one or their curve or slow ball, and coaches always must be on the alert to eliminate false moves by their players which may give the opposition advance information of their intentions.

Thiel Loses Four For Geneva Battle

GREENVILLE, Pa., Oct. 18.—Thiel will be without the services of four regulars, including the two backfield stars, in the game with Geneva at Beaver Falls Saturday.

The quartet includes Frank Leonard and William Frampton, Varsity guards, and Mike Mitchell and Howard Schilling, the two regular halfbacks. The loss of the latter two is especially severe.

YOUNG EXPECTS TO TOP BEARS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—"I expect Penn's greater speed to beat California tomorrow," Lou Young, University of Pennsylvania football coach said today. "I know the Golden Bears are bigger and more rugged, but I am confident Penn will rise to the occasion."

Coach Young's words were more pointed than what Coach Nibs Price, of the California team, had to say in his talk at the Penn Athletic Club when both squads were entertained at a luncheon.

"As to the game tomorrow—I thank you." And Price sat down.

The California squad drilled on Franklin Field for two hours after the luncheon. Coach Price ran his players up and down the gridiron until he was certain all of his men had steamed out the kinks they had developed during their 3,000 mile train ride.

TUT SUSPENDED

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—King Tut, Milwaukee lightweight boxer, yesterday was suspended by the Illinois State Athletic Commission for 30 days, for fouling Lope Tenorio at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

WIENER SUED BY DOUGHERTY

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Legal action was begun in Common Pleas Court here yesterday by James F. Dougherty, manager of George Godfrey, heavyweight Negro pugilist, against Frank W. Wiener, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, as a result of a torrid argument last Monday night.

The action is against Wiener individually, and according to counsel for Dougherty, it was based on alleged slanderous remarks by Wiener against Dougherty. Only a summons in trespass was issued, it being stated that the statement of claim setting forth allegations in detail would be filed later.

Chairman Wiener and Dougherty became involved in an argument Monday night when the chairman refused to sanction a bout between George Godfrey and Jack Renault, of Canada. Wiener declared the men were not equally matched. It was claimed that strong language was exchanged.

As a result of the argument Chairman Wiener ordered Dougherty to appear before the commission for a hearing. The hearing was held behind closed doors.

PITT ARRIVES AT OMAHA

end are contemplated in Pitt's starting lineup against Nebraska. As the team lined up yesterday, Donchess and Bill Loehr were at the ends, Jim McMurdo and Tully at the tackles, Capt. Dimeolo and Montgomery at the guards, Daushtery at center, and Baker, Uansa, Williams and Parkinson in the backfield.

Loehr is replacing Rip Collins at right end, but Rip need not fear that his trousers will grow fast to the bench. I think most of the Pitt boys will see a bit of action tomorrow.

New Trio to Make Debut On Radio Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

TOM MORRIS, Eugene Baldridge and Charlie Oldham—a good trio—have been booked on one program by KDKA to make their debut at 7 o'clock tonight in Henkel Harmonizers, a new feature.

We find a little bit of everything in the Harmonizers' program, not the least of which will be fun and humor.

Of the several adventures encountered by those lovely radio characters, Mary and Bob, we think tonight's one of the best. It is a story of World War romance which will be heard in Pittsburgh through WJAS at 9 p. m.

Those who have followed the Mystery House Melodrama will get a few thrills from Ransome Renwick at 10:30 o'clock on WCAE.

Lately the Triadors have been doing better with their little Triadrama and we might recommend their stunt at 8, KDKA, for fans humorously inclined.

We Now Present

Dick Bower, operator at WCAE, is champion checker player of all the individuals we know at Pittsburgh stations. "To be a successful player one must figure three jumps ahead," saith Mr. Bower, and we believeth so after dropping three out of five.

Dick doesn't play the numbers. He labors and waits until the opponent's men resemble a rustic fence, then he shoots right through for a touchdown. One touchdown is usually enough.

Now Cousin Lora is much better at tennis or horseback riding. When she loses three checkers in one jump she—well, she doesn't like it.

But for a' that Mr. Bower and Miss Lora get along scrumptiously and while it is reported often that they are engaged, it is denied just as much.

Mr. Bower is not an old volunteer fireman as some would suppose. He is 26 and serious minded with a good technical education. And checkers is just a diversion.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

Frederick G. Rodgers took Louie Kaufman to the Fellows Club for lunch the other day. Coming back to the studio they spied a pore little dog in William Penn Way—very hungry and no friends. All they had was a nickel each so they pooled the funds and bought the pore little dorg a 10-cent hot dog, and stood by until he had gobbled it up. Then like good boy scouts, having done a good turn, they hurried to the studio where Fred proceeded to lose two dollars to Glenn Riggs by betting that Chicago would win. Tee-hee!

Romance of World War.

Jack Hunt, a wireless operator in the Navy during the war found the girl of his dreams in a little village on the coast of France. Anne, too, loved her sailor beau and the course of true love was running smoothly when one of the pranks of fate, so common during war days, broke up the beautiful romance of the happy couple.
After the war Jack was still frustrated by an unhappy chain of circumstances. It was some years before he was able to communicate with his promised bride. And this drama of loving hearts has a thrill in the strange climax that restored to the arms of the wandering sailor, his long sought sweetheart.

Keeping House for Animals.

The varied and interesting duties of the unusual men who keep house for wild animals will be told by Bob Sherwood.
According to Bob, there are three essentials in the care and feeding of wild animals—good food, attention and plenty of exercise. How the lack of any of these essentials works havoc in the tempers of the circus animals figures in several thrilling adventures which Bob will relate.

The story of Archie Sinclair, wireless operator of the British armed trawler, "Sea Ranger" (1915).

"If you had spent a couple o' years chasing German U boats through the North Sea, you'd mind o' the Brandes headset that stood between you and Davey Jones himsel'. I'll ne'er forget one day in 1915. I was the only operator in a unit of four trawlers. A submarine came up suddenly and shelled the 'Cameo.' The 'Cameo' replied, damaging the fo'castle of the U boat. She couldna' submerge. A' the while I was signalling the U boat's position to the Grand Fleet at Scapa Flow. Destroyers were sent out and they captured her. My Brandes headset won us a' some prize money that day! And now in my ain hame in New York, it's verra nice to hae a radio made by the same company! Man, Brandes is a braw set!"

More Thrills with Renwick.

Another episode of the radio dramatic thriller Mystery House, exposing the sinister schemes of gansters and following the activities of the great criminologist, Ransome Renwick, will be heard tonight.

Robert Brooke, the bored young survivor of a wealthy and aristocratic family, is the object of the machinations of a gang of criminals led by the unscrupulous Professor Montegle, who has determined to secure valuable jewels secreted in Brooke's home, the Mystery House. They succeed in introducing into his house a mysterious girl known only as "Sally." The gansters follow her and Brooke disappears while his friend, Johnny Walker, is in another room.

Ransome Renwick, detective, assumes charge of the case and begins tracking down the gang. Renwick discovers the jewels and then vanishes. Renwick, Brooke and Walker again find themselves together, but in the power of Professor Montegle. They escape from a descending ceiling only to find that Sally, the crook's accomplice who has aided them, is in the clutches of the Professor. Renwick dives again into the underworld in an effort to save the girl and that fateful fortune in gems, the Denby diamonds.

LOOK FOR GREAT THINGS IN KOLSTER

K-44 Console model, 7 tubes and 2 rectifier tubes. Walnut cabinet of tasteful design. Selector tuner of embossed bronze. Screen grid tubes. Equipoised dynamic reproducer. Push-pull amplification, 2 type 345 tubes. Price, less tubes . . $260.00

"... but Mary, why take a chance with an ordinary set—why not get a Kolster? We can buy one now for $175!"

"Really?"

"Why, of course! Haven't you heard? The demand for Kolsters has been so tremendous, the Company is offering a new model at only $175!"

"Well, that settles that problem!"

That's an invitation—cordially given—and that's a promise, too! For the minute you say to your dealer, "Show me the new Kolster for 1930!" you're asking for a new experience in radio!—for screen grid tubes tested and proved by Kolster engineers!—for selectivity so fine, so true, every sound but the station you want is barred out completely!—for a cabinet so handsome, so distinguished you're proud to display it in your home!

These are the things you actually see—and hear! Now ask a Kolster owner for his opinion! Now discover why neighbor after neighbor wherever you go, says, "Kolster is a fine set!" And THEN you'll know why this year we say, "Look for great things!" For the Kolster of 1930 is the greatest of all of Kolster Radios!

Enjoy the Kolster Program every Wednesday Evening at 10 P. M. Eastern Standard Time, over the nation-wide Columbia Chain.

54 INDICTED IN U. S. COURT

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 18. — The federal grand jury returned 54 true bills to Judge W. E. Baker in the United States District Court for the Northern District of West Virginia, of which seven were secret.

Forty-two charges violation of the Jones law, and in the number was one in which William Lias, Wheeling "liquor baron," was indicted. Lias served three years in the federal prison at Atlanta following his indictment along with Hyman Darling, of Pittsburgh, charged with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

Mercer Wins Banner For Sunday Schools

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 18.—The Mercer County Sabbath School Association was granted a 100 per cent banner at the state convention held in Williamsport. R. E. English, of Grove City was elected a vice president.

Woodcock Scarce In Mercer County

MERCER, Pa., Oct. 18.—Hunters report a scarcity of woodcock in this district. The season opened Tuesday, but only a few birds were bagged.

Surgeon Upholds Alcohol Use for Middle Age

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Moderate use of alcohol during or after middle age was recommended by Dr. Edward Martin, of Philadelphia, former president of the American College of Surgeons, at the eleventh annual clinical congress here. Dr. Martin said he emphatically disapproved use of alcohol by younger persons.

"Liquor prolongs life and adds to its joys," observed Dr. Martin, who is white haired and 70, "but it must be used moderately."

"When a man is fatigued, one high ball is an excellent tonic, but it must not be too 'high.' When you have had a drink, you have had enough."

Fayette Has 49,000 In Sunday Schools

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 18.—There are 4,619 persons in this city who attend the Sunday Schools with sufficient regularity to be identified as members, Judge J. W. Dawson, of Uniontown, president of the Fayette County School Association, asserted. In Fayette County, he says, there are 49,000 members.

Railroad Begins New Roundhouse

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 18.—Construction of the new Baltimore and Ohio roundhouse to replace the 30-stall plant destroyed by fire nearly two years ago, will begin next week. Materials were unloaded in the yards here today.

It is understood that when finished the structure will be so equipped that employment to nearly all the 350 men thrown out of work by the fire will be restored.

State Educator Defends Youth Of Today

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 18.—The present generation was defended, having higher ideals than their parents and grandparents during their school days by Dr. Lee L. Driver, director of the Rural Service Bureau of the State Department of Public Instruction, before the Greene County Teachers' Institute.

The institute sessions will be brought to a close this afternoon.

Zep Lands After Trip Over Balkans

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The Graf Zeppelin landed here shortly after 9 o'clock last night, completing a flight of 48½ hours over the Balkans, Austria and Silesia.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—In commemoration of the world flight of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, the Federal Council has approved a bill for the issuance of souvenir coins. The issue would consist of 1,000,000 pieces of three marks value, and 400,000 five-mark pieces.

Shell Fish Found Delicious, Nourishing

Clams, crabs, shrimps and other crustaceans contain large quantities of iodine. Their nutritive value places them high in the dietary.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City,
United States Senator from New York.

SHELL fish is a term applied to various kinds of crustaceans and mollusks that have shells. They are found in salt water. As we know all salt water fish have a large content of iodine, so have oysters, lobsters, clams, crabs, shrimps and scallops. Everyone should eat one of these delicious and easily prepared foods at least once a week.

Clams are about as popular as oysters, and in the summer months they take the place of oysters. They are used almost entirely by people living on the seacoast, as they are only good when taken fresh from the water. There are several varities—the long or soft-shelled clam, found on the New England coast; the thick-shelled round clam, sometimes called the "quahog," and the razor clam, found in Puget Sound.

CLAMS FAVORED FOOD

Clams may be eaten raw, steamed, in chowder or in a cocktail. They are somewhat less digestible than oysters because of a toughness in part of the body. Baked clams are also widely favored. Who hasn't been to a clam-bake? Doesn't it bring back to mind days spent near the briny ocean, with the smell of baking clams on seaweed over the ashes of a fire built on the seashore?

The crab has a solid meat, which is very delicious and more delicate than lobster. It is nutritious, but it is also indigestible for many people.

Oyster crabs are very small, soft crabs found in oyster shells, and they are found in oyster soup. Fried soft-shell crabs are delicious. Both hard-shell and soft-shell crabs are great delicies and popular with everybody in the Middle and Southern Atlantic states.

SEA FOODS NOURISHING

Shrimps are much valued as a food. They are found along the coast of the United States and Great Britain. They contain considerable glycogen—a valuable food substance—and are easily digested. Shrimps may be boiled and eaten with melted butter and are delicious in salad. Canned shrimps are used a great deal in salads and cocktails.

The edible portion of the scallop is the central muscle. Scallops are either broiled, fried or boiled and served with a cream sauce. They are used in oyster and clam recipes also.

All shell fish should be cooked only a short time, as long cooking toughens them.

I believe in the sea foods. They have a more important use in the dietary than most persons realize. They are delicious, digestible and nourishing. And many, like the shell fish, deserve even greater popularity than they possess.

Brilliancy and Sparkle Easily Given Inexpensive Glassware

Simple New Way Does Wonders and Is Kind to Pretty Hands—Use any Kind of Soap

Even the most inexpensive table china and glassware can be made to look far better than its price in a simple way. It can be given the brilliancy and sparkle of the most costly kinds; and glassware particularly is judged by its sparkle.

Simply add one teaspoonful of the cleansing preparation called CLIMALENE to the water. Use the same soap you ordinarily do, but use only ONE-FOURTH the usual quantity. Wash as usual.

This preparation is a grease dissolvent, while soap is, strictly speaking, a grease. Thus it gives shine and sparkle while soap often leaves a greasy film that's hard to get rid of even with the most careful drying.

Most hotels use this method to make glass and china gleam. Housewives like it not only for this reason, but because it acts to soften and whiten skin fabric of the hands.

Results are surprising. Try it. You can get it at any grocery store in 10c and 25c packages. Just ask your grocer for CLIMALENE.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

Rib Roast, Valois.
Potatoes Baked with Cheese.
Grape Pie.
Coffee.

SHALL we have an especially tempting rib roast for our Sunday dinner? This one, rib roast Valois, named for the old kings of France, offers a combination of cauliflower and beans, enriched with meat juices. Treated in this way the vegetables take on a new flavor:

Five pounds short rib roast, 3 tablespoons fat, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup water, 1 head cauliflower, 1 quart green beans, 2 tablespoons flour and 2 tablespoons horseradish.

Melt the fat in a heavy pan, brown roast on all sides; season, add 1 cup water, cover and simmer for 1½ hours. Add cauliflower, broken into buds and green beans. Cook until vegetables are tender. Remove roast to platter, surround with vegetables. Add 1 cup water to the broth, thicken with flour moistened with water and add horseradish. Serve the gravy separately.

GRAPE PIE seems a perfect way to conclude a meal of this season, so try this recipe:

One cup blue grapes, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon flour, 1 teaspoon butter or substitute. Seed the grapes. Add remaining ingredients and bake between two crusts.

ORIENTAL PUNCH—One cup sugar, 1 cup water, 6 cloves, 1-inch stick cinnamon, ½ tablespoon chopped ginger. Boil for 6 minutes. Cover and let cool. Add the juice of 2 lemons and 2 oranges. Strain. Color with vegetable coloring, add a drop of oil of peppermint. Pour over cubes of ice that have been tinted before freezing. Garnish with sprigs of mint and a cherry.

CHOCOLATE CORNFLAKE MACAROONS—Two egg whites beaten, 1 cup sugar, ½ cup cocoa, 2 cups cornflakes, 1 cup grated cocoanut, 1 teaspoon flavoring. Whip the egg whites, whip in a pinch of salt and the sugar 2 tablespoons at a time. Beat thoroughly with an egg whisk. Fold in the remaining ingredients and drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate oven about 10 minutes.

FOREIGN DEMONSTRATION—Danish Pastry—Make a puff paste dough of ½ pound of butter, ½ pound of flour (2 generous cups of pastry flour) and ¼ teaspoon salt and ice water. When chilled cut into pastry strips and bake. Fill with plum jam and grated almonds and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Others fill with jam and nuts and fold like a turnover before baking.

VEGETABLE STEW—Cut ½ pound each of beef and mutton into small pieces. Brown the meat with 3 tablespoons minced onions in 2 tablespoons fat. Then add ½ cup diced carrots, 2 cups diced potatoes, ¾ cup strained canned tomatoes, 1 cup chopped cabbage and 7 cups water.

In a tiny spice bag put in 6 cloves, 6 peppercorns, a bit of bay leaf and a sprig of thyme. Add to the stew. Season with 2 teaspoons salt and simmer gently until the vegetables are tender.

PEAS WITH PORK—Cut a ¼-pound of fat salt pork into small pieces. Put a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan over the fire and when it melts add the pork. Cook to a light brown, then add a quart of shelled peas, ½ cup water or stock, a small onion and salt and pepper to taste. Cook gently until peas are tender.

PEACH CUSTARD TARTS—Cover inverted muffin tins with thin pastry dough, prick the dough generously, and bake in a moderate oven. When the tart shells are almost done, cool, remove them, and place in a shallow pan. Mix 1½ cups drained stewed peaches 1-3 cup sugar, 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon cinnamon and 2 slightly beaten egg yolks. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla and fill the pastry shells. Bake them until the custard is thickened. Cover with meringue and return to the oven for a few moments to brown.

MOCK DUCK OF VEAL—Remove the bones from 3 pounds of round of veal, and sprinkle it with salt and pepper. Sew up the holes left by the removal of the bones, and stuff the meat with bread dressing. Sew up the edges so that the meat is in one round form. Cream ¼ cup fat with ¾ cup flour, and spread this over the meat except on one side. Place this side down in a pan. Pour ¾ cup water over the meat and bake in a moderate oven 50 to 60 minutes, basting often.

For a simple bread stuffing, moisten 1½ cups stale bread crumbs with a slightly beaten egg and ¼ cup melted fat. Season with 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Mix well.

ORANGE AND BANANA WHIP—Mash 3 ripe bananas through a strainer. Add ¼ cup powdered sugar and ¼ cup orange juice. Whip ½ pint heavy cream until it is stiff; add the banana mixture and beat lightly with a fork. Put in a cold place until ready to serve. Serve in glass cups, garnished with maraschino cherries.

FRESHEN ROLLS—When you warm over rolls, biscuits, etc., do they get too hard and often scorch? This is frequently their fate and this discourages all attempts at rewarming.

Yet the family prefer their quick-breads hot, so next time put them into the upper receptacle of the double boiler and cover tightly. Then put water in the bottom of the boiler and set the double boiler over the fire to boil.

When the rolls get heated through they will become soft no matter how hard they were when put in. Do not wet the rolls at all.

Test them and when you find them just the consistency of freshly baked rolls, serve them at once—the family will eat them under the impression you just baked them.

RASPBERRY PIE—Make either a two-crust pie or one crust

with lattice top. Three cups berries, 2-3 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoon butter are sufficient for one pie. For two crusts take 2 cups pastry flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening. Line plate with paste, bringing extra paste back over rim of plate. Do not stretch, as it shrinks with baking. Sprinkle with flour or brush with unbeaten egg white to keep juice from soaking in crust. Fill heaping with berries; sprinkle with sugar; dot with butter and lastly sprinkle with flour. Lay over top crust, pressing edges of paste together. Trim. Prick top and bake in hot oven (500 degrees Fahrenheit) 5 minutes; reduce heat and bake about 35 minutes. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve hot or cold.

SCOTCH SCONE—One pound of well-sifted flour, 1 teaspoonful of baking soda, 1 teaspoonful of cream of tartar, pinch of salt, 1 teaspoonful of sugar.

Mix all dry ingredients together thoroughly, then sufficient buttermilk to make a nice medium dough.

Turn on a flour board and knead as gently as possible with the tips of the fingers. Roll out quickly until ¼-inch thick. Cut into four, bake on a hot griddle or plate. Turn over on both sides.

a tonic full of Health

The grape is a natural food. It contains tartaric acid, which is an essential. It is heavily charged with iron, and the pulp and seeds serve an excellent purpose in the stomach and intestinal tract. Very frequently doctors recommend grapes to patients who are run down—particularly to those approaching anemia.

The wisdom of this is attested by the table of experience in the Chautauqua-Erie Grape Belt where general health reaches the highest standards.

Thousands of young women invade the grape growing section at harvest time, worn with the round of modern pleasures and excitement. A few weeks in the vineyards, with an abundance of grapes and deep draughts of the wine-laden air, and they return to their social program restored to normal health, eyes brightened and cheeks a-tingle.

Grapes will do the same for you. The Iroquois Concord Grapes you buy today in the open market are but a few hours removed from the vineyard. They retain the health giving qualities and distinctive flavor imparted by the soil and the sunshine.

BANK STRUGGLE FOR SURVIVAL UNDER WAY

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

QUEBEC, Oct. 18.—With the vast growth of chain and branch banking, present and prospective, there is an increasing need for the independent banks to scrutinize their operating methods, and to heighten their efficiency.

Since the war, 10 per cent of the banks in the country—mostly small country banks—have failed, and there is increasing evidence that a struggle for survival in banking is now under way on a grand scale.

The Investment Bankers' Association of America, which is holding its eighteenth annual convention here this week, has initiated a first-hand study of the investment policies of typical American banks of moderate size and has disclosed some defects, especially in regard to handling secondary reserves—the additional reserve resources which supplement deposits at the Federal Reserve banks.

A survey reveals the lack of definite standards for proper proportions for the earning assets of the banks, consisting of loans direct to customers, commercial paper, acceptances and bonds.

NEED FOR LIQUIDITY

James H. Daggett, of the Marshall-Ilsley Bank, of Milwaukee, in making these revelations in behalf of the education committee of the association, disclosed:

"The co-operative study of particular banks (in the Middle West and in two Eastern states) reveals the important fact that fully 50 per cent, and in some instances more, of the local bank loans are renewed; that there is a very general lack of self-liquidating loans, and that this short-term credit does not represent working capital, but fixed capitals that more properly could be provided in some form of long-term credit. The committee does not wish to suggest that renewals may not be wholly proper and desirable, but to point out the fact that fixed capital requirements are being met with short-term credit and that the result is an undesirable situation of non-liquidity.

"It reveals the need for greater liquidity and a better balance between commercial paper bankers' bills and bonds suitably selected for the individual needs of the banks. As to the ratio of local loans and discounts to total deposits, the practices in these various banks was from 40 to 60 per cent of the deposits, with the average nearer 40 than 60.

"In one bank, this rate was 50 per cent, which the banker said was too high, but that it was impossible for him to lower it. The bank across the street had approximately 80 per cent of its deposits in local loans and discounts.

"This is a typical example of a rather usual condition."

BANK STUDY IMPORTANT

Nothing that the association has been doing outranks in importance these original studies in banking policy. In the coming decade the struggle will not be so much between chain banks and unit banks as between inefficient banks and efficient banks and no one can doubt which will win out. As the country attains economic maturity, unquestionably some small town bankers are retarded by an undue affection for their customers.

Accordingly, they are inclined to be willing to renew local loans indefinitely, and to tie up too large a proportion of their resources in local illiquid loans, forgetting that their first duty is to their depositors, to whom they have to demand obligations. Two astutely managed banks in Miami, Fla. withstood amazingly rapid withdrawals of deposits after the collapse of the land boom. If they had been tied up with frozen local loans to an undue extent they would have been hard pressed indeed, but instead they were in a uniquely liquid position, with the bulk of their assets invested in call loans, commercial paper and marketable securities in the central money market.

The convention seriously discussed from the floor the methods of better competing for the attention of delegates with the leisure arts. One answer would be to discontinue the policy of making all reports "safe and sane" instead of forestalling controversy. The convention ought to seek to stimulate forthright debate and open discussion. Instead the board of governors' steam roller eliminates in advance all the rough edges from committee reports.

Another suggestion would be to get the field marshals of finance, instead of the second lieutenants, to appear on the platform. Speakers such as Thomas W. Lamont, Otto H. Kahn, Sidney Z. Mitchell and O. P. Van Sweringen would stop the exodus to the golf links.

INVESTMENT MORATORIUM

Francis E. Frothingham, of Coffin & Burr, Inc., Boston, gave a singularly thoughtful and meaty report on public utility securities. Referring to the recent boom in utility holding company shares, Mr. Frothingham indicated that there had been a temporary moratorium on sound investment principles.

"It is certainly open to question," this banker warned, "if in too many instances futures are not being overpaid for. The principles of sound investment cannot permanently be set aside. That they have been temporarily so set aside has but made exceptional opportunities for prudent investors to buy the senior securities (bonds) of established properties—and nowhere is the opportunity more attractive for the practice of these sound principles than in the public utility field.

ANNOUNCING a special showing of FORD CARS

October 19 to 22 Inclusive

HOTEL SCHENLEY

ADMISSION FREE . . 10 A.M. TO 11 P.M.

When the Ford car was first introduced, there were but six body types. In the past year, this number has been increased to twelve, in keeping with the public's wishes and the Ford policy of constantly improving the car, mechanically and in beauty of line, color and finish.

Today, the Ford body types include the Roadster, Phaeton, Business Coupe, Standard Coupe, Sport Coupe, Tudor Sedan, Two-window Fordor Sedan, Three-window Fordor Sedan, Convertible Cabriolet, Town Sedan, Town Car and Station Wagon — an unusually wide selection. So that you may see all of these body types, in all the new colors, a Special Ford Showing will be held October 19 to 22 inclusive, at the Hotel Schenley. The hours are from 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. Admission is free. The showing is of particular interest because it is the first time it has been possible to obtain all the new Ford cars, in all the new colors, for display in this city.

Ford

Ford dealers will be glad to send a car to your home or office to take you to this special showing. There will be no charge for this service. Just telephone the nearest Ford dealer.

STOCK MARKET UNSETTLED BY LOAN RISE

Some Issues Decline 10 Points but Rally Slightly on Covering

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Further unsettlement developed in today's stock market as a result of the uneasiness created by the sharp rise in brokers' loans last week to within $3,000,000 of the record high.

Extreme declines in many of the active issues ranged from 1 to 10 points, but recoveries, running as high as 4 points, took place in some issues in the early afternoon as a result of short covering. Trading showed a tendency to turn dull on the rallies and speed up on the declines.

While short selling was again an important factor in the public utility group, the size of the short interest in some of the industrials has reached unwieldy proportions, leading to occasional flurries of buying as bears rush to cover. Leading commission houses continue to advise their customers to lighten commitments and exercise extreme care in the making of new purchases until the market has given a definite indication that it has touched bottom.

FACE LOAN GAIN

With nearly $200,000,000 in new financing called for payment this week, including the Marine, Midland and Texas Corporation issues, Wall street was faced with the possibility of a further increase in loans next week to another new high record unless heavy liquidation should develop before next Tuesday. Meanwhile, credit conditions continue to ease. Call money dropped today from 6 to 5 per cent as banks sought to employ surplus funds over the week-end, and the time money market continued quiet.

Standard Gas and Electric broke 9 points, American Power and Light 7, Johns Manville 7 and American Telephone, General Electric, Consolidated Gas, Simmons, St. Louis Southwestern, Columbian Carbon, Montgomery-Ward and Murray Corporation sold off 5 to 6½ points, but General Electric regained its loss and some of the others made partial recovery.

HITS NEW LOW

International Combustion preferred advanced 3½ points to 79 and then broke to a new low at 64. The common touched a new low at 26¼. Crosley Radio broke 13¾ points to a new low at 62¼. Curtiss-Wright, Eaton Axle and Kolster Radio were among the many other issues to sell at new low prices for the year.

Coal issues showed independent strength on buying influenced by the colder weather. Elkhorn common and preferred and Pittsburgh Coal preferred moved into new high ground for the year, the gains ranging from 2½ to 6 points.

Several high priced stocks made substantial gains during the last hour, Western Union advancing 8 points, National Lead 5, Columbian Carbon 4 and General Electric 3. Adams Express extended its rise to 536. U. S. Steel, however, met fresh selling after it had crossed 219, and Murray Corporation dropped to a new low at 45. The closing tone was heavy. Total sales approximated 3,200,000 shares.

PGH. STEEL NET ABOVE 1928

The Pittsburgh Steel Company reports for the three months ending September 30, 1929, net profit of $1,058,124 after all charges and federal taxes equal after preferred dividends to $3.45 a share on 253,500 common shares outstanding during the period.

This compares with $4.89 a share the previous quarter and $2.85 a share in the same quarter last year.

The net profit for the nine months of the present calendar year is $3,850,291, after all charges, interest, depreciation and federal taxes, equal, after preferred dividends, to more than $13 a share on the common.

LOCAL MARKET QUOTATIONS STEADY

Narrow Price Movements In Trading Here With Volume Showing Decline

Price movements were narrow in the early trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, with recent leaders holding close to previous levels and the market giving no reflection of the unsettlement on the "big board."

There was no concentration of activity in any particular group or issue. Lone Star Gas, leader of the fuel division, opened unchanged at 56 and ranged around that figure. In the selling wave yesterday, Lone Star dropped from 57½ to 53, but rallied at the close to 56. Western Public Service was also narrow, but a slight dip was sufficient to register a new low for current trading.

In the industrial section only a small volume of dealings took place. Blaw Knox was steady around 55. Copperweld opened with an overnight gain of a point, while Suburban Electric Development showed a loss of a point from its last previous sale.

International Rustless Iron got a late start and was in supply at times, selling off to a new low for the movement. Witherow Steel reflected higher earnings expectations and sold up sharply in the early afternoon.

How Selfridge Compares U. S. and Britain

By B. C. FORBES

H. GORDON SELFRIDGE, who started as a boy in Marshall Field's basement and rose to a partnership, is here from London, where he has built up the foremost department store in Britain, giving employment, with his other activities, to 15,000 workers. Twenty-three years' residence in Britain has fitted this progressive, brainy, enterprising merchant to compare life there with life here and to see how the business men of each country could benefit by adopting the best the other country offers.

In a chat with the writer, Mr. Selfridge made interesting, refreshing, illuminating observations.

MOST American business men clutter themselves up with too much work which they should delegate to others, this experienced authority declares. Although Mr. Selfridge personally directs the management of his great London store as well as a number of provincial stores, he remarked:

"I never let myself become too busy. I so handle my affairs that I see people the instant they come to my office. I surround myself with barriers; I am always accessible to anybody in my organization and to anybody else who has any occasion to want to see me. Channel swimmers, royalty, trans-Atlantic fliers, statesmen, actors and actresses, notable American visitors all drop in—I have a wonderful collection of signatures exhibited in my office."

MR. SELFRIDGE went on: "The United States is fortunate in not being retarded by traditions, by feudal ideas. America's virility is magnificent. There is here a new civilization pulsating with energy, lavishly enriched by natural resources.

"But you hurry and rush too much. Haste, the product of youth and enthusiasm, is not always desirable. Too many American business men never seem able to catch up with their work—and their play. They are forever feverishly active, striving desperately to clear their feet.

"The British don't rush to work early in the morning, bolt their lunch and scamper off at breaking speed to keep some evening engagement. They have learned poise, which is lacking here. Life there contains more dignity. Their civilization, their art of living is more rational, more beautiful, more attractive. Nobody in Britain gets excited. Nobody works at feverish pace."

AFTER a pause, Mr. Selfridge went on:

"If Britain would only adopt some of America's modernized business methods, some of its scientific industrial management, it would make more progress towards regaining maximum prosperity. British industry and British business unquestionably could and should learn something useful from America.

"I make a point of re-visiting this country periodically because I learn something new on each trip. It would be helpful if many leaders of British industry and business would come over and see how things are done here. Of course, the British will pull through—they are pulling through. They have a solidity of character which wins one's admiration. They have infinite tenacity of purpose. Adversity doesn't destroy their spirit, doesn't kill their faith. They doggedly, resolutely, imperturbably carry on. You can't but respect and admire them.

"WHAT a happy blend, what a happy civilization, would a mixture of the best qualities of the two nations make! Britain could profitably adopt a measure of American initiative and energy and resourcefulness and progressiveness and enthusiasm. America could equally profitably adopt a large measure of Britain's poise and dignity and imperturbability.

"In other words, if the motherland could imbibe and apply some of the youthful characteristics of this dynamic young nation, and if this young nation would adopt some of the finer qualities age and experience and maturity have given the motherland, the combination would be delightful.

"And it is coming. I know that Britain is beginning to realize the wisdom of adopting certain American methods which have proved successful. And the growth and spread of wealth here will doubtless bring improvement in the art of living, especially in the wise creation and utilization of leisure."

MR. SELFRIDGE sees nothing but further growth looming ahead here. Only, he declares that something drastic must be done in cities to prevent traffic congestion from reaching the point of disastrous chaos. Here, he emphasizes, is a problem worthy of America's genius and ingenuity.

STOCK PROFITS BLOCK BOND POPULARITY

Comeback of Fixed Rate Securities Held Certain, However; Lower Yield Seen

QUEBEC, Oct. 18.—That bonds will again become popular and will sell to yield lower incomes than at the present time was predicted yesterday at the convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America by Harry H. Bemis, of Curtis & Sanger, chairman of the sub-committee on trends of the business.

Bemis emphasized the fact that income remains and will always remain essential to the investor. While bonds will come back this is not likely to happen as long as stock market profits encourage speculation, nor until interest rates are more normal.

That the road of bonds may be rough for some time to come was recognized, however. Bemis stated that there is no reason to suppose that the cost of credit will be materially less in the immediate future. But he considered the return in demand for fixed rate securities to be sufficiently certain to justify members of the association in keeping their selling organizations in such shape as to handle business when it comes.

LOWER RETURNS SEEN

Although he did not attempt to justify the present levels of stocks he pointed to the fact that investment returns on the best stocks will permanently be lower than before the war. This is due to the change of the position of the United States as debtor to a creditor nation. In other creditor nations conservative securities have sold to yield lower returns than American investments before the war when this was a debtor nation.

"Our efficiency and the promising growth of business, especially in public utilities, should give these stocks greater prospect of profitable growth than has been true in the case of foreign nations in the past," said Bemis.

"In a word, we believe in the continuing prosperity of the country. However, the increase in prices of our equities seems bound to slow down. Perhaps we have already overpriced some of them. Common stocks would seem destined to be accepted and approved as a much more important form of investment than before the war. In shaping our business policies we should recognize this fact."

PROBLEMS REVIEWED

In commenting on the trend towards consolidation of investment banking organizations Bemis predicted that competition, particularly in distribution, would be keener than in the past. Arthur H. Gilbert, of Spencer, Trask & Co., reviewed the various problems of the investment business. His talk covered the difficulties of syndicate operation, unsatisfactory practices in the municipal bond field and other operating and sales difficulties.

Samuel K. Cunningham, of Glover, MacGroger & Cunningham, of Pittsburgh, proposed that the association take some action on the practice of issuing houses devoting an entire day to selling muncipal issues before telegrams are sent to other distributors. He was answered by Gilbert who expressed the opinion that this was a problem of each individual organization and should not properly be acted upon by the convention.

FRAUD PREVENTION

The report of the special committee on fraud prevention stated that meetings had been held with various fraud prevention agencies. The question of establishing a permanent organization to co-ordinate these activities was discussed. The committee recommended the organization of a permanent national conference but stated that it should not engage in actual fraud prosecution and expressed the opinion that the Investment Bankers' Association should not take the lead in such a development, but should wait until the attitude of other interested organizations became known.

The report favored the expansion of the facilities of the Postoffice Department for the prevention of frauds but stated that the efforts of the budget bureau to reduce the postoffice deficit might constitute a bar to this devedopment.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Acute weakness again cropped out on the Curb Exchange today as the utility stocks, the dominant group on this market, continued downhill with renewed celerity. The overnight announcement of another upturn in brokers' loans, practically wiping out the decline of the previous week, and carrying the total once more close to its record level, started a storm of selling, both on the Curb and the Stock Exchange.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Rational Stock Levels Due Soon, Bankers Predict

By GEORGE B. SNYDER.
Staff Correspondent.

QUEBEC, Que., Oct. 18.—A single prediction has been outstanding in nearly all of the addresses made at the convention of the American Bankers' Association which draws to a close today. Stocks have advanced beyond all justification and more rational levels will be established some time soon. Starting with the president's opening speech and continuing through the reports of fully half the committees, this statement has been reiterated over and over.

The fact that the business of many of the delegates will be better when the speculative wave comes to an end may have been father to this thought but there has been excellent logic to back up the opinion. The same reasons could have been presented a year ago and they would have been equally convincing except that the stock market has given pronounced evidence of unsettlement at various times in the past few weeks.

Equity Securities in Permanent Place

IN throwing their stones at stock prices, however, the investment bankers have been careful to make it plain that equity securities have found a permanent place for themselves in public estimation even though this place will not be so great as under current abnormal conditions. Mr. Investor, whether he has a thousand or a million to play with, has learned the advantage of sharing ownership of our country's prosperity instead of being merely a creditor.

What most of these people in Quebec believe is that a little more attention is going to be paid to earnings and dividends of common stocks when people find that the market does not go up forever. The future will always be discounted but not our grandchildren's future.

And while Mr. Investor is going to have more common stocks in his box than before the war he may soon notice that many high grade bonds are selling to yield a very comfortable return. When it is not so easy to make money in the stock market he will again start to pick bonds to give his list of holdings a little more balance.

As one delegate put it, it may be all right for a bank stock to sell for 85 times its earnings but it isn't putting much jam on my bread unless the stock is going to go up 20 points tomorrow.

Smaller Stock Yields Seen

EVEN at that, however, they admit that the yield of stocks in the future will not be as great as before the war. This will be the natural result of the change of the United States from a debtor to a creditor nation. The financial history of European nations has shown that stock yields of debtor nations are invariably higher than those of creditor nations. This is due to the fact that the debtor nation must pay a higher rate in order to attract foreign capital to develop its industries, railroads and utilities.

But even in creditor nations this yield or the immediate prospects for a yield must be within reason, market prices seem to have advanced beyond this reasonable point in the opinion of most of the committees reporting to the convention.

The convention has failed to say much of great importance about investment trusts except that some of their stocks appear to have advanced too far as have stocks of industrial organizations. One fact has been mentioned several times, however. Management must be scrutinized with the greatest care by the purchaser of investment trust securities. Some of the reports have also questioned the action of investment trust stocks when the price of industrial issues turns downward.

Deterding Denies Shell-Sinclair Combination

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Denial of reports of an impending consolidation between the Sinclair oil interests of America and the Royal Dutch Shell Petroleum Corporation was made here today by Sir Henri Deterding, chairman of the latter concern.

"I have had no discussions in any way, shape or form with any one from the Sinclair interests," Sir Henri told International News Service.

"About two months ago I did have half an hour's conversation with E. G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, but it had no connection whatever with any business with Sinclair."

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Reports current in Wall street today said rumors of a forthcoming agreement between Sinclair and the Royal Dutch had been strengthened by the departure of G. T. Stanford, counsel for the Sinclair interests, for Europe. It was reported he planned conferences with Sir Henri Deterding, and that Seubert, already in Europe, would partake in the discussions.

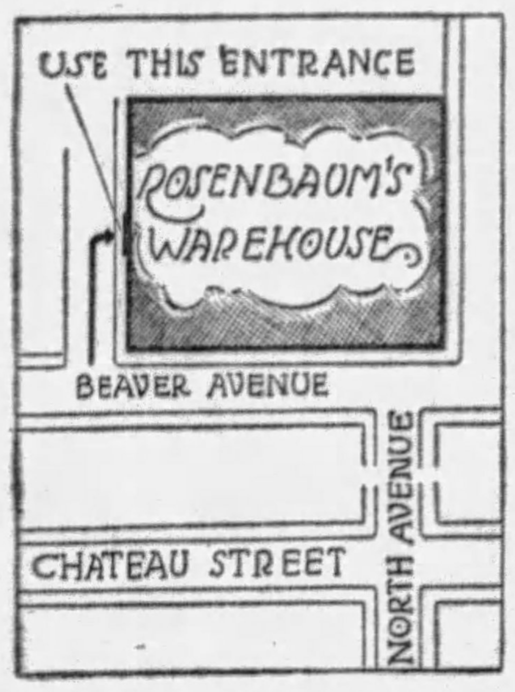
It's a sensational clearance—a drastic sweeping out of everything that for any reason should be moved at once.

Some things slashed to the quick—others not so drastically cut but remarkable bargains nevertheless. Some are odd items—been here a season or two—but it is not undesirable merchandise.

You'll be amazed at the size of the stocks all told and the emphatic Price Cuts on everything.

Every Sale Is Final. No Exchanges or Credits. And All for Immediate Delivery. Nothing Held



HOW TO GET THERE:
Take Car No. 19 at Sixth and Penn—or No. 20 at Fancourt and Penn. No. 20 goes direct to Warehouse. No. 19 goes to Pennsylvania and Beaver—2 minutes' walk. Parking space for all who drive.

More Miles From Tires.
Make your old tires help you pay for the new! It may be economy for you to buy new tires when the old ones show wear, but it's needless waste to throw the old ones away.
There are many hundreds, even thousands, of miles of service still in them—and many auto owners who have the time and mechanical ability are seeking just such as you have been throwing away.
So advertise your used tires in the Classified Ads—it's economy for you, and economy for those who come to buy.

Walter Winchell
On Broadway

Things I Never Knew Till Now

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.

THAT the grandest of the torch chunes, "Ain't Misbehavin," was conceived while "Fats" Waller was in the alimony jail.

That Boston is the only town in the United States where most dwellers pay their rents every week instead of each month.

That absinthe cannot be bought in Paris or Montreal anymore.

That when Eleanor Griffith, the actress, married John Halliday, the actor, a clause in their marriage contract was that she would let her blond hair return to its natural shade—brown.

GETS TWO A MONTH

THAT Babe Ruth, who never had a gray hair in his dome until seven months ago, now has fourteen of them.

That on every corner of every street crossing Fifth avenue, from Central Park south to Washington Square there is a fire hydrant, or four to each block.

That Vulcan, "the lost planet," never existed.

That in the "Let Us Be Gay" show, the star, Francine Larrimore, "improvises" a song that was written by Con Conrad, her ex-strife.

AS THEY LIKE IT

THAT men are the least of their troubles, but women make most of them.

That RCA is going to terrific expense making a sound picture of Chic Sales reciting his "The Specialist" classic because the studio hands and others laugh boisterously and force numerous "retakes."

That Alice Foote MacDougall is not related to "Feet" Edson.

That the circus season was so good this year all press agents and advance men received $500 bonuses.

That Sidney Smith, the cartoonist, has a life-sized gilded statue of Andy Gump on the lawn of his Lake Geneva estate.

That if you do not eat all your food at a certain restaurant the waitress must get your reason and make a report.

NEW HAVEN BLUES

THAT you can't even play checkers on the N. Y., N. H. & Hartford Railroad trains on the Sabbath.

That Rosa Ponselle has a brother who can sing better than any Met star, but he prefers his coal business.

That Gertrude Hoffman has 50 pussy-cats in her home.

That Martha Ostenso, who wrote the hit novel, "Wild Geese," asserts the correct pronunciation of her name is Er-shten-her.

That most people break matches or crack their knuckles when they are nervous, but Theodore Dreiser tears handkerchiefs.

That Lucius Boomer, president of the new Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, was a $15 a week stenog not so long ago.

That an actress who was famous internationally for her legs is now chambermaiding at the Park Central Hotel.

UNLESS IT BREAKS

That no one ever died of a broken heart.

That the reason it is held unlucky to spill salt is that salt is the symbol of hospitality and friendship.

That all Arabs hate whistling and contend that after whistling it takes 40 days to purify the mouth. Of all things!

That children's dresses may be made almost fireproof by adding dissolved alum to the rinsing water or starch.

That the leading man in the grand comedy, "Strictly Dishonorable," does not play the piano, which specialty got him fine critical comment.

That Ruth Etting's pet gag deals with the hams who were playing on the Pantages Circuit and they were spotted No. 4 on the program. After the opening matinee, because they flopped, they were switched to the deuce spot, the most unimportant of the locations. So they got indignant and telegraphed Pantages.

"If you don't give us back our original spot," they wired, "we will make trouble for you."

And the current nifty along Broadway and in Los Angeles is: "Well, so long. See you on the Pan Time—if he gets any."

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES
DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

Children CRY for it

It may be the little stomach; it may be the bowels are sluggish. No matter what coats a child's tongue, its a safe and sensible precaution to give a few drops of Castoria. This gentle regulation of the little system soon sets things to rights. A pure vegetable preparation that can't harm a wee infant, but brings quick comfort—even when it is colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance.

And don't forsake Castoria as the child grows older. If you want to raise boys and girls with strong systems that will ward off constipation, stick to good old Castoria; and give nothing stronger when there's any irregularity except on the advice of a doctor. Castoria is sold in every drugstore, and the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

Positively Sensational!

PRIZE WINNER IN OUR ONE-ACT DRAMA CONTEST

(News Item.)

NEW BRITAIN, Conn.—Policeman Brophy drove in the patrol to 155 Winter st., where he found a man lying on the sidewalk, a woman bending over him solicitously and her eight-year-old daughter standing near crying.

The woman was trying to shield the man against a crowd. "Please don't arrest him," she begged. "We've been married 15 years and never had any trouble. He's a good husband."

"If he's hurt, lady, we'll take him to a hospital; if he's drunk, we'll have to take him in," said the policeman.

Assured the man was drunk, the officer put him in the patrol. "Then I'm going to stay right with my husband," said the woman, and she and the child climbed in.

"What's your name?" the man was asked at headquarters as he staggered against the desk.

"Julio Oreszizo."

The woman, standing nearby, then took a long look at him and gasped. "My goodness," she cried, "he's not my husband at all."

Apologetic, she hurried from the station.

Big River Celebration Of National Importance

With the first event of the celebration of the completion of the canalization of the Ohio voiced in speeches, the echoes of which will reverberate through cities the entire length of the river, extending "on to Cairo," where it will be heard one week from Saturday, a festive demonstration 937 miles in length and more than a week in duration was begun last night at a banquet here. In attendance were members of President Hoover's cabinet and other figures in official Washington, Governors Fisher, of Pennsylvania, and Conley, of West Virginia, presidents of leading railroads and other corporations, and many other prominent men.

The picturesque feature of the local celebration, the river pageant, is scheduled for today. Tomorrow the steamship, Greater Pittsburgh, will depart with representatives of this district to participate in celebrations of the same event to be held in Huntington, W. Va., Cincinnati, Louisville, Evansville, Ind., and Cairo, Ill. The last listed for October 26.

While this celebration is confined to five states the completion of a river channel, that makes shipping possible all the year round, regardless of dry seasons which no longer hold the threat of low river stages, is of national importance. It affects states bordering the Mississippi as well as those along the Ohio. It means a saving in freight rates estimated at $25,000,000 annually. It means more that eventually, with the development of rail-river transportation that will make our waterways available to inland shippers. And a saving of $25,000,000 in industry is just as significant in an economic sense as the production of commodities having the same value.

The river route to such points as it can serve economically eventually will prove an industrial factor in the matter of location of plants and as such it will affect values in many directions, and present opportunities for development not now visible but certain to eventuate.

It is partly because of such potentialities that we had such a distinguished assemblage of visitors here—including those who in formal speeches stressed the present of the rivers, the prospective benefits and future development, as well as men of vision of the business world who see far ahead and prepare to meet a situation in advance of its coming.

Pittsburgh, of course, is proud to honor such men, and we assume that is a matter of gratification to them to be guests of our city on such an occasion. We hope their visit will be pleasant. And congratulate ourselves for having the opportunity to be host.

A meaningful note of the banquet was the expression that there should issue from the assemblage "an American council of transportation, headed by the great leaders at this table." The suggestion, made by the toastmaster, James Francis Burke, was seconded by Gen. W. W. Atterbury, and indorsed by others, including Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce. The warmth with which the proposal was received is an indication that there is great desire among representatives of some branches of transportation that there be closer co-operation between all branches.

Radio Provision Repeal Would Hurt Development

Repeal of the anti-monopoly provisions of the radio act of 1927 would be a downright nullification of the unmistakably plain intent of the Congress which wrote Section 17 into that law to protect radio communication from monopoly.

And those financial interests which have organized a countrywide effort to repeal Section 17 of the radio act are attempting to thwart the will of Congress, sacrifice the public interest, and stifle the development of radio as an active competitor of the cable in communication with foreign countries.

It was the fear of some such attempt by special interests that caused the Congress to write into the radio act its anti-monopoly provisions.

And the purpose of these was clearly defined by Congressman White, of Maine, when the radio act was before the House. He collaborated with Senator Dill, of Washington, in the framing of that legislation. And here is what Congressman White said at that time concerning the intent of Congress:

"This bill contains a prohibition against radio companies acquiring ownership or control of wire companies, or by wire companies acquiring control of radio companies, engaged in foreign communication if the purpose or effect thereof is to stifle competition between these two means of communication. We hope by this provision to preserve competitive conditions between cable and radio in interoceanic communications."

Some of the legislators were in favor of more rigid safeguards against monopoly. But it was pointed out that Congress was dealing with a new means of communication which was fighting to develop its usefulness in a field in which telephones, telegraphs and cables were already strongly entrenched.

And rather than jeopardize the further development of radio, Congress accepts the assurance of the framers of the radio act that the anti-monopoly provisions of the general law and of Section 17 provides all the safeguards for the development of radio as an active competitor of the cables that public safety requires.

Experience has vindicated the action which Congress took at that time. For it is solely because Section 17 is serving the purpose for which its anti-monopoly provisions were written into the law that powerful financial interests are now scheming to bring about its repeal.

Instead of encouraging the development of radio as a competitor in foreign communication, they would have the public believe that radio is a supplement to the cables rather than as a competitor, and that radio should be merged with and subordinated to the cables.

This contention flies in the face of all the facts of record here and elsewhere. And it contradicts the statements made less than two years ago by some of the financial interests which are now working for the repeal of Section 17.

All the evidence before the Radio Commission goes to show that whenever and wherever there has been direct competition between wireless communication and wire communication the result has been a reduction of rates. This reduction was made first by the wireless companies and was thereafter met by the wire companies. And in each case the public was the gainer.

All the anti-monopoly provisions of the radio act of 1927 must be embodied in the Couzens bill to create a federal commission on power and communication if that commission is to have the power to prevent monopoly from seizing the control of the air, stifling the development of radio, and becoming an absolute dictator in the whole field of communications.

Canada is already alarmed by the threat of such a disaster. A Canadian commission which has been studying radio conditions in Canada, has already recommended that the government build, maintain and operate all radio stations within the Dominion.

And Senator Dill did not exaggerate when he warned the Senate recently that unless the Radio Commission or its successor controls the air and protects radio from falling into the greedy grip of monopoly, public sentiment will "drive Congress to put all radio under control of the government."

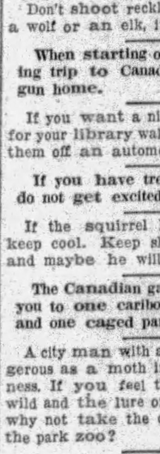
"Bugs" Baer Says:

Arms and the Man

OCTOBER is the sportsman's paradise. The State Conservation Department pleads with you not to bring your guide back in your game bag.



"Bugs" Baer

Last year in one state there were 35 medium-sized sportsmen knocked off by their pals. Over 60 others were injured.

Indicating that some shootings are still accidents.

The state authorities have drawn up a list of field rules which will prevent your hunting partner from knocking you off before you get a chance to shoot him.

If you are wearing a red coat and still look like a moose, then, that's your own fault.

Never point your gun at a companion. He may be from Chicago.

Don't shoot recklessly. If it ain't a wolf or an elk, it's Lon Chaney.

If you have treed a squirrel, do not get excited.

If the squirrel has treed you, keep cool. Keep shooting at him and maybe he will get disgusted.

A city man with a gun is as dangerous as a moth in the fur business. If you feel the call of the wild and the lure of the unknown, why not take the children out to the park zoo?

The state realizes that citizens are careless in the silent woods and makes every hunter wear a license on his back. They should also be compelled to wear front bumpers and a tail light.

The second article of a series by Arthur "Bugs" Baer on "Baer Facts in Hollywood" will appear Sunday in the City Life Section of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

ESAU

By Herbert Kaufman

THE Fates, from whom all good dramatists crib their BEST plots, directed that the last act of his sordid and protracted tragedy should open in the presence of Ramsay MacDonald—the highest ranking European official Washington had ever entertained.

Contrast establishes values—and HUMILIATIONS.

A few years back, it would have been his vested privilege to help receive the nation's distinguished guest, and occupy a Cabinet member's seat at the formal White House dinner to the British Premier.

A few years back, Hoover and Fall were confreres and administration equals.

RUMOR even insisted that Hughes was merely a State Department stop-gap, who would later resign to make way for Fall's appointment.

Certainly, no one in those days stood closer to Executive favor, or was a more potent figure in Federal affairs.

Fall had followed the Lincoln tradition—had graduated from the same mean and arduous beginnings—had also hitched his wagon to a wilderness star.

He, TOO, was a barefoot illiterate, with one suit of jeans to his name.

He, TOO, had desperately snatched education from random books, and, by eighteen, was a self-qualified teacher.

BETWEEN eighteen and twenty, he read law. He farmed. He ranched. He mined. He entered the Legislature. He became Attorney-General of New Mexico. And he sat on her Supreme Bench.

Then, thrice elected to the Senate, he resigned in mid-term to enter Harding's Cabinet.

Anybody might be proud of SUCH a record. And Fall WAS proud.

How many had come farther or demonstrated, step by step, greater fitness for political captaincy and community confidence?

His was FRONTIER pride—the pride of the pioneer—the pride that asks no odds and begs no quarter—the pride of men who preferred to die rather than LOSE FACE before their fellows.

And this is the man whom destiny called to trial, in the National Capital, just when every possible circumstance could EMPHASIZE his ostracism.

THE Government has twice accused Fall of conspiring with Harry Sinclair and Edward Doheny against the public interest. And twice FAILED to secure conviction.

But the Supreme Court, dissenting from jury opinion, has excoriatingly denounced the Elk Hill leases and forever branded the transaction with infamy.

Even if found GUILTY, prevalent sentiment would wish to see him go free.

He has already served sentence. General condemnation has ALREADY taken his pound of flesh—AND CUT IT FROM THE HEART.

He has already served a five-year term in Hell—and LOST HIS FACE.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

SOME day there will be another war. When that day comes, the drums will roll and the guns will crash and you and I will be rarin' to go. We do not believe that now. We do not think, now, that we will ever want to see another war. But the chances are that, when the war comes, we'll be as mad for it as anyone. We will forget all our fine resolutions—our Christian principles. We will become drunk with excitement and hate and we will go around yelling about "glory" and "patriotism" and urging our sons to enlist.

The only thing that can prevent that shameful day is a KNOWLEDGE OF WHAT WAR REALLY MEANS . . . WHAT "GLORY" REALLY COSTS . . . and the time to learn about that is NOW, while our heads are fairly cool. There is a book from which we may learn about war, very accurately. It is called "ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT," and it is by Erich Maria Remarque.

This book tells the story of a 19-year-old boy's experience in the World War. It is actually the experience of Remarque, himself. It is a terrible story—an unbelievably hideous story. I am used to hideous stories, but when I read that record I could hardly bear it. I read a little and found myself shuddering. I read some more and shook like an ague with rage . . . then found my face wet with tears . . . then had to lay it aside, for I was gagging.

There are pictures in that book which brand you.

"We see men living with their skulls blown open; we see soldiers run with their two feet cut off, they stagger on their splintered stumps into the next shell hole; a lance corporal crawls a mile and a half on his hands, dragging his mashed knee after him; another goes to the dressing station, and over his clasped hands bulge his intestines; we see men without mouths, without jaws, without faces; we find one man who has held the artery of his arm in his teeth for two hours in order not to bleed to death."

He tells of little boys of 15 and 16, recruits, their small, skinny bodies dressed in uniforms grotesquely large—killed by the thousands, because they are too young to protect themselves. There, on the field, they lie dying, "so terrified they dare not cry out loudly, but with battered chests and torn bellies and arms and legs only whimper softly for their mothers, and cease as soon as one looks at them. Their sharp, downy, dead faces have the awful expressionlessness of dead children."

There are frightful things, but there is something still more frightful in that book, and that is the dead tone of the man who writes it.

This man went into the war a hopeful, dreaming boy. He went into the war believing in the world, believing in his country, in life, in honor and other men. He came out seared, without a hope or dream or illusion left. To live on like that is a more terrible thing than to die. To live on like that is a worse thing for the world, for these blasted men must carry on the race, these men without illusion or desire, whom the war killed and yet left living.

That is what war IS. That is what war DOES to those who live through it, and to those generations which live after it and pay its price. You had better read that book.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

5. THE SUBJECTIVE SIDE OF LIFE.

ONE characteristic of life we have not yet noted is feeling. We react to external stimulus, and we not only react but feel. We are conscious and we have every reason to suppose that a great proportion at least of the living creatures about us are conscious, too.

H. G. Wells

When we see an oyster close its shell at the jabbing of a stick or a lobster search with its feet and pincers for a fragment of food, it seems natural to assume that these creatures also are feeling, after a fashion in which we feel when we recoil from disagreeable or respond to agreeable sensations.

We seem to detect shrinking and appetite even in the microscopic amoeba, and Sir Jagadis Chandler Bose, by a system of ingenious measurements, shows how even plants appear to be elated or depressed by the application of favorable or unfavorable substances, how they will seem to shudder at this or writhe at that in a fashion suggestive of feeling.

But even a wire spring can be made to shudder at a touch. For all we know, there may be gladness in dancing waves and a real freshness in the sunrise itself.

So far as our knowledge goes, all feeling, all consciousness, requires concurrent material changes.

One cannot imagine any sort of intelligible emotion in a piece of zinc that is dissolving in hydrochloric acid; one does not suspect litmus of shame because it blushes at the touch of vitriol.

The idea of feeling in inorganic material processes is an almost mathematical abstraction.

6. A PRELIMINARY VIEW OF LIVING FORMS.

Let us now consider how life in general as an external phenomenon presents itself to an ordinary intelligent human being who has had no special instruction in biology. In response to the question, what were the chief sorts of life, such a person would probably answer, plants and animals.

Our race has built its mind, its fears, panics, fables and beliefs on fur and feather and fin, and it is hard to think of a whole world of animated existence without them.

Aristotle we may take as standing in this matter on the dividing line between the unsystematic intelligent person and the systematic inquirer. He was one of the earliest men to become systematic.

He left no complete classification of animals, but he seems to have divided them into those with red blood and those without.

The former he subdivided into (1) Mammals (beasts) who bring forth their young alive, into which class he put men; (2) Birds; (3) Four-footed or creeping things (reptiles and amphibia) which lay eggs, and (4) Fishes.

The animals without red blood he referred to (1) a soft-bodied group, in which he put the octopus and squid; (2) a "soft-shelled" division of lobsters, crabs, shrimps and such like, with jointed bodies and limbs; (3) insects, with which he included spiders and scorpions; (4) creatures with hard protective outer shells like the snail, murex, oyster and sea urchins; and (5) zoophytes or plant-animals like sponges and sea-anemones. Later we shall give a contemporary classification which has replaced this preliminary survey of living forms.

What we find as we study the history of animal classification down to the present day is a very slight variation of the original classification of the more familiar animals and a steady increase of classes and distinctions among odd and less familiar forms. The naturalist kept opening up new departments with a sort of reluctance, as odd, intractable, unclassifiable riddles were forced upon his attention. Always until quite recent times in every classification there would be a kind of ragbag class, "Vermes," "Radiata," or "Zoophyta," into which all the residue of "puzzlers" would be thrust.

The systematic botanist kept a similar dump. He made a lovely classification of flowering plants, he never tired of arranging them, and then hurled all the awkward cases together into a division of "Cryptogams," which had nothing in common except that they had no flowers to be dried and put neatly between sheets of blotting paper.

It is among these queer, out-of-the way, low-caste flowers and plants, as we shall see, that some of the most interesting and illuminating work of modern times has been done.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Thoughts while strolling: Pert girls who drive stunty roadsters. And stop in traffic to light cigarets. The human oddity in a Tyrolean hat who parades around wearing a riding habit. Mrs. Enrico Caruso in deep purple. Rarely see cut glass any more. Lambert, the listerine man.

Walter Wanger's wild shirts from London. Sound pictures! What became of the game of authors? And picket hammocks? A pastry named for Ganna Walska. Suppressed mustaches. Haven't seen an ice wagon all summer. Alice Foote MacDougall, queen of the tea rooms. Who used to peddle coffee from door to door.

Wild west movies flourish on East Forty-second street. That "gone look" of people caught in traffic jams. Marilyn Miller's hair is a little reddish. Jack Hobby, who runs the Coconut Grove at Palm Beach. And knows everybody. Gene Markey, an Evanston, Ill., boy who made good in the city. George White—and what a showman!

Astronomy prices drop—you can now see the moon for a nickel. "Duke" Herrick, the park commissioner. A poetry bookshop run by a gink with a red smock and hair to his shoulders. An old theater with the Family Circle. Winnie Sheehan's long eye lashes. Those ripe mustache-sucking English colonels.

Pedestrians who idle in front of bank thrift signs dreaming big dreams. The taxi driver who sings operatic airs in a rich tenor. Ike Dorgan. Tad's brother. Broadway cafe sign: "Sunday breakfast from noon until dusk." Those crystal window models electrically lighted.

Fellow with a push cart passing a Rolls cries: "Also a good car." Who remembers when spinach was greens? Harry Thaw still running around loose. Shirts of "Whalen blue." Racing umbrellas with pencils in the handles. Radios have almost vanquished the organ grinders. Frances Williams and Claire Windsor look alike.

A futurist barber shop. Homer Croy's red tie. The old Chinese fortune teller who makes the rounds of the theater dressing rooms. Frank Huston and his dog. Irvin Cobb's daughter "Buff." The afternoon hush that comes to fashionable Park avenue.

A young newly married couple from the Middle West—Ohio to be specific—landed in Manhattan four years ago with $16. He took a job as shipping clerk while she worked in a manicure parlor. Both studied at night and on Sunday. In all this time they never saw a play, movie or dined at a public restaurant. An early morning walk in Central Park comprised their sole recreation. She is today owner of a flourishing beauty parlor and he is a $10,000 a year secretary to a railroad official. And that's a novel in a paragraph.

Greenwich Village is to have a coffee shop named "Buzzard's Beak" and of course, smart alecs will ask for carrion.

A restaurant in East Fifty-second street attributes a spurt of trade to the innovation of serving each patron with a free dish of home-made pickled watermelon rinds. It had struggled for some time with little trade until it sponsored this treat. And now turns 'em away.

One of Manhattan's hurricane executives with the wind in his teeth and a brain foaming new projects, has not slept more than four hours a night in 15 years and usually awakens at hour intervals for five or 10 minutes. He is in superb health and says more sleep makes him sluggish next day. All of which bears out a famed neurologist's contention that insomnia does little damage so long as one does not worry about it.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

When God Made Man

WHEN God made man, He gave
For his delight
By day the sky's blue wave,
The stars by night,

Above man's head He set,
Cloud-girt and dim,
The mountain's parapet
Like Heaven's white rim.

When God made man, He sent
Song to the sea;
Wind-voice and wave-voice blent
Their harmony.

These wonders all about
(Majestic things!)
God made, lest man should doubt
Whence being springs.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

EVERY day you do things that surprise you and for which you are unable to give a reason.

Yet you lose patience with persons who say "I don't know" when asked a reason or justification for an action.

You haven't any patience with a person who gives first one reason and then another. Yet every action is caused by many reasons, and is really more complex in its source than you think.

Little by little certain things react on your mind and finally get into your sub-conscious mind. A crisis comes and you do what is surprising to your friends and perhaps to yourself.

But which is the strongest reason is hard to say.

Other people are like yourself, not cut and dried creatures of the moment, but living photographs of past events. Study for yourself.
